GIRL CONFIRMS FIHELLY STORY OF HIS BEATING

Detective Was Slugged Before Her Door, She Avers.

ASSAILANTS STRUCK HIM AND FLED, CLAIM

Police Refuse to Name Midnight Hostess of Sergeant.

LETTERMAN FACING REPRIMAND ON RAID

Pratt Irked by Impression of Warrantless Foray Upon Public.

The young woman at whose apartment at Sixteenth and S streets northwest Detective Sergt. Arthur J. Fihelly was visiting when he was assaulted early Sunday morning yesterday verified to Inspector Louis J. Stoll the story of the affair told by the detective.

Although formal report was not submitted to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, by Inspector Stoll because the inspector desired to question others about the matter, it was disclosed that the story told by the detective and that told by the young woman jibe; that the detective reiterated his ignorance of who attacked him or why; that police of the Eighth Precinct, summoned by Mrs. Mary Laber, manager of the apartment house, said they had placed no charges against the detective because they believed his story that he was dazed from blows when he first was asked to account for himself.

Police officials refused to make public the name of the young woman upon whom Detective Sergt. Fihelly was calling. The young woman has an excellent reputation and is single, they said. They added that Fihelly also has a good reputation and that he also is single.

Report of Fihelly.

The report of Sergt. Fihelly, submitted to Inspector William S. Shelby, chief of detectives, and transmitted to Inspector Stoll, was that he met the young woman late Saturday night. He had known her for some time, but had not seen her for several months. At the time he met her he was accompanied by a male friend.

The trio decided to have supper, went to a restaurant on Pennsylvania avenue between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, and as it was crowded, sought another dining place, but that, too, was crowded, and after finding a third place near Union Station crowded the young woman suggested that they purchase food at a delicatessen and eat at her home. The food was bought, but the third man pleaded he was tired and went home.

It was while Detective Fihelly and the young woman were at supper in her apartment that a disturbance was heard in the hallway. He went to the door to ascertain the cause. As he opened the door, he said, he was struck a vicious blow which staggered him. He lurched toward his assailant and grabbed him, but was struck again and again. He did not recognize his assailant, he said, and he was so dazed that he did not remember anything else clearly until he was in the patrol on his way to the Eighth Precinct Station.

Woman Confirms Story.

The young woman confirmed the major part of his story, but said that the first she knew of any trouble was when the detective returned to the apartment, with a bleeding eye, took his hat and coat and left. Both Sergt. Fihelly and the young woman denied that any telephone calls were received at her apartment prior to the fracas. The detective yesterday still was on sick leave.

In the meantime the status of the warrantless liquor raid made by Sergt. O. J. Letterman, head of the vice squad, on the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Eleck Harmon, on S street near Sixteenth, last week, remained the same so far as police officials were aware.

No complaints have been filed against Sergt. Letterman or the members of his squad, although the Harmons were publicly invited to do so by Maj. Pratt and were assured that their complaints would be received and the men involved sent before the Police Trial Board. Inspector T. S. Bean has not completed his investigation of this case, although he is expected to submit a written report to the police chief today or tomorrow.

Pratt Irked by Raid.

Despite the fact that he has received no formal report on the raid by Sergt. Letterman, Maj. Pratt said yesterday that he would be cautioned that he must not make such raids in the future. That is the least that will be done in the case. Maj. Pratt feels that if the Harmons do not wish to go to the trouble of making formal complaint he would

Prosecution Refusal In Warrantless Rum Foray Brings Praise

"Common Sense Juror" Writes Hart He Would Not Aid in Any Conviction of Citizens Brought to Trial by Invasion of Homes.

Have you ever served on a jury in a liquor case?

If so, what is your view concerning police raids on private homes in search of liquor without a warrant?

Do you or don't you believe in the sanctity of the American home? That every man's home is his castle?

The Post, believing that the recent case in which Mr. and Mrs. Eleck Harmon were arrested by police, who invaded their home without a warrant, has created considerable partisan sentiment in favor of each side of the controversy, is anxious to learn, if possible, how the majority of its readers feel about such raids and arrests. If you believe the police were right, say so. And if you believe that Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart was right in refusing to prosecute the charge, say so.

Write your opinion and mail or deliver at The Post. No telephone opinions will be counted. All communications must be received not later than 6 o'clock Friday afternoon, April 4. All communications must be signed, although the name of the sender will not be used, if such request is made.

Expressing the belief that he voiced "the sentiment of any common-sense juror," Elmer W. Holland, with offices in the Colorado Building, has written Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart, in charge of liquor prosecutions in the Police Court, praising him for his action in refusing to prosecute Mr. and Mrs. Eleck Harmon, of 1631 S street northwest, on liquor charges growing out of a warrantless raid, and assuring the prosecutor that if he were a juror under no circumstances would he "aid in the conviction of outraged citizens brought to trial through any such unjustifiable action."

The Harmons were arrested last Friday when Sergt. O. J. Letterman and his squad went to their apartment in search of a man for whom they had an arrest warrant. The policeman claimed that they saw several containers of liquor when Mrs. Harmon invited them into the apartment, and that the search and arrest followed.

Sergt. Letterman and his squad did not have a warrant to search the residence for liquor and this fact was brought out by a neighbor of the couple, who also chanced to be a member of the District grand jury that went out of office Monday.

When the case reached Police Court Saturday morning, Mr. Hart refused to issue papers, thereby throwing the case out of court and releasing the

YANCEY PLANE FORCED TO SEA NEAR BERMUDA

Darkness Halts Nonstop Flight of Three From New York.

SHIP SETTLES DOWN FOR NIGHT ON DEEP

Island Goal but 60 Miles to South When Dusk Handicaps Hop.

START WAS MARKED BY MUCH DIFFICULTY

Crew Made Six Tries Before Heavily Laden Craft Lifted Load.

Hamilton, Bermuda, April 1 (A.P.). Lewis A. Yancey, veteran of a transatlantic flight last summer, who with two companions left North Beach, N. Y., this morning for a nonstop flight to Bermuda, was reported to have landed in a calm sea 60 miles off Bermuda tonight.

Yancey will resume the flight tomorrow at daybreak.

Bermuda had made all possible preparations to welcome the three aviators, though little information about the flight had been given out in advance. The various lighthouses were ordered to keep on the alert for sighting the airplane.

Ship Attempts Radio.

When night fell without any report of their arrival, fears were expressed that they had been forced to come down somewhere at sea and general orders were sent out for all ships in the vicinity of Bermuda to keep watch. Plans were made for the ships in the harbor and dockyard of Hamilton to flash their searchlights if the monoplane were still in the air.

The motor ship Bermuda, which left port for New York late today, wireless tonight that she had been unable to communicate with the aviators, but that weather conditions at sea were perfect.

The authorities here made a last, but unsuccessful, effort tonight to try to communicate with them. They sent a message to the S. S. Lady Somers, which left here at 5 p. m. and was thought probably to be in the waters where Capt. Yancy and his comrades were forced down, to try to locate the plane.

Six Hours Away.

An attempt to get the tug, "Powerful" to sea for a search was equally unsuccessful, the tug not being in shape to leave at once, but if the weather should change for the worse, which is not likely, it will proceed immediately to the rescue.

Though the exact spot where the aviators came down is not known by the authorities, it is supposed that six hours of steaming would be necessary to reach them.

Capt. Lewis A. Yancey, navigator of the New York-to-Bermuda flight, had believed his plane could make the 759-mile overwater flight in 8 hours.

VICTORY SEEN FOR CROSBY IN SENATE FRIDAY

Favorable Report to Be Made by District Committee.

REICHELDERFER WINS GROUP'S APPROVAL

Citizens', Trade Bodies Split on Naming of Army Man.

DARR AND HAVENNER HECKLED AT HEARING

Pratt Afraid of Officer, Allen Charges in Attack on Police Conditions.

The nomination of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, retired, to be a civilian Commissioner here will be favorably reported to the Senate on Friday.

A meeting of the Senate District committee on that day to take action on the nomination was called yesterday by Chairman Capper after a stormy two-hour hearing at the Capitol.

So far as could be ascertained, only one member of the committee is opposed to confirmation of the nomination—Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York. He is expected to fight it on the floor of the Senate.

Reichelderfer Is Approved.

The nomination of Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer for the other Commissionership was promptly approved by the committee yesterday, no protests against it having been received. Later in the day Chairman Capper formally reported the nomination to the Senate.

The hearing on Gen. Crosby's nomination was a hectic one, and showed the city to be widely split on his selection. It showed that the trade bodies were definitely arrayed against the Federation of Citizens Associations, and revealed further that the citizens' associations themselves were divided.

The principal witnesses were Charles W. Darr, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Commerce Head Raps Crosby.

Mr. Darr condemned the nomination with a vigor that brought perspiration to his face. In selecting a retired officer, he said, the President had clearly violated the organic act creating the commission form of government here, an act which says that two of the Commissioners shall be from "civil life."

Insisting that Gen. Crosby still belongs to the Army, Mr. Darr declared that nothing the Attorney General has held to the contrary could make his selection as Commissioner legal. It is an appointment, he said, that destroys the District's last vestige of home rule.

Dr. Havenner told the senators that a special committee of the federation had found that the appointment was

ANGLO-FRENCH ACCORD FOR SECURITY REVIVES FIVE-POWER PACT HOPE

Willful Waste Is Laid To Dry Investigators

Attacks on Prohibition Launched in House and Senate.

Citing conditions in Washington to prove their arguments, congressional wets attacked prohibition in both the House and Senate yesterday.

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, charged that the Prohibition Bureau was wasting public funds, and submitted an expense account turned in by Kitty Costello, a former prohibition sleuth, and a special prohibition agent named Yates.

He said that the two had lived at a local hotel, and had thrown hundreds of dollars "down their gullets" for the ostensible purpose of obtaining evidence.

In the meantime Senator Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, charged that 500 per cent more young people are being arrested here for drunkenness than were arrested before prohibition.

The expense account of Kitty Costello and Agent Yates which Representative LaGuardia submitted to the House bore such items as this:

"January 7, Washington, D. C. Dinner party for 10; total, $22. Whisky,

TENTATIVE BUILDING CUT MADE BY FRANCE

New British Formula Is Seen as Possible Way of Closing Gap.

ITALY STANDS FIRM ON CLAIM TO PARITY

American Intervention Last Week Declared to Have Reduced Bitterness.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, April 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—Virtual agreement between the United States, Great Britain and Japan on the strength of their navies was indicated by the American delegation to the London naval conference today.

No sooner was the conference buzzing with this news than extremely important, if confusing, information was given out that an Anglo-French approach to settlement made a five-power treaty again seem possible. This was offset by a definite veto of Italy of an agreement with France on terms less than parity, which was reiterated to Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson by Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister.

Leaving the European tangle for a moment, the way for a definite three-power agreement on tonnage is made clear by Japanese acceptance, with reservations, of the American tonnage proposals and American acceptance in advance of the as yet undelivered Japanese reply, also with reservations.

Face of Both Sides Saved.

The face of both sides is thus saved. Neither has won a victory in the long controversy. The fleets of the three powers, excluding battleships — the latter presumably remaining at fifteen each for Great Britain and the United States and nine for Japan—will be as follows:

	United States	Great Britain	Japan
8-in. gun cruisers	180,000	150,000	108,400
6-in. gun cruisers	143,500	180,000	100,400
Destroyers	150,000	150,000	105,500
Submarines	52,700	52,700	52,700

Japan, in the Tokyo instructions to its delegation here, reserves the right to claim 70 per cent in big cruisers in future and to build some submarines before 1935, probably one each year to keep dockyards in commission. The delegation is left to convey these reservations as it thinks best, either by a unilateral declaration memorandum to the treaty powers or in a footnote to the prospective treaty.

U. S. to Accept Reservations.

The United States will accept the reservations subject to making it clear that the United States reserves the right to object to the Japanese claim to 70 per cent in big cruisers after the treaty period.

The American delegation is anxious the agreement should not be represented as a victory or defeat, and this desire corresponds with the facts. Japan has won her long fight for submarine parity, has got what she wants in other categories, but has in effect yielded on the big cruiser issue so that the big navy parties in both countries can lament. But the sum total seems an unusually fair settlement and one calculated to leave no bitterness.

The French have provisionally offered to cut their building program by from 60,000 to 100,000 tons, including some submarines, or just enough to save the Rapidan figures between Great Britain and the United States which are included in the Anglo-Japanese-American table given above.

Proposal Is Conditional.

This proposal is conditional upon a satisfactory formula being drawn up on the following basis:

BASIL MILES' DEATH SUBJECT OF INQUIRY

Prosecutor's Office Pushes Investigation Into Demise of Diplomat.

DIED AFTER OPERATION

Possessed of unrevealed information supplied through private individuals and the Department of Justice, the District Attorney's office yesterday continued a quiet, mysterious inquiry in progress here for the last few weeks into the sudden death of Basil Miles, diplomat and economist, after an operation at Emergency Hospital on June 14, 1928.

In the absence of District Attorney Leo A. Rover, now at Atlantic City for his health, Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw has been busily engaged on the case, but there has been no inkling of the importance of his findings thus far nor any intimation of what steps, if any, the office may take in the near future, although secrecy has shrouded the revelations made to him. Mr. Burkinshaw declined to admit or deny the investigation.

It is known that the assistant district attorney, however, was in conference yesterday with a Washington physician, who was an interne at the hospital when Mr. Miles succumbed. The death certificate of the Health Department stated that death had been due to pulmonary embolism, explained as a blood clot on the lung. He passed away at a time when he was believed to be steadily recuperating from the operation. Another Washington physician also was said to have talked with the official yesterday regarding the case.

Mr. Miles was survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Peabody Savell Miles, whom he married in 1925 in Paris after she had divorced her first husband, Lester Morton Savell. She was the daughter of the late Alexander von Braun, of Budapest. After the death of Mr. Miles, she was married to Col. Henry H. Rogers, wealthy capitalist and Standard Oil Co. magnate, widely known also as the father of Millicent Rogers Salm, whose own

BROOKHART TO PUSH GEORGIA 'DEAL' QUIZ

Dickering for Control at State Convention Laid to Brown and Newton.

SESSION TO BE APRIL 19

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Postmaster General Brown and even Secretary Walter Newton may be called before a rejuvenated Brookhart patronage committee, it developed yesterday when Senator Brookhart made known that the committee planned to go into reports that a deal had been made with the deposed political elements in Georgia.

The committee, it was made known, is to go particularly into a report, or rather, what is understood to be the unchallenged fact, that Brown and Newton recently conferred here with Ben Davis, Negro Republican leader in Georgia, and who was the basis of the committee's recent report. Davis is said to have been offered a voice back in the party in return for administration control of a State convention to be held April 19.

As evidence of good faith on the part of the administration's representatives here, Davis' lieutenant, George S. Flanders is to be made United States marshal for the southern district of the State, replacing George B. McLeod who has served eight years.

More than usual interest attaches to the story because it involves a clash of high ideals and practical politics and because, too, a very unusual situation exists when the administration can not control Republican conventions in Southern States. Yet this is exactly the situation in Georgia, and, while it is inconceivable that the administration would not be in the saddle two years hence when the national conventions are held, it is a fact that the forthcoming Georgia convention sets up the machinery that will name the delegates to the national convention, and the administration lieutenants here consider it

CAPT. HAWKS GLIDES TO SAFETY IN TEXAS

Overcomes Peril of Squall in 700-Mile Flight Toward New York.

TULSA IS GOAL TODAY

Sweetwater, Tex., April 1 (A.P.).—Completing one of the most hazardous laps of his entire journey, Capt. Frank Hawks, noted aviator flying from San Diego to New York in a glider towed by an airplane, landed here at 6:20 o'clock tonight after a flight that started from Tucson, Ariz., at 6 o'clock this morning.

In negotiating the nearly 700 miles today, Capt. Hawks made up for a day's delay encountered at Tucson yesterday due to a broken tow line.

Difficulty was encountered twice during the long flight which included a trip over 180 miles of mountainous terrain between El Paso and Pecos, Tex. On both occasions Hawks brought his motorless craft through safely.

The first trouble occurred near Lordsburg, N. Mex., where the aerial train ran into a squall shortly after the take-off from Tucson. Damage to the glider was averted by its skillful handler at the Midland (Tex.) Airport, where he was forced to land on a flat tire during a refueling stop.

Besides the Midland halt, a stop was made at El Paso for fuel and lunch. El Paso was scheduled as a night stopping point, but the delay yesterday caused Capt. Hawks and J. D. Jernigan, jr., pilot of the towing plane, to push on to Sweetwater.

Tomorrow the captain planned to fly to Tulsa, Okla., making stops at Wichita Falls, Tex., and Oklahoma City. He started his unique trip Sunday and expects to reach New York next Sunday.

CAPITAL SET TODAY FOR CENSUS OPENING

600,000 TOTAL IS SEEN

The work of determining just how many human beings there are in Washington, together with considerable other information about these individuals, will begin today.

From President Hoover down to the humblest pursuer of a meal ticket, and including rich men, beggar men and bootleggers, the same questions will be asked. Among these will be "What is your occupation?"

In some cases, particularly that of the bootlegger and racketeer, a skillfully piloted conscience will have to be the guide. But in view of the fact that Uncle Sam is pledged to secrecy, in receiving answer to the census questions, it should not be risky for any one, regardless of his occupation, to tell the truth.

In addition the size of the population, the Census Bureau will endeavor to ascertain how many persons in the National Capital are unemployed, how many own homes, how many vote in their home States and the size of the local radio audience.

President Hoover and other members of the first family of the land will be questioned by J. Sterling Moran, census supervisor of the District of Columbia. The President will not be bothered with such queries as his occupation and whether his house is owned or rented. Answers to these questions, which are known to every one, will be filled out by Mr. Moran in the necesary blanks.

The population of Washington is expected to be somewhere near 600,000. The last census, in 1920, revealed that there were 437,571 inhabitants in the District and experts say that the population has grown at an average of 10,800 a year since that time.

Autoist Is Attacked While Awaiting Light

May Lose Sight of Eye After Assailant Leaps Into Car.

Attacked by a Negro who leaped onto the running board of his automobile while it was halted by a traffic signal at Sixteenth and U streets last night, Mr. Seba Laurie Christie, 36 years old, 1706 Irving street northwest, is in serious condition at Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital. It is believed he will lose the sight of his left eye and he has severe lacerations of the head.

According to the story which the injured man was able to give police before he lapsed into unconsciousness while doctors were dressing his wounds at the hospital, Mr. Christie was on his way home from his drug store at Twentieth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest when the attack occurred.

He said he had just stopped his car because the traffic light showed red when his assailant leaped on the running board of the machine and began to beat him about the head with a blackjack. Mr. Christie pushed the man away and warded off the blows the best he could, finally getting his machine started again.

The would-be robber, seeing that he could gain no loot, fled as Mr. Christie drove away. The injured man went directly home but called Emergency Hospital's ambulance when he found he could not stem the flow of blood from his wounds.

The Emergency ambulance removed him to the eye hospital where, at an early hour this morning, doctors were working desperately in an effort to save the sight of the left eye.

DR. SEBA L. CHRISTIE.

Mr. Christie had considerable jewelry on his person and a small amount of money with him, but the attacker failed to get either. Mr. Christie is married and has a daughter. He is in partnership with Mr. C. Fenton Collins in the operation of a drug store at Twentieth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest.

New York, April 1 (A.P.).—Without calling Mae West to the stand in the defense of herself and the 56 others on trial before Judge Ambereo A. Duchess, Once Stage Star, Found in Gas-Filled Flat Peeress May Not Recover From Deadly Fumes in Shabby Room.

London, April 1 (A.P.).—The Duchess of Leinster, one of the brightest stars in the Piccadilly theatrical firmament before the war, tonight lay dangerously ill in Lambeth Hospital. She was found half conscious early today in a gas-filled room of her small flat in the drab district of Brixton.

All visitors, including her aged mother, were refused admittance to the bed she occupied in the observation ward.

The duchess was discovered in circumstances that are still obscure, in the unpretentious apartment she occupied, half-suffocated by gas fumes.

Her landlady asserted that she had been aroused by a violent knocking and found an ambulance waiting in the street in front of the house.

"I was told that it had come to take the Duchess of Leinster to a hospital.

covenant put forward yesterday, was turned down by the British today on the ground that it obligated Great Britain to go to war, not if the league council unanimously declared one power an aggressor, but unless the council unanimously decided a power guilty of certain acts specified in the league covenant was not an aggressor.

A new British formula, worked out between Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, and Mr. Henderson today, was sent to Paris tonight for examination by Premier Andre Tardieu. Its exact text is not known. It recapitulates "annex F" of the Locarno treaty, but includes extra phrases drawn from Mr. Henderson's speeches at Geneva. Its meaning appears to be variously interpreted tonight in the British and French camps.

MacDonald Dodges Issue.

According to the French, it means that Great Britain will accept the recommendations of the league council to take military action, but the British deny this. Premier MacDonald in the House of Commons today dodged the issue by saying, "The government has no intention of entering into any commitments which go beyond obligations resulting from the covenant of the League of Nations and the treaty of Locarno."

This declaration satisfied the opponents of any scheme increasing British security commitments, but they were alarmed by Mr. MacDonald's next remark: "The French government does not ask and has never asked that the British government should add to the burdens which already devolve upon them as a result of these commitments."

In the confusion tonight it is difficult to make sure whether the compromise suggested between M. Briand and Mr. Henderson will be accepted, on the one hand, by M. Tardieu and the French Nationalists as going far enough in committing Great Britain toward security, or, on the other hand, by the British Parliament and public opinion as fulfilling Mr. MacDonald's pledges to make no new military commitments.

French Cut Hinges on Italy.

But M. Briand, in an hour's talk with Mr. Henderson at which the draft agreement was discussed, told the British foreign minister, it is learned, that the French cut on tonnage depends absolutely upon Italy's abandonment of her claim to parity with France. It is reported that when Mr. Henderson pleaded with Signor Grandi to assist in a five-power settlement by making some concessions, the Italian foreign minister replied that Italy stands pat and warned the British foreign secretary against the dangers latent in the implied French threat of a four-power treaty excluding Italy.

In that case, Signor Grandi is believed to have suggested, Italy would be in a position where she would have to seek new associates and change her foreign policy, an obvious allusion to a possible entente with Germany.

This last is given under reserve; but that Italy remains firm on parity is definite. Four-power treaty talk tonight, which is most significant, comes from the French and not from the British. It is impossible to believe that Great Britain would, in effect, back France against Italy even to get French tonnage figures down.

France Denies Accord With Italy.

The facts given above as regards Franco-British negotiations are substantially accurate, but to draw the inference from them that at least four or five powers here are on the verge of accord would be highly dangerous. British and French optimism tonight is discounted in other informed circles aware of the tricky character of the formulae under discussion and afraid of reactions here and in Paris.

All that confidently can be said tonight is this: United States intervention with a consultative pact proposal eight days ago prevented immediate liquidation of the five-power conference, leaving a heritage of great bitterness, with political problems not even discussed.

As a result of the Morrow-Stimson move, these have been and are being discussed in an attitude of friendliness between the French and British. A breakdown now, if it comes, will leave a better understanding of the difficulties in the minds of all concerned. Franco-British relations have been improved, whatever happens, by American intervention, despite the cold water thrown on our delegation from Washington and the partial climbdown that resulted at the Ritz from lukewarmness in the White House.

Recall Held Good Omen.

Recall to Washington of the American Admirals Moffett, Pringle and Yarnall, who will sail on the George Washington on April 12, means that the American delegation, with a Japanese settlement achieved, believes that the wrangles over figures have ended.

The table of the fleets of the world's three greatest sea powers given above is, however, subject to Anglo-French agreement. Otherwise, any three-power treaty negotiated here will contain an "escalator" clause whereby any power may build up if menaced by outside building and the others can move up in proportion.

It is thought probable that in view of the acutely critical position now existing, the plenary session scheduled for Friday may be postponed, but this will be decided at a meeting of the big five tomorrow.

Formula May Not Survive.

From a well-informed conference personage outside the Anglo-French controversy, the opinion was obtained tonight that the formula now under discussion is interpreted differently by the British and the French and that it may not survive the analysis and attacks likely to be made upon it at once in both London and Paris.

A British hint tonight is that Great Britain has promised war against an aggressor only at the behest of the League council, which must be unanimous and on which Great Britain has a seat, thus safeguarding her against enforced action against her will.

This is denied in French quarters, where it is said the British have gone further. An explanation of the discrepancy is to be found if it is assumed that each power interprets the formula differently, in which case a showdown is likely to result in agreement only that a five-power or even a four-power agreement on security is not possible.

Japan's reported acceptance of the Reed-Matsudaira naval formula with reservations will be transmitted to President Hoover and will be closely scrutinized by the American Government, the British government and the interested dominions before Japanese demands are finally conceded. Tokyo's reservations automatically reopen the discussions, it is explained and virtually invite the other powers to make reservations in protection of their interests.

But the news that Japan has at last replied was welcomed here, and it is hoped that a final agreement may be in sight by the time the plenary session of the London conference meets on Friday. Secretary Stimson has been more deeply concerned about the Japanese negotiations than has appeared on the surface, and the Secretary's reports to President Hoover have frankly disclosed his anxiety.

There has been no way to gauge what the Japanese would or would not do when the time came to lay all cards on the table. As usual, the Japanese have proved themselves masters at the game of diplomacy and have accomplished their aims without causing a ruffle of dissension or subjecting themselves to the brand of criticism which has been so freely bestowed upon other delegations.

Original Demands Compromised.

The original Japanese demands for a 70 per cent ratio of cruisers and auxiliary craft, as against the 60 per cent ratio which America first insisted upon, has apparently been compromised by giving Japan a 69.7 ratio instead of 70. By another process of computation, Japan's ratio is computed at 69.4 instead of 70. The American delegation at London, with the support of interested British dominions, fought valiantly to maintain the ratio which Japan would have accepted at the Geneva tripartite conference of 1927, but Tokyo was adamant.

The 60 per cent ratio, which would have been accepted at Geneva, has been raised to 69.7 and the Japanese have therefore made a distinct gain at the expense of America's relative strength in the Pacific.

With respect to the 10,000-ton cruisers, Japan's gain is not clearly understood here because of certain pledges which Mr. Stimson was reported to have made to the Japanese in order to promote agreement.

U. S. May Build 18 Cruisers.

The figures show that America will have the right to build eighteen cruisers of 10,000 tons, but it has been reported that Mr. Stimson has promised the Japanese that not more than fifteen will be built.

The five-three ratio respecting submarines is abandoned altogether by the terms of the agreement, and Japan gains parity with America in submarines. Japan also gains a 70 per cent ratio in destroyers, instead of the 60 per cent which was the Geneva ratio.

Altogether the Japanese have been handsomely rewarded for their efforts and have obtained far more than the Japanese delegation would have dreamed of asking for at the Washington or Geneva conferences. But the Japanese naval experts are understood to be convinced that they could have obtained even greater concessions. It is in order to satisfy the Japanese naval authorities that Tokyo has insisted upon reservations which will give Japan a chance for still more increases at the end of five years.

PACT'S ACCEPTANCE ORDERED BY TOKYO

Delegates Told to Agree to Navy Agreement With Four Provisos.

HOME FOES OVERCOME

Tokyo, April 1 (A.P.).—Japan today instructed its delegates to the London Naval Conference to accept a tentative agreement of Japanese and American delegates that would permit Japan a total naval tonnage of 366,900, which is 69.6 per cent of the reported tentative British and American total of 527,000 tons.

Japan attached four reservations to its acceptance, but these were considered in authoritative circles as presenting no obstacles to early conclusion of a treaty at least between Japan, Great Britain and the United States.

The Japanese government signified its acceptance despite strong and bitter opposition by the naval personnel supported by political parties opposed to the government of Premier Hamaguchi. The opposition was aimed chiefly against the terms of the agreement which would assign Japan a ratio of 60.2 per cent in cruisers carrying 8-inch guns as compared with those of the United States and Great Britain. The delegates' agreement provided for America to have 180,000 tons of these cruisers and Japan 108,400.

To meet this opposition the Japanese government attached a reservation to its acceptance stating that Japan's right was not prejudiced to reopen the question of tonnage ratio in 8-inch-gun cruisers when the pending agreement is terminated. Japan also reserved the right to replace submarines before they reach their age limit while keeping within the limit of 52,700 tons. This was stated as due to a desire to insure continuous employment of skilled dockyard workmen.

Japan further desired it understood that the agreement should terminate at the end of 1936 and that the agreement should provide for an extension of the capital shipbuilding holiday.

A surprise was given the public today when it was learned that about February 24 Secretary Stimson and Premier MacDonald in behalf of the United States and Great Britain sent cordial communications to Premier Hamaguchi expressing the hope that the tentative agreement of Japanese and American delegates in London would receive the approval of the Japanese government.

YANCEY AND MATES FORCED DOWN AT SEA

The plane was equipped with 230 gallons of gasoline, enough for 10½ hours of flying, but consumed about an hour's use of gasoline in five take-off attempts which failed.

The ship got away with its heavy load at North Beach, on Long Island Sound, on the sixth attempt to raise it. The plane, a Stimson cabin monoplane, was equipped with pontoons designed to keep it afloat on water for at least a week, if necessary. Provisions carried by the three men are sufficient to last them five days.

With Capt. Yancey, who is a noted transatlantic flier, are W. H. Alexander, World War veteran of the Royal Flying Corps, as pilot, and Zeh Bouck, engineer and radio operator.

Islands Hard to Find.

The Bermudas, a string of tiny islands, occupy a space of only about 18 miles by 6, and the plane must land on one of the smallest, which would be impossible to find in the dark, it was said. Navigators said that only by dead reckoning can a plane pick up the small speck of land in the wide water expanse.

The flight was announced as an attempt to prove the feasibility of regular mail and passenger transportation service between New York and Bermuda. The plane owners, the Pilot Radio & Tube Corporation, said they were contemplating the establishment of an airline between the islands and the States.

The flight is considered one of the most hazardous and difficult of aerial navigation. The plane owners believe, however, that with good astronomical navigation and reliable radio equipment, the New York-to-Bermuda flight can be made consistently, almost any time of the year. They foresee the possibility of lunching in New York on Friday, dining in Bermuda Friday night, golfing all day Saturday and Sunday morning at Bermuda, and having Sunday dinner in New York.

North Beach, N. Y., April 1 (A.P.). Capt. Lewis A. Yancey and two companions took off at 9:39 a. m. today on an attempt to make a nonstop flight to Bermuda.

CHAMBER REVERSES DECISION ON AIRPORT

SENATE BILL REPORTED

Standing alone as probably the only organization in Washington fighting the airport development proposed by Senator Bingham the board of directors of the Washington Chamber of Comerce adopted resolutions at a meeting last night repudiating its former decision to support the Bingham proposal if it meant the eventual development of Gravelly Point.

The directors took this action following a report from Lieut. Walter Hanton, chairman of the aviation committee of the chamber, in which it was charged that a legislative movement is on foot to develop the Bingham airport at the cost of the absolute defeat of the Gravelly Point development.

"In view of this," the adopted resolution read, "the board of directors of the chamber are unalterably opposed to the establishment of a temporary or compromise airport on Virginia territory on the ground that it will delay and defeat the Gravelly Point development."

On the suggestion of Charles W. Darr, president of the chamber, the directors decided to support Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby as a District Commissioner if his nomination is confirmed by the Senate. The chamber has strenuously opposed the nomination of Gen. Crosby on the grounds that he is an Army officer and will remain such even after retirement.

The Bingham bill to establish a municipal airport for Washington was favorably reported to the Senate yesterday by the Senate District committee.

The full committee voted to make a favorable report on the bill shortly after it had been approved by a subcommittee composed of Senators Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan; Jones (Republican), of Washington, and Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland.

The bill authorizes a loan of $2,500,000 to the District government by the Federal Government, this to be paid back without interest as it is spent.

Church Runs Gas Station To Make Expense Funds

Benton, Ill., April 1 (A.P.).—The First Baptist Church of Benton today took over operation of a filling station as a means of raising money to keep up running expenses of the church.

If the venture is successful, other stations will be acquired in Benton and other cities of Franklin County.

Coast-to-Coast Plane Forced Down in Ohio

Cleveland, April 1 (A.P.).—The Fokker F-32, on its way from New York to Los Angeles, was forced down at the Willoughby Airport, east of here, this afternoon because of thick weather. The plane's 18 passengers were brought here by bus.

The plane made an easy landing. When the weather clears it will come on to Cleveland, Pilot Cy Morehouse said.

California Cities Vote Dry in Poll

Five Southern Towns Also Reveal Enforcement Strength in Canvass.

New York, April 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Further incomplete returns in the Literary Digest's Nation-wide prohibition poll today revealed considerable dry strength in two California cities, Fresno and San Jose, and in five Southern cities, Montgomery and Mobile, Ala.; Pine Bluff, Ark.; Savannah and Tampa.

San Jose polled more enforcement votes than either modification or repeal, but the combined wet vote exceeded the dry vote. Fresno's enforcement vote exceeded her repeal vote, but was less than her vote for modification.

CHAPTER XI.

WHY HAVE WE SUCCEEDED?

I have been confronted by difficult and delicate tasks, but this is perhaps the most unusual and difficult that I have yet faced. With the feeling that there is a need for one definite explanation from an authentic source as to just how eight young men could achieve, in these days of a bored and blase show world, the sensational success that seems to have been ours I am going to give my idea of it all.

As I said in my foreword, every one seems to have felt the urge to offer an opinion, an explanation, as to our past and present and even a prophecy as to our future.

Being one of those that they have theorized about, I feel that I should, even at the risk of destroying some of the romance about us, offer my own theory as to the reason for this so-called phenomenal success.

The reason that this task is so dangerous for me is simply that it is very risky for one who is still active in his profession to attempt a sincere explanation as to the reason for his being a success.

Explanations Are Different.

Can you imagine just how difficult it would be for, let us say, John Barrymore, to offer an explanation for his unquestioned success by stating that he believes it is due to his profile, his six feet and several inches, the masculinity of his frame, his ability to make passionate love, the richness and romance in his voice combined with a charm, personality and acting ability that came to him as family traits?

It has been just as difficult for me to answer when various interviewers have asked me: "To what do you attribute your success?"

Of course I am not forgetting that our success is due in a great measure to the efforts of the seven boys who began with me and who are still with me. They have contributed greatly in the beauty of their tone and rhythm to the attractiveness of our programs and presentations. And we were later on extremely fortunate in having as my manager Edwin Scheuing, a young man whose coolness and level headed business ability has secured for me all these present engagements at almost unheard of salaries. I am sure that no one could have "sold" us better than he. It is an undeniable fact, however, that a general is credited with the victory and perhaps rightly so, in the case where the factors and strategies which were first born in his mind and later carried out on the field by the men, brought the desired victory.

Calls Whiteman Leader.

I consider Paul Whiteman the forerunner and creator of a style of dance music that has been rightly termed symphonized syncopation. His was the first mind to apply the principles of a symphony orchestra to his instrumentation and style of music; he was the first to split the chorus up into phrases, some of which were played by the saxes, suddenly followed by the brass for several more phrases and then by the strings. He was really the first to use several violins, several saxophones and a full team of brass.

The furor that his first records and early personal appearances made was richly deserved. The sign of his double chin has become the world over symbolic of a certain type of dance music; his orchestra has become an institution just as famed as many of our symphony orchestras, and today, practically ten years from the time he first came to New York almost penniless and completely unknown in the East, he is held in high esteem by the great public which speaks for itself. Nothing could endure the way Whiteman and his work have endured unless there were good sound, sterling worth in it. My hat is off to him!

I believe I can honestly and rightly feel a personal pride and satisfaction in our success, since I also, like Whiteman, had carried in my head for several years an idea for the presentation of dance music with song which first found expression through my little group of eight men in January, 1928.

Therefore, I feel I am not egotistical when I confine most of this explanation for our sudden rise to myself and my ideas. And yet in the explanation I do not want to destroy any of that beautiful halo of romance that so many have built around us and our music.

Probably the proper time for a very cold blooded, matter of fact, and absolutely precise analysis of the reasons and events back of the furors that we have created will be when we have completely retired from our present labors and activities.

Seeks Psychological Reaction.

The underlying factor for the tremendous appreciation that we seem to enjoy at present is what I would term psychological reaction to music, or, in case the word psychological should frighten you from reading further—let us say simply "the way music affects human beings."

To be wholly aware of a fact, to fully appreciate its value, one should really have some reaction to it himself. I first observed the effect of music upon myself, and then on others; and my observations in the case of other people led to the type of music we now produce.

It is common knowledge that music which represents a story or compositions that are interesting because of a connection with some incident in the author's life may affect human beings in such a way as to make them sad or happy, as the case may be. But few of us realize that music in itself, even just the sheer melody of it, may through its key-color and arrangement of notes, affect one in various ways.

Who is there that has not felt the thrill that chases up and down the spine, the urge to go out and conquer, a choking sensation of the throat or throwing out of the chest at the martial strains of "The Stars and Stripes Forever," played by a spirited band?

Recalls Navy Days.

I well recall the wonderful thrill I felt when I was in the Navy in 1917. After a week of scrubbing walls and clothing, coaling ship and performing the hundred and one tasks that seem so plentiful at a training station, what a reward it was when on Saturday mornings, clad in fresh clean uniforms, with our rifles on our shoulders, we marched behind a spirited band, across the green grass in the sunlight! The strains of those wonderful march tunes still linger in my memory; they were among the most inspiring things in my youth and more than recompensed for all the hated drudgery of naval routine.

Then, at quite the other extreme, is the somber and funereal music that motion picture orchestras play when the news weekly shows the funeral of some great personage. These compositions were only selected for this type of picture because there was something in the vein and twist of the melody and in the harmony which produced the impression of sadness and tragedy.

In fact, by mentioning the different types of music that for years have been identified with certain types of things in pictures I can best illustrate this reaction, which is partly physical and partly psychological, to different types of music.

The spooky type of music that you find cued in for a burglary scene, or a scene of suspense, was first used only because there was something inherent in the music that suggested the nature of the thought. Then there is storm music, which closely approximates a rising storm and denotes impending tragedy; music that by its accent and melody suggests a nationality • • • and many other types.

Studies Effect of Music.

I had watched the effect of different types of dance music upon those who listened to orchestras. Dance music I elf has to me been divided into two more or less clearly defined types: first, the type of music usually played with loud volume and in a manner calculated to make one feel the urge to beat time to it with the feet. This music usually has little melody and its essential characteristics are rhythm, syncopation, accent and a tendency to create unrest, the desire to move the hands and body and to tap the feet. This today is characterized as "hot" music and is that which among musicians and the public in the past has been termed "jazz" and which has always had a great many followers and exponents.

Although I myself enjoy a finished rendering of this type of music, yet I realized that its appeal is limited both in the numbers of those who enjoy it and in the length of time they will appreciate it. One tires of this style of music very soon, as one number sounds practically the same as the next. It finds its warmest admirers at society parties where nearly every one has imbibed just enough to "feel good."

Many Later Are Benefited By Operation on Soldier

Private Learns in Post of Significance of Incident Occurring in 1905.

Back in 1905 a soldier underwent an operation, unique in medical science, that was destined to save the lives of hundreds of American soldiers. That same soldier, whose identity was shrouded in the obscurity of time, recently read of the epochal incident in the 25 Years Ago column in The Post. Yesterday he learned all about the case from a Post reporter.

In 1905 William C. Mould, now weighing 200 pounds and the picture of health despite his 65 years, was brought from the Philippine Islands suffering advanced stages of malaria. His frame was emaciated. Doctors despaired of his life. As a last resort they decided upon a daring experiment.

Heretofore drugs used for treatment of the fever were so strong that they rotted the stomach. The problem confronted the doctors of getting drugs to the lower intestines without passing through the stomach. Finally Maj. W. C. Borden, in a last effort, cut through the abdominal wall, drew the appendix through the incision and used it as a funnel to inject the solution.

Instead of harming the stomach the quinine solution passed through the lower intestines and healed the perforations which result in death unless healed.

For days the soldier hovered between life and death. Medical scientists marveled at the experiment. Time passed and gradually the soldier responded. Doctors came to view the case. What attracted them was the thought that the appendix, whose utility had been disputed, might be, after all, an important organ in curing ailments.

With Mr. Mould's recovery the lives of other soldiers who had been stricken with the fever were saved.

WILLIAM C. MOULD.

This treatment was administered only in advanced cases. For fourteen years the artificial orifice in Mould's abdomen remained open. The appendical valve was used for additional treatments.

In 1913 he retired, but the condition of his stomach did not in any way interfere with his activities. In 1914 he joined the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Since then he has been employed there with the exception of two years during which he served in the Army during the World War.

In 1919, at Walter Reed Hospital the orifice was closed and the appendix removed. Now, Mr. Mould, hale and hearty, says, "I never felt better in my life."

Mr. Mould lives at 316 McKinley street, Cherrydale, Va.

Federal Narcotic Agents in Miami Arrest Trio on Drug Charge.

Miami, Fla., April 1 (A.P.).—Federal and State authorities tonight sought further information regarding what they believed might be the Nation-wide operations of a narcotic ring, following arrest of a man and woman here today and seizure of a quantity of narcotics.

Investigation also was being made into the discovery at the same time of a number of letters and documents which officers believed might give light on the killing of Arnold Rothstein, New York gambler, more than a year ago.

The persons arrested gave the names of Hugh Inman, 33, and Ruth Parmer, 31, both formerly of New York City.

Calvin Coolidge Buys New Home

Attractive Northampton House Purchased by Former President.

Northampton, Mass., April 1 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Former President Calvin Coolidge announced today that he and Mrs. Coolidge had purchased the Beeches, an attractive residence on Hampton terrace, and would occupy it in about two months. The estate which Mr. Coolidge described as a modest place, comprises a 16-room house and nine landscaped acres.

The deed from Mrs. Morris L. Comey, who inherited the property from her late husband, was filed this afternoon. Mrs. Comey will remain at the Beeches for a time. She will eventually resume settlement work, in which she has been greatly interested.

The Beeches overlooks the Mount Tom range of mountains and there is a broad expanse of meadow. Through this the Connecticut River flows and not far away is the through road from New York to the White Mountains.

marital difficulties have received considerable attention during the last few years.

He had a distinguished career in the Diplomatic Corps of the United States, coupled with important service for the Postoffice Department, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the International Chamber of Commerce.

Born in Philadelphia, Pa., he was graduated from both the University of Pennsylvania and from Balliol College, Oxford England. He began his diplomatic service in 1905 as private secretary to George von L. Meyer, then United States Ambassador at St. Petersburg. Later he was appointed third secretary of the embassy. From St. Petersburg he was transferred to the embassy at Berlin.

In 1908 he was recalled to the United States to act as supervisor of foreign mails with the Postoffice Department. While serving in that capacity he assisted in the reorganization of the parcel post service and in writing the first postal savings regulation.

From 1913 to 1916 he was affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. This was followed by a commission of special representatives of the United States with the rank of minister plenipotentiary in charge of German and Austro-Hungarian prisoners of war in Russia.

In 1922, after having acted as executive secretary of the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armament, he resigned from the State Department and was appointed American administrative commissioner to the International Chamber of Commerce, with headquarters in Paris.

Methodists Plan Building Addition

Five Stories to Be Built On to Present Structure, Is Proposal.

Plans for a five-story addition to the Methodist Building, at 100 Maryland avenue northeast, which will increase its present floor space one-and-a-half times are now under consideration, it was learned yesterday, and bids may be called for shortly.

Under tentative plans the addition will have a 120-foot frontage on Maryland avenue and will extend back to B street northeast. A garage of approximately 50 cars capacity is provided in basement plans.

Present plans contemplate occupancy by offices of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Church of the entire first floor of the addition, affording 16,000 square feet of floor space. The remaining floors will be furnished with high-class apartment units under the plans.

J. Lee Wilkinson, of Washington and Falls Church, Va., is the architect. The cost of the structure is not yet estimated. Construction will be of stone, concrete, brick and steel and the exterior will conform in appearance to the present structure.

RELIEF FOR JOBLESS PLANNED IN SENATE

Labor Head Says 3,700,000 Were Without Wages in February.

TO SUBMIT THREE BILLS

(Associated Press.)

Moves for early enactment of pending unemployment legislation followed testimony before a Senate committee yesterday by President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, that 3,700,000 wage earners were out of work in February and lost over $440,000,000 in pay.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, chairman of the subcommittee of the commerce committee that heard Mr. Green, said he would submit three bills by Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, in executive session today. If the subcommittee is willing, he said, he will submit the measures to the full commerce committee for a vote tomorrow, and they may be reported at that time.

Senator Wagner said he would press for early enactment. His plan, encompassed in three measures, would create a commission to plan public construction over long periods, with a $150,000,000 appropriation. It would expand Government machinery for collection of unemployment information and create a Federal unemployment agency.

Senator Johnson will ask the subcommittee if it desires further testimony on the bills, but both he and Senator Wargner expected that no other witnesses would be called. Senator Wagner pointed out that as yet no opposition to the bills has been expressed by witnesses or in any other quarters.

Senator McNary (Republican), Oregon, assistant Republican leader, said that if the bills were reported favorably by the committee, Senator Wagner might move consideration of them at any time.

Mr. Green painted a dark picture of present unemployment conditions, asserting that during the first three months of the year "those out of work lost well-nigh $1,000,000,000." This estimate, he explained, was on the theory that the idle men might have created more than this amount of wealth.

After Mr. Green testified, the hearing was converted into a round-table discussion, the senators joining with comments. They also heard Miss Helen Hall, Philadelphia social worker, tell scores of stories of distress and suffering in families she studied first-hand in a Nation-wide survey of the effect of joblessness in the community neighborhood.

In a matter-of-fact manner, Mr. Green told the committee that the Government must make provision for unemployed workers "or have a revolution on its hands." The country, he said, "can't stand these shocks."

ILLNESS OF SQUAW HALTS DEATH TRIAL

If the 35-year-old defendant then was unable to reappear for completion of her case, dismiss the twelve men and declare a mistrial. It was even possible this decision could be made by tomorrow morning when hospital authorities expected to be able to report on a detailed examination of the prisoner.

Although several of Lila's friends accompanied her to the hospital, where she was placed under police guard, only Anson Jimerson, her father, and Ann Snow, aged aunt, were allowed to see her. She was placed on the institution's "danger list" after a preliminary examination.

Nancy Bowen, ancient Cayuga, who, the State said, was induced by Lila to kill the wife of Henri Marchand, prominent artist, remained locked in her cell in the Erie County Jail awaiting decision on the question of placing her on trial for murder, first degree, or allowing her to plead guilty to a lesser charge.

Fire Department Trial Board Named.

The new Fire Department Trial Board yesterday was named by the District Commissioners to be composed of Battalion Chief J. B. Watt, chairman, and Capts. L. L. Woolard and O. R. Moxley. The personnel was recommended by Fire Chief George S. Watson and is in line with the practice of the department to change the trial board personnel from time to time.

By JAMES HAY, JR.

DESPITE the administration's sustained ballyhoo of Nation-wide prosperity, the three official rebuilders of business—Mr. Hoover, Mr. Mellon and the Federal Reserve Board—just now are adorning the anxious bench, which, as every statesman knows, is always included in the seating equipment of any band wagon.

What makes them anxious is their fear that the stock market, the well-known barometer of business, may overplay the prosperity game, run its prices too high, and in the consequent reaction and drop impart once more an indigo hue to business psychology.

The administration, by the way, appreciates as a result of this situation the fact that, like politics, the job of re-creating prosperity makes strange bedfellows.

* * * *

LAST fall, prior to the calamitous Wall street tailspin, the stock market regarded the Government as a meddlesome, intrusive and destructive old party. This was because the administration, through Mr. Mellon and the Federal Reserve, was advising the public to buy bonds, rather than speculative stocks, and also was lifting the money rates.

But as soon as the official rebuilding trio—Hoover, Mellon and the Federal Reserve—showed gratifying results from its grand push for prosperity, Wall street hailed it as a beloved friend and valued collaborator. By way of showing its appreciation the market began to rise.

Within the last ten days it has lifted the values of its securities $5, $10 and $15 a share. One public utility narrowly missed scoring a $20 per share increase.

How far will this abundant optimism go? Consideration of that query has pitchforked the rebuilding gentlemen into the anxious seats.

* * * *

DURING the next eight weeks, they argue, the big corporations will issue reports of earnings for the first quarter of 1930, and there is a widespread feeling that many will show substantially smaller profits than they made in the first quarter of 1929.

If this turns out to be true, the administration fears, the public will take fright and let stock prices drop, thereby reviving the talk of hard times.

Wall street, however, asserts that its prices are always bets on the future, that possible discouraging reports covering the first 1930 quarter have been discounted, and that its present higher levels indicate its assurance that reports on business in the second, third and fourth quarters of 1930 will show a constantly growing prosperity.

Hence, the street concludes, its rising prices are justified, and it is surprised and pained to hear that its prosperity bedfellows have moved over to the anxious bench.

Meanwhile the administration, troubled though it is by its impulsive ally, keeps up the prosperity ballyhoo Wall street may be right, and the ballyhooers hope it is.

WASTE OF FUNDS BY DRY MEN CHARGED IN HOUSE SPEECHES

$25. Taxi, $2.25. Tips, $2.00. Breakfast, 60 cents. Lunch, 75 cents. Rental of room, $3.00. Total, $55."

"Now this," Mr. LaGuardia told the House, "is in addition to the $522 paid Kitty Costello, and the $450 she received."

"Does the gentleman have a picture of Kitty with him?" inquired Representative Clarke, of New York, and the House roared.

"I submit," said Mr. LaGuardia, "that the very nature of the expenditures reveals the extravagance and waste of the public funds with the ostensible purpose of obtaining evidence."

"There was no occasion for going to Childs', for everybody knows that there have been no violations of the liquor law at Childs'."

Representative Schafer, wet Republican, of Wisconsin, asked Mr. LaGuardia if any convictions had resulted from the work of Kitty Costello and Yates.

"I think there is one case pending and one conviction," Mr. LaGuardia replied.

"This is another example of the way the Federal funds are thrown down the sewer of prohibition," Mr. Schafer said. "They spend thousands of dollars to get one case."

"I think it was thrown down the gullets of the agents," Mr. LaGuardia declared.

Senator Tydings introduced in the Senate a table showing the number of persons between 17 and 21 who were arrested before prohibition, and the number between those ages who have been arrested since prohibition.

"We find," Senator Tydings said, "that for the years preceding prohibition, there were 52 persons under 21 years of age arrested for drunkenness; that was an annual average of 52.

"I wonder what the senator from Iowa (Brookhart) will say when I tell him that the average number arrested after prohibition was adopted was not 52 but 275 a year, which is an increase of exactly 500 per cent since national prohibition was adopted."

Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, had challenged the figures of Senator Tydings, even though the Maryland senator said they were official police figures. Senator Brookhart insisted that there was less drinking here now than there was before prohibition.

Spectators in the gallery cheered Senator Tydings, and Vice President Curtis warned them to keep quiet.

Discussing the charges of Representative LaGuardia late yesterday, Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran said that Kitty Costello and Special Agent Yates had operated here about a year and a half ago and had made several cases.

Subsequently, he said, Miss Costello was sentenced to a 30-day jail sentence by a Baltimore judge and now is no longer with the Prohibition Bureau. She had been a temporary employe, he said, who was put to work by Col. John Herbert, former administrator for this area.

The expense account of the two, as submitted by Mr. La Guardia, contained these items, among others:

January 7: Dinner party for ten, total, $22; whisky, $25; taxi, $2.25; tips, $2; breakfast, 60 cents; lunch, 75 cents; rental of room, $3; total, $55.60.

January 8: Dinner party for six, $10; whisky, $10; taxi, $2; tips, $1.50; breakfast, lunch, rental of room, $3; total, $27.90.

February 1: Lunch for three, $4.75; ginger ale and cover charge at Wardman's, $6.50; dinner at Astor for four, $5; tips, $5.50; taxi, $10; dinner at Machine's for purpose of obtaining evidence, three, $4.75; wine, $1.50; sandwiches and drinks for two at Burns' Cafe for purpose of obtaining evidence, $1.50; whisky, $10.25; total, $49.75.

Brookhart Interrupts Talk.

In the course of Senator Tydings' tirade against prohibition, Senator Brookhart interrupted to remind him that former Senator Bruce, of Maryland, was defeated after making wet speeches in the Senate.

"I would rather be retired," Senator Tydings shouted, "than run with the crowd and be reelected. I will stand out against this bunk no matter what the cost."

It was at this point that the spectators broke into applause. In the gallery at the time were Ambassador and Mrs. Wilhelm von Prittwitz, of Germany.

More Money Spent, Claim.

Senator Tydings declared that Americans are spending more for liquor today than they did before prohibition.

"We are losing $365,000,000 a year that we used to have for other purposes," he said. "That is one-tenth of all the money that comes into the Federal Treasury each year.

"Judged from the standpoint of savings bank accounts, the increase in savings per year was greater before prohibition than it has been since prohibition. Judged from the standpoint of crime and corruption, there is no period in the history of the Nation where the murder record, the graft record and the crime record ever reached the point where it now thrives and exists in this country."

Killings Pointed To.

He also cited the toll of lives caused by shootings, alcoholism and drunken drivers.

Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, and Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, told the Senate that they had received complaints from Washington women that they have been unable to obtain ballots for the Literary Digest prohibition poll.

Senator Jones, however, concluded that the drys would be wise to refrain from participating in the poll.

FAVORABLE REPORT FOR CROSBY SEEN

Copeland Looms as Only Foe of Nomination When Senate Gets Issue.

HECTIC HEARING IS HELD

legal; that it was in no way contrary to the language of the organic act.

Anyway, he said, the people here are more interested in Gen. Crosby's character and ability than they are in splitting legal hairs, and several persons in the committee room burst into applause.

Both Mr. Darr and Dr. Havenner were heckled while they testified.

Former Policeman Robert Allen appeared before the committee to indorse Gen. Crosby, and, in a lurid statement, declared that the real reason Mr. Darr was protesting the nomination was because Maj. Henry G. Pratt, chief of police, and Inspector William Shelby were afraid of the former Cavalry chieftain.

The erstwhile stormy petrel of the force declared that one high police official was a murderer and a gambler; that he had seen policemen intoxicated, and that he knew of one case where policemen had killed a man while trying to beat a confession from him. In his peroration he said that conditions here were "scandalous."

Blease Greets Crosby.

While Mr. Darr was testifying, Senator Cole L. Blease (Democrat), South Carolina, declared that there is "more crime here than in any city in the country."

On his way out of the room a moment later, Senator Blease stopped and shook hands with Gen. Crosby. The latter had been sitting in the front row throughout the hearing.

Senator Blease announced some time ago that he would vote to confirm Gen. Crosby. At the same time, Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, said that he would vote against confirmation.

Harry N. Douthitt, editor of the Blue Coat, a police newspaper here, followed Allen before the committee yesterday and denied the latter's statement that Maj. Pratt and Inspector Shelby are opposed to Gen. Crosby's nomination.

The two police officials, he said, welcomed the selection of Gen. Crosby, and the same thing might be said, he added, for 95 per cent of the policemen.

Brief Supports Crosby.

T. H. Shanton, of the War Veterans Republican Club, submitted a brief to show that Gen. Crosby was eligible for the office, and declared that if Mr. Darr knew the general, he would have no fear of a reign of military rule. Instead, he said, he would know that he had a good city guardian whose service will bring about a period of tranquillity.

Maj. Harry D. Murray, a local attorney, who, from a point in the rear of the room, had been challenging the statements of Mr. Darr, told the committee that if Mr. Darr's statements were to be accepted, then Dr. Reichelderfer also was ineligible for the commissionership.

Like himself, Maj. Murray said, Dr. Reichelderfer is a member of the Army Reserve and may be called to service at any time.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, asked Mr. Darr if he contended that a reserve officer was not eligible for a commissionership, but Darr declined to answer on the ground that this question was not the issue.

Predicts Square Deal.

H. M. Welch, an attorney, representing the Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association, declared that the duty of the Senate District committee was to advise President Hoover that Attorney General Mitchell had misadvised him with regard to Gen. Crosby, and to urge him to select another man.

Chris Lehmkuhl, of the Petworth Citizens Association, indorsed Gen. Crosby and declared that he would give the citizens here a "square deal."

District Suffrage Inquiry.

Robert L. Longstreet, of the Dupont Citizens Association, also approved the nomination. Others who urged confirmation were Hugh M. Framton, chairman of the special committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations; Grover W. Ayers, of the Ten-Mile Square Club, and Dr. Charles Morganston, of the War Veterans Republican Club.

H. W. Young, of the Iowa Circle Citizens Association, urged the committee to make a special investigation here with a view to granting suffrage to the city.

E. C. Reigel, of the Consumers Guild, said he was opposed to Gen. Crosby because he was a "military man," and that he was not concerned about his eligibility otherwise.

Senator Jones (Republican), of Washington, and Senator Vandenberg evidently were not much impressed by the arguments against Gen. Crosby. Both appear to accept the opinion of Attorney General Mitchell that the former officer is eligible.

When Chairman Capper, in reading Dr. Reichelderfer's biography, came to that part which said he had been a colonel in the cadet corps here and had served in the National Guard, Senator Vandenberg, in mock horror, exclaimed:

"My! That is terrible!"

FORMER STAGE STAR MAY DIE FROM GAS

The duchess, before her marriage in 1913 to the Duke of Leinster, was famous among London playgoers as May Etheridge, of musical comedy fame, but to her neighbors in shabby Brixton recently she was known simply as "Mrs. Williams."

When the duke was still Lord Edward Fitzgerald, May Etheridge was appearing in "The Princess's Caprice" and dashing Lord Edward carried her off to the register's office in a whirlwind courtship. Quitting the lights of Piccadilly, they spent their honeymoon in a shack beside Lake Ontario.

In 1922 Lord Edward succeeded to the title of "Duke of Leinster," becoming the premier duke, marquis and earl in the Irish peerage. During the World War he served with distinction and was five times wounded.

In September, 1923, the duchess was living in a small flat in Bournemouth, channel seaside resort not far from Southhampton. She said then that she was living on an allowance of £9 12s 4d per week (about $47) and was looking for work.

Refreshment Bill Is Approved.

The Senate approved the conference report on a bill to authorize a refreshment stand at Mount Vernon yesterday. The bill also provides for changes at the Highway Bridge so as to permit an easier flow of traffic on the new Mount Vernon boulevard.

QUIZ INTO GEORGIA DEAL IS PROPOSED

quite important that the administration control this State meeting. This they will not do unless Davis is brought back into camp and the Brookhart committee has said quite plainly that he should not be permitted in the fold at all, much less invited back and paid a price, so to speak.

Admittedly, emergency measures are necessary to deal with the situation because the State convention is little more than two weeks off. Aside from the fact that Mr. Brown's face must be saved in his handling of the situation, there is the point that a Republican convention in Georgia passing resolution against the administration at this time would certainly not make a good party picture. The Democrats would be bound to say that if the administration can not control a Georgia convention what can it hope to do in Republican States. So the matter is right important.

Mr. Brown and Mr. Newton have had a most difficult time, however, in applying Mr. Hoover's ideals to such practical political situations as this one.

With Davis deposed as a national committeeman at Kansas City and presumably blasted out of the picture by the Brookhart committee, the Postmaster General recognized one Josiah T. Rose as the party leader to be reckoned with. He was recognized as the patronage dispenser and ordinarily one would have thought that that was the end of Davis. Rose, with the patronage power, should have no trouble in building up a new party.

Rose incidentally was a former Davis lieutenant and the Georgia Democrats who are, of course, hard to please, observed at the time of his recognition that it was a roundabout recognition of Davis. But that developed not to be the case. With the administration support, Rose drew away from his old cronies.

Then it developed a few weeks ago that Rose simply did not have the organizing ability or something. At least, Davis, without any patronage power but with a Negro newspaper, was still in control. Whereupon, Mr. Rose, Mr. Newton and Mr. Brown concluded that as distasteful as it might be they would have to deal with Davis.

The funniest thing about it all is even now with all of the cards on the table and Davis gone back to Atlanta he has made no definite promise of what he will do. Flanders, his lieutenant, has more faith in human nature. He is here at a high-priced hotel waiting expectantly for his nomination as marshal to go to the Senate. There is a serious doubt as to whether it would be confirmed under the circumstances, and, too, the Department of Justice can not see why McLeod should be displaced.

In addition to getting the marshal's place for himself, the deal involves that Flanders' son should retain his postmastership at a little place called Swainsboro.

Brookhart says there is no questioning the right of his committee to carry on, although it had considered its work done. He is not on the Senate postoffices committee any more, but he points out that the patronage committee, originally a subcommittee of the postoffices committee, was made a body of its own when he was transferred to another committee Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, another member of the patronage committee, agrees with Brookhart that the matter should be gone into and the two of them are two-thirds of the committee.

PRATT'S FIRST YEAR IS LAUDED BY MANY

City's Police Head Receives Flowers and Praise on Anniversary.

CAPT. BURKE ALSO FETED

Several baskets of flowers, many letters of congratulation, telephone messages and telegrams yesterday reminded Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, that he had completed one year of service as chief of the Police Department of the District.

The letters, telegrams, telephone messages, personal visits and flowers came from men and women in all walks of life.

"Well," he smiled, "I'm glad to know that there are some persons in Washington who believe there is something in the Police Department."

Capt. F. S. Burke, of the First Precinct, also ended a year's service as captain of his precinct yesterday, and he was presented with a large basket of flowers by his men at a ceremony which was attended by many friends and prominent business men of Washington.

Mr. Rothchilds, of the Better Business Bureau; "Radio Joe" Kaufman, and Robert Cottrell, of the Washington Board of Trade, called on Capt. Burke and tendered congratulations. He was presented a testimonial in the form of a letter signed by all the men of his precinct, promising their future support and testifying to their regard for their commanding officer.

be exceeding the bounds of discipline to take harsh action or to send any member of the force before the Trial Board without any assurance that the aggrieved parties would appear and testify in support of any charge he himself might prefer. That is the policy he has followed and intends to follow.

The Letterman warrantless raid rankles in the mind of the police chief, who is much less concerned with the number of raids made by precincts and squads or bureaus than he is with the outcome of the raids or arrests made.

couple from the bonds which they were forced to make Friday in order to gain their freedom.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Harmon announced Saturday that they would seek a criminal warrant against Sergt. Letterman and the members of his squad, they had not conferred with United States Attorney Leo A. Rover or any of his assistants in that connection late yesterday. Neither had civil suits for damages been instituted. Attorney Robert I. Miller, attorney for the Harmons, however, announced that the civil suits would be filed during the week.

Mr. Holland, in his letter to Mr. Hart, explained that he is not acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Harmon, but that he appreciated the prosecutor's effort "to maintain the sanctity of the American home."

He also explained that he has served on several Police Court juries and has always "endeavored to bring in a verdict of guilty in liquor cases, where the evidence warranted such decision or verdict."

Mr. Holland's letter in full follows:

March 29, 1930.

"David A. Hart, Esq.,
"Assistant United States Attorney,
"Washington, D. C.

"My dear Mr. Hart: The writer noted with interest newspaper articles today regarding the unlawful and unjustified entry or raid by Sergt. O. J. Letterman's vice squad at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Eleck Harmon, 1631 S street northwest, and the intention of these people to resort to criminal and civil action against the sergeant and his members of the squad, and your refusal to make out papers against the Harmons.

"The most important and commendable feature of the entire article is your attitude in refusing to make out papers against or prosecute Mr. and Mrs. Harmon, who, incidentally, are perfect strangers to me.

"Permit me to offer my personal thanks and a small portion of the great amount of praise that should be given you in your action and stand in this case, which attitude on your part is indeed most commendable and honorable.

"The writer, who has had the privilege of serving several times as a juror in Police Court, has always endeavored to bring in a verdict of guilty in liquor cases, where the evidence warranted such decision or verdict, in the effort to aid in the enforcement of prohibition as required by law, but I can assure you that were I a juror, under no circumstances would I aid in the conviction of outraged citizens brought to trial through any such unjustifiable action as taken by Sergt. Letterman in the Harmon case, and I am sure I express the opinion, or voice the sentiment of any common-sense juror.

"As an humble citizen of the District, permit me to again thank you and commend you for the honorable stand you have taken in the above mentioned case, and the effort to maintain the sanctity of the American home.

"With kindest personal regards,
"Cordially yours,
(Signed) "E. W. HOLLAND."

Hoovers Plan Big Reception To Daughters

Delegates From Every State in Union to Be Present.

By JEAN ELIOT.

ASSEMBLING in Washington on April 14 for their annual Continental Congress, the Daughters of the American Revolution will immediately be involved in a round of entertaining. Parties for individuals, small groups and State delegations are still in the process of being organized, but even now it is possible to tell something about the major entertainments in which all the visiting daughters will be involved.

The President and Mrs. Hoover will receive the assembled cohorts from every State in the Union on Wednesday afternoon, April 16. The next afternoon they will be received at the Pan-American Union. On Tuesday evening Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart will be hostess at the annual "president general's reception," one of the most delightful events of the congress each year. And on Saturday evening will come the annual banquet, with the president general as guest of honor, which is always the crowning feature of the festivities of "D. A. R. week." There will also be the pilgrimages to Mount Vernon and Arlington regularly featured by this great patriotic organization.

Moreover, instead of the one "big night" of the conference, there will be three this year. Customarily the President of the United States has addressed the Daughters at their opening formal session, to be held this time on Monday evening, April 14, until President Coolidge broke the tradition late in his administration by not addressing them at all. President Hoover will address the Daughters, but, by his own request, at a special meeting on Friday, April 18, at which he will be the only speaker. At the Monday evening convocation the principal speakers will be the Secretary of War, Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, and the Acting Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Ernest Lee Jahncke.

Another exciting program is promised for Thursday evening, April 17, which is being informally heralded as "Bolshevik night." The Daughters, being the Daughters, however, it will be the opponents rather than the proponents of the experiment in Russia who will be heard, with such speakers as Princess Cantacuzene and Father Edmund A. Walsh, S. J.; Mr. Richard Washburn Child, former United States Ambassador to Italy, will also speak, his subject being "Unshackled America."

This is not a "presidential year" with the D. A. R., but there are eight vacancies to be filled among the vice presidents general, with 11 candidates so there will probably be just enough of a fight to make things interesting.

German Ambassador Entertains Publishers.

The Ambassador of Germany, Herr Friederich W. von Prittwitz und Gaffron, entertained informally yesterday at luncheon in honor of a group of German editors and publishers who are making a brief visit in Washington.

Senor Luis Riart, who has been appointed Minister of Paraguay to the United States, has a record of distinguished political service to his country. Not only is he a former President of Paraguay, but he has served in the cabinet and in the senate. When he comes to this country the new minister will probably be accompanied by Senora de Riart and their children. Senor Don Pablo Insfran has been charge d'affaires of Paraguay for a year.

Senator Samuel Shortridge, of California, has moved to the Wardman Park Hotel, where he has taken an apartment.

Senator Robert F. Wagner will be the guest of honor and speaker at the Woman's National Democratic luncheon next Monday.

Mrs. W. Harry Brown, who spent most of the winter in Florida, has sailed for Europe to be absent most of the summer.

Mrs. Robert Mackenzie will entertain at dinner on Tuesday evening, April 15, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. J. Ormond Lawson-Johnston, who are at Kentsdale for the month of April. Before her recent marriage

Mrs. Lawson-Johnston was Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall.

Mrs. Charles L. McNary has returned to Washington after a fortnight's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Frelinghuysen Dumont in Cuba. Mr. Dumont is United States Consul General to Havana.

Miss Mabel Boardman To Sojourn in Europe.

Miss Mabel Boardman has sailed for Europe to be absent three months. On her return she will go direct to her summer home at Murray Bay, Province of Quebec, Canada.

Gen. and Mrs. William D. Mitchell have sent out invitations for a dance on Saturday evening at their country home near Middleburg. A large group of guests from Washington will attend.

Miss Judge Leaves For European Stay.

Miss Katherine Judge has sailed for Europe to be gone all summer. Mrs. George Mesta, who is now occupying Miss Judge's apartment at 1785 Massachusetts avenue, has leased it for another year, beginning in June.

Mrs. Frank C. Henry was hostess at luncheon yesterday at the National Woman's Country Club, her guests including Mrs. Maurice H. Thatcher, Mrs. Edward L. Hillyer, Mrs. Alfred [illegible], Mrs. Joseph Horgan, Mrs. Allen W. Gullion, Miss Mona Hill, Miss Pearl B. Mason, Miss Dorothy Kurtz, Miss Mary Shinn, Miss Ruth Gullion, Miss Missathea Gullion, Miss Helen Carr and Mrs. Grace Butler.

Miss Nellie Sedgley and Miss Isabel Sedgley have sent out invitations for Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at their house on Massachusetts avenue, when there will be a program of music on the new ether-wave instrument, the theremin.

Miss Edmonds Is Married to Lieut. Harris

Marine Corps Officer and Capital Girl Are Wed.

Miss Elizabeth Irwin Edmonds and Lieut. Dwight Le Roy Harris, U. S. M. C., were married last night in the St. Stephen and the Incarnation Church at 8 o'clock. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herbert Edmonds.

The bride wore a lovely gown of ivory satin cut on severe lines, the bodice molded to the figure and the skirt falling in points at the front and back and extending to a long train. The sleeves were finished with long pointed cuffs. A tulle veil was caught to the hair with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias, white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The attendants wore picturesque frocks of organdie in pastel shades, the matron of honor, Mrs. Ira B. McKee, of Annapolis, in blue with picture hat to match. Miss Marjorie F. Trader, of Detroit, was maid of honor. Her dress was of pink organdie with matching hat. The four bridesmaids, Miss Katharine Tone, of Pittsburgh; Miss Kathleen Lakeman, Miss Lucille Camp and Miss Helen West were gowned alike in organdie of pink and orchid, with hats of matching shade. All carried muffs of varicolored sweet peas.

Lieut. E. L. Lyman, U. S. M. C., was best man.

Lieut. Harris and his bride left for a trip and will return to Quantico, Va., where they will make their home.

The University Club has canceled plans for a lecture to be given at the club on Thursday evening by Mr. Charles Edward Russell because of the illness of Mr. Russell.

Mrs. Algernon H. Binyon, known professionally as Caroline van H. Bean, will spend the greater part of April and May in Virginia painting its historic homes and gardens. Capt. and Mrs. Binyon entertained at dinner Sunday in their Georgetown residence, having as guests Mrs. Charles H. Wright, of Pittsfield, Mass., and Brig. Gen. and Mrs. David L. Brainard.

Mr. Julius Lay to Open Home in Washington.

Mr. Julius Lay, recently appointed Minister to Honduras, has arrived in New York, accompanied by Mrs. Lay, from Santiago de Chile, where Mr. Lay has been serving as counselor of the United States Embassy. They will open their house in Washington for the early spring, leaving for their new post early in May.

"Noted authors" will be guests of the Congressional Club at its weekly tea on Friday afternoon, the group thus described on the invitations including Mary Roberts Rinehart, Bertha Mellett, Mathilde Eiker, Dr. George L. Knapp and Mr. Frederick William Wile, who has just returned from the London naval conference. Mr. Wile will "broadcast" some of his experiences and some of the others will give brief talks. Miss Eiker is the author of "Mrs. Mason's Daughters" and other novels with Washington as a background, and Mrs. Mellett (Mrs. Lowell Mellett) gave us "The Ellington Brat," other novels and short stories. Mrs. Rinehart's latest contribution is "The Door," a mystery story which caused palpitating interest while it was running serially.

Mr. Joseph Riley Dunn Is Capital Visitor.

Mr. Joseph Riley Dunn has arrived from Cornell University to be the guest of Mr. J. Hale McKillip at the Carlton Hotel for several days. Mr. McKillip entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton for his guest and will be host tonight to a party of eight at the Club Chantecler.

Mr. McKillip will leave Washington the last of this week for California via Havana and the Panama Canal and will join his mother, Mrs. Patrick Emmet McKillip at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, where they will remain a month. Mr. McKillip is recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident which kept him confined to the St. Francis Hospital, in Trenton, N. J., for several weeks. Mr. C. Wesley Frame, badly injured at the same time, will remain in the hospital for a few weeks longer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cotton, of Baltimore, accompanied by Mrs. Tunstall Smith and Mrs. Frank S. Hambleton, also of Baltimore, were the guests of Mrs. Robert Crain at the luncheon at the Democratic Club yesterday.

The party later went to the Capitol to hear Senator Millard Tydings, of Maryland, speak on prohibition.

Commander Chandler to Leave Capital for Annapolis.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. William D. Chandler will leave Washington the end of May for Annapolis, where Commander Chandler will be stationed after several years of sea duty. During that period Mrs. Chandler and the children have been making their home with her mother, Mrs. Charles D. Richardson.

Mrs. Gardiner Phillip Orme will be at home on Saturday from 4 until 6 o'clock for the last time this season.

Miss Prochnik Learns to Fly In Washington

Daughter of Minister of Austria Will Soon Be Pilot.

Miss Loranda Prochnik, daughter of the Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik, is pointing the way for Washington's little group of diplomatic daughters as the first to take flying lessons. She is out for a pilot's license, which involves ten hours of solo flying by way of preparation, and with this end in view she is taking instruction at the Congressional Airport whenever weather conditions are favorable.

A debutante of the season just closing, Miss Prochnik took a job last winter in the news department of a fashionable photographer's establishment, but she discovered that the business of being a debutante was rather more strenuous than she had imagined, and, since a deb is a deb but once, she resigned in the interest of conserving her health.

The problem of combining society with a job has also been confronting Miss Elizabeth Morrow, daughter of the United States Ambassador to Mexico and Mrs. Dwight F. Morrow, but she has solved it by giving up society—at least, as a business. Home from London, where she went with her father, a delegate to the naval conference, Miss Morrow is making plans to open a girls' school near her home in Englewood, N. J. She has leased the old Vanderbeck residence in Englewood and will enroll little girls up to 8 years of age.

Miss Morrow has been interested in educational work since she herself came out of the schoolroom. She had a position for a time in the Dwight School for Girls, and after she went to Mexico with her parents she taught English classes in a school in Mexico City. The news of her newest adventure is a bit disappointing to Washington, for it was hoped that Miss Morrow would be one of the Morrow household when—or if—Ambassador Morrow becomes Senator Morrow.

Mr. and Mrs. William Frank Garber announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Bessie Stewart Garber, to Mr. Alexander Thompson Britton. The wedding will take place on April 19 at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garber, 1480 Harvard street. Mr. Barton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lee Britton, of Chevy Chase.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Dibble, of Camden, S. C., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Wilhelmina Dibble, to Mr. William A. Warfield, jr., of Washington, on December 31 at Bishopville, S. C.

Mrs. Frank Lamson and Mrs. W. S. Lamson, of Newton, Mass., are at the Martinique Hotel.

Dr. Charles A. Brown, chief of the department of chemical and technological research in the United States Department of Agriculture, and Mrs. Brown, of 3408 Lowell street, were guests of President and Mrs. Bayard Dodge, while at the American University of Beirut, Syria.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown were particularly interested in the laboratories at the American University of Beirut, and in the work being done in teaching modern methods of agriculture to students from countries where primitive methods are still used.

Dr. and Mrs. Cary D. Langhorne have arrived in New York on the liner Pennsylvania from Los Angeles via Havana and the Panama Canal. They will return shortly to their home in Washington.

Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Powell Dunlop, have returned to Washington after a month's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Luis Antonsanti, in Porto Rico.

Mrs. Perry S. Heath had guests lunching with her yesterday at the National Woman's Country Club.

Mrs. John D. Sherman, of Denver, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is at the Mayflower.

Mr. and Mrs. Felian Garzia have moved from Woodside, Md., where they have been living, to 1916 G street.

Maj. and Mrs. Henry L. Rice and their daughter, Miss Alice Rice, are staying at the Chevy Chase Club during the month of April, having sold their house in Quincy street. In the late spring Maj. and Mrs. Rice and Miss Rice will sail for Europe, where they will pass the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harton Are Dinner Hosts.

The Assistant Naval Attache of the British Embassy and Mrs. W. C. Horton entertained a party of ten last evening at dinner at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton, her guests numbering nine.

Mrs. Leonard Wood Honored at Tea.

A distinguished company assembled on Monday at Roosevelt House in New York, where a tea was given in honor of Mrs. Leonard Wood, honorary president of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, the president and board of directors being hostesses. Among those who received with Mrs. Wood were Mrs. Bayard Cutting and Mrs. William Curtis Demorest. Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of the late President Roosevelt, was with the group of hostesses.

Among the guests were Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Hanson B. Ely, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. James G. Harbord, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius N. Bliss, Mr. and Mrs.

Old Mattresses Made New
$4 to $9
Box Springs Renovated

If sleep is no longer as restful as it used to be—have your old mattress made into a buoyant new one that literally croons you to sleep.

For health's sake too, have them sterilized and cleaned! For dirt and germs get inside the ticking where you cannot clean. You will be surprised to see how dirty the inside of even a well-cared-for mattress can become! We will make your old mattresses into new ones at a cost of only $4 to $9.

First, they will be put into a sterilizer. There 230 degrees of heat kills all germs. Then all the hair or felt is taken out and run thru a cleaner. Every particle of dirt is removed.

A felting machine then turns it into layer after layer of snowy-white, fleecy felt, which is filled into charming new ticking and sewed. It is then really New.

If you phone early in the morning, your mattress will be re-made in one day.

Mattresses, box springs and pillows renovated or made to order at factory prices.

Beds of early American designs. Smart Simmons beds in colorful designs. Mattresses, box springs, pillows. Everything needed for restful sleep.

CHURCHES RAP HAYS' TALKIE UPLIFT PLAN

MORAL CODE RIDICULED

New York, April 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—All religious, welfare and patriotic organizations which have "cooperated" with the motion picture industry through the medium of Will H. Hays are urged in the forthcoming issue of the Churchman to institute immediate investigations to determine whether their officials were in the pay of the Hays interests.

Citing the example of the Rev. Charles S. MacFarland, general secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, who recently offered his resignation after admitting he had received regular remuneration from the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., of which Hays is president, the Churchman suggests that investigations may uncover similar practices in the following groups:

Boy Scouts of America, International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, Northern Baptist Convention, Daughters of the American Revolution (State and national), General Federation of Women's Clubs (State and national), Russell Sage Foundation, Parent-Teacher Association, Amateur Cinema League, Inc., the Presbyterian Magazine, Young Men's Christian Association, World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches, School of Religious Education, Boston University, League of American Pen Women (State and national), Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, American Association of University Women, Playground and Recreation Association of America, World Federation of Education Associations, and National Council of Federated Church Women.

The article ridicules the new code of morals for the sound movies announced Monday by Mr. Hays and Carl E. Milliken, secretary of his organization. It says:

"Will church groups 'fall for' Mr. Milliken's present efforts to secure their indorsement of Mr. Hay's latest and somewhat frantic efforts at camouflage, the so-called 'new code made necessary by sound?'"

Mr. Hays today made public congratulatory messages on the adoption of the code sent by Thomas A. Edison, Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin; Gov. Dan Moody of Texas, and Prof. Clyde L. King, of the University of Pennsylvania. They praised the new and apparently stringent rules against depiction of indecency, profanity and crime on the talking screen as a forward step in "self-government" of the industry.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

MR. CLIFFORD BROOKE, director of the National Theater Players, is kept exceedingly busy these days—hopping between the theater and his apartment at Wardman Park Hotel. In the early mornings and late afternoons Mr Brooke is busy rehearsing his company, for which purpose he dresses in English tweed, knickers and stockings. At night, on the stage, he must make a speech and introduce each member of the company; which calls for the old Cavendish—or what the waiters call Soup to Nuts.

* * * *

Business is so good at Poli's this week, with "Journey's End" the attraction, that Mr. W. M. Wilkison, the manager, finds time to throw dinner parties at Nobile's, the latest Italian restaurant to crop up in the Florentine Belt, and stage theater shows afterwards; visiting the Gayety, the National and other places along the Rialto. A trouper of some 50 years standing, Mr. Wilkison has toured the world, many times, and is credited with having first brought Salvini, the younger, to America.

* * * *

Richard Bird, playing the part of Capt. Stanhope in "Journey's End," must, by the nature of the part, limp around the stage. Some one, paying Mr. Bird a compliment, remarked upon the naturalness of his limp. "Well," explained Mr. Bonneville, manager of Poli's, "the boy ought to know how to limp—since he bears a wound received in the World War." Bird was in the retreat from Mons.

* * * *

When "Jonica" played here last week at the National, one of the advertised coauthors was Moss Hart. What transpired, according to information sent this department, was that Mr. Hart took over the original play, written by Dorothy Heyward. Now the same thing is happening to Mr. Hart. His newest play, to have a try-out in Atlantic City soon, is being revamped by George S. Kaufman. The play is called "Once in a Life-Time," and will be produced by Sam H. Harris, just back from Europe.

* * * *

From Europe also comes Mr. Gilbert Miller, who is responsible for "Journey's End" finally getting to Washington. In fact, there is a chance of Washington having a second week's glimpse of this play if the demand warrants. To date, the play is a sell-out. With 1,981 seats in the house, only 10 were vacant Monday night. Last night this feat was almost duplicated. The same will hold true tonight. Just an even break on the overflow seems to look like a second week; which will help the old theater toward making a record for itself. Incidentally, "Journey's End" will be released as an all-talkie about this time next week—April 8, to be exact.

MRS. SUSAN P. SWIFT DIES

Wife of General Probably Will Be Buried in Arlington.

Mrs. Susan Palmer Swift, wife of Gen. Eben Swift, U. S. A., retired, died yesterday at her residence at 2230 California street northwest, following a brief illness. Complete funeral arrangements have not been made, although it is believed she will be buried in Arlington Cemetery tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Swift was the daughter of the late Gen. Innis Palmer, and had lived in Washington for a number of years. Surviving members of her family, in addition to her husband, are three sons, Col. Eben Swift, jr., Merritt Swift, and I. Palmer Swift, and two daughters, Mrs. Tom McKinley and Mrs. Evan Humphry, of Washington.

MRS. HENRY W. BOOTH DIES

Mother of U. S. Envoy to Denmark to Be Buried in Detroit.

Word was received here yesterday of the death in Detroit of Mrs. Henry Wood Booth, mother of Ralph Booth, who was recently appointed Minister to Denmark. Mrs. Henry T. Wittman, of Chevy Chase, Md., is a daughter of Mrs. Booth.

Another of Mrs. Booth's sons is George B. Booth, part owner of the Detroit Evening News. She was 90 years old and had been ill for a long time.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Bloomfield Hills, Detroit, where she lived.

Lambs Club Shepherd Dies.

New York, April 1 (A.P.).—Fritz Williams, shepherd of the Lambs Club and once well known on the Broadway stage, died today of a heart attack in the grill of the club.

WIDOW OF WAGNER DEAD AT AGE OF 92

Mate of Famous Musician Insists She Is Happy and Well to Last.

Bayreuth, Germany, April 1 (A.P.).—The widow of the immortal Richard Wagner died peacefully this morning at the age of 92. To the last she insisted that she was happy and well.

Frau Cosima, as she was generally known, had long been infirm. She contracted bronchial catarrh several days ago, but her death was unexpected. After a good night's sleep she awakened ill at 6 o'clock this morning. Her physician, Herr Angerer, worked valiantly, but at 8 o'clock Frau Cosima became unconscious and died as if she were going to sleep.

Three daughters, Isolde, Thode and Eva, were present. A son, Siegfried, who is conducting Wagner performances at the Scala Opera House in Milan, could not reach the bedside in time.

Frau Cosima's first husband was Hans von Buelow, director of the Weimar Orchestra, whom she married when she was [illegible]. She became attracted to Mr. Wagner, and in 1863 left Mr. von Buelow for Mr. Wagner, marrying the latter in 1870. She was the mother of three daughters by Mr. von Buelow, while Siegfried and Eva were born of the marriage with Mr. Wagner.

Much of the success of Mr. Wagner, who was author of the Ring operas, "Lohengrin" and other famous works, was attributed to his wife's aid. She was the daughter of Franz Liszt. After Mr. Wagner's death in 1883 the widow gave much effort to a monument to his memory in the form of the great Bayreuth festivals.

591,616 in Capital, Ctiy Directory Says

The population of the Capital has increased 41,040, now standing at 591,616, according to the new city directory issued yesterday by R. L. Polk & Co. The volume also reveals that the bank deposits in 1929 were 255,783,340.85; the value of building operations, $47,743,915, and the total water consumption, 26,852,236,560 gallons last year.

Births exceeded deaths by 1,793, the former totaling 9,032 and the latter 7,239. Among the famous names listed in the directory are Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, Will-J. Bryan, Woodrow Wilson, and Alexander Hamilton, together with 45 George Washingtons, 25 John Adamses and 10 Charles Curtises. President Hoover's name appears on page 797 along with a score or more of other Hoovers, its only distinction being that it is in black type.

There are two "Drinks," a "Graft," "Bunk," "Rott," "Drye," "Camel" and "Wetmore." The list opens with Albert P. Aanstad, Treasury Department clerk, of 2321 King place northwest, and ends with William T. Zychlinski, also of the Treasury Department, of Arlington, Va.

EDITOR WOUNDED; MAYOR KILLS SELF

Old Mississippi Feud Ended; Official Picks Funeral Parlor for Suicide.

Yazoo City, Miss., April 1 (A.P.).—A feud between a mayor and an editor resulted today in the shooting of F. R. Birdsall, editor of the Yazoo Sentinal, and the suicide of Mayor J. O. Stricklin.

Dr. R. E. Hawkins narrowly escaped the blazing gun of the mayor with a bullet through his coat.

Witnesses said Dr. Hawkins and Mayor Stricklin were standing on Main street talking when Editor Birdsall turned the corner. As the editor approached, the mayor said: "Well, I might as well have it out with you fellows now." With that he pulled his revolver and pointed it at the dentist, but he darted up a stairway and caught the bullet in his coat. The mayor then fired twice at the editor. The editor collapsed. Witnesses said the mayor fired a third shot after the editor had fallen.

Then Mayor Stricklin walked to his automobile and drove to his son's undertaking establishment, where he ended his life by firing a bullet through his head.

The editor was taken to the hospital, where scant hope was held for his recovery. One of the bullets passed through his abdomen.

LORD BALTIMORE FILLING STATIONS in Washington

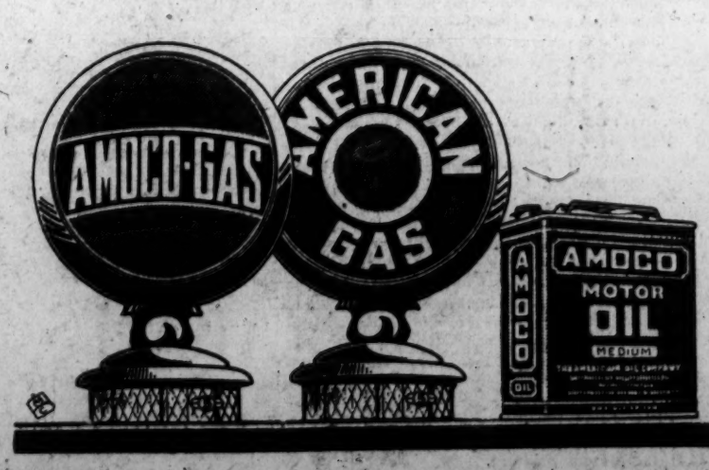
LORD Baltimore has made a big addition to its facilities for serving Washington motorists!

Not by adding one or two new stations to the eighteen already in operation but by adding 65 former Penn Oil Co. Stations located at important traffic points all over the District and in near-by suburban points in Maryland and Virginia.

Lord Baltimore service hasn't been doubled -- it's been increased more than four times!

There's not a street or avenue of any importance in Washington that isn't served by at least one modern, completely equipped Lord Baltimore Filling Station where AMOCO Products may be procured under ideal conditions.

District motorists, by a constantly increasing demand for Lord Baltimore service and Lord Baltimore products, showed they wanted more stations. Now there are 83, ready to serve all of the District's 116,000 motorists.



Due to mechanical difficulties it is not possible to effect an instantaneous transformation of so large a number of stations into Lord Baltimore Filling Stations -- but the work is under way and being brought to completion as rapidly as possible!

FIVE POWERS MUST AGREE.

Japan's "acceptance" of the American naval formula contains reservations which virtually reopen the entire question of American-Japanese naval relativity. The American and British delegations may be so anxious to conclude a three-power pact that they will accept the Japanese terms, but there is a pitfall for the United States in such a situation, for this reason: The acceptance of Japan's reservations would prevent the United States hereafter from holding to the present ratio, and if the London negotiations should fail, Japan would nevertheless stand relatively stronger than at present. In any subsequent negotiations Japan would remind the United States that it had accepted the reservations now made.

The naval formula proposed to Japan is of great advantage to that power at the expense of the United States. The reason for making the concession is plain—it is to bring about a naval agreement, even at heavy cost to this country.

Under the formula Japan gains increased relative strength in cruisers and submarines, while the reservations, if accepted, would leave Japan free to demand still greater relative strength, as well as to replace old submarines with new, without regard to the age limit. The latter reservation is made ostensibly for the purpose of insuring the steady employment of specialized workers. But it would open the way for the building of superior Japanese submarines, of a later model than American vessels.

The formula also provides for 145,000 tons of small cruisers for the United States, a type of vessel not desired by the Navy, and accepted only for the purpose of reaching an agreement with Great Britain. Thus an extravagant item of expense is introduced into the proposed agreement. The formula turns its back upon naval reduction and sacrifices economy for the sake of mythical parity.

Naturally, the Japanese-American proposals hinge upon the Anglo-American negotiations. These, in turn, will have no value unless the five powers at the conference can agree, because Great Britain must retain the right to build more cruisers if France does not scale down its program. Parity between Great Britain and the United States, in other words, is not attainable through a three-power pact.

In the circumstances it does not seem probable that the American delegation will commit itself on the Japanese reservations. If they are accepted before a five-power agreement is reached, the United States would find it practically impossible thereafter to deny to Japan the advantages that are now conceded. The United States delegation can not afford to make concessions to one country unless it is assured of an agreement among all the powers, such as will put a stop to naval competition and establish Anglo-American parity.

Efforts are still being made to bring about an understanding between France and Great Britain. These explorations of possibilities will be very thorough, because of the extreme importance of an agreement. The British treasury faces a heavy deficit, which will be clearly revealed when the budget is submitted on April 14. The preliminary figures are already public. Prime Minister MacDonald must, if possible, bring about an agreement that will enable Great Britain to refrain from naval increases. On the French side M. Briand is discovering that the machinery of the League of Nations does not insure the cooperation of armies and navies in enforcing a league decision. He will give much to reinforce the league, through which he hopes to keep France paramount in Europe.

Prime Minister MacDonald is not only handicapped by Britain's financial deficit, but by the stubborn refusal of England and the dominions to undertake any war commitments. The situation is similar to that which arose in 1924, when Great Britain refused to commit itself to the Geneva protocol. The hostility to further war obligations, which threw Lloyd George out of power when he planned war against Turkey in 1922, is so strong in Great Britain and the dominions that Mr. MacDonald has thus far found it impossible to go very far in his conversations with M. Briand.

THE HOUSE'S TARIFF PROGRAM.

While the Senate was battling with the tariff bill and the House was sitting by with nothing much to do, various representatives took advantage of the opportunity to chide the Senate for the legislative tangle in which it had become involved and to praise the House for the expeditious fashion with which it had disposed of the bill. The Senate tangle was resolved: the bill was approved and sent to the House. Immediately, rumblings of discontent and rumors of insurgency began to circulate. A coalition, it was rumored, would be formed between Democratic representatives and farm-State Republicans. The Old Guard was doomed to defeat. Separate votes on the controversial items in the tariff bill would be demanded before the measure was sent to conference.

But Speaker Longworth and Representatives Snell and Tilson put their heads together and, after three meetings of the rules and steering committees, worked out a scheme that will keep the tariff from public gaze for a few weeks at least. The bill is to be sent to conference according to the usual procedure, but an agreement has been made to permit separate votes on sugar, lumber, cement and shingles when the bill is reported out. Democrats are not pleased with this arrangement, but the potentially insurgent elements are satisfied. Incidentally, the plan paves the way for an easier compromise on rates in the conference.

The threatened flare-up and the maneuvering to agree upon a rule that would sidetrack an immediate controversy evidence the fact that House sentiment does not differ materially from Senate sentiment with respect to the tariff. The representatives who at an earlier date were patting themselves on the back while they chastised the Senate spoke out of turn. Farm elements consider the Hawley-Smoot bill a pernicious piece of legislation; it does not take much urging to bring forth a threat to form a coalition. In the House, however, the threat may be considered idle.

YOUTH AND CRIME.

Statistics gathered by the Children's Bureau give the youth of America a much better character than is usually ascribed to it. Investigators for the bureau went to America's crime center, Chicago, and returned with records showing a decrease in the percentage of crimes committed by young men who have not yet attained their majority. Over a period of years, ending in 1925, it was found that lads from 17 to 20 years old were involved in only 2 to 6 per cent of the cases in the municipal courts. Less than 12 per cent of the arrests made during any one year involved boys from 16 to 20. If crime is gradually diminishing among the youth of Chicago, it may be assumed that reports of lawlessness among the younger generation in all parts of the country are exaggerated.

The bureau also found the percentage of youths in American penal institutions decreasing during a thirteen-year period including the war and post-war years. If crime on the whole is increasing, as seems to be the case, it can not be charged to the youth of the country. Behind most youthful crimes is the neglect or the instigation of some adult. The bureau found only a small number of "hardened criminals" among boys. On the other hand, most cases of delinquency could be traced to broken homes, poverty, lack of intelligent guidance at home, difficulties at school, unemployment and bad environment. Many offenses can be attributed directly to mental deficiency or emotional instability.

The prevalent idea that the younger generation is more sinful than the youth of 20 years ago may be attributed to changing social conditions and to new categories of crime which did not exist until recent years. Automobile stealing is one of the chief offenses of youth today. Obviously that temptation, and consequently that large class of crimes, was absent a generation ago. Young people of the present age are no worse than their parents were; they are subjected to different conditions. If they are able to reduce their percentage of offenses against the law in an age when temptations are multiplied they merit commendation.

THE MOVIE INDUSTRY.

It is estimated that the weekly motion picture audience in the country's 22,000 theaters comprises more than 250,000,000 persons. The effect of the movies in molding character and influencing thought can hardly be overvalued, and it is everlastingly to the credit of the motion picture industry that, voluntarily, it has held its medium fairly free from propagandizing influences. The new code drafted by the producers and distributors of America to apply to the making of talking, synchronized and silent movies marks an important achievement. The code, says Will Hays, president of the association, will insure the conformity of the screen to the most wholesome instincts of life.

Among the provisions of the code are that every effort shall be made to reflect in drama and entertainment the better standards of life; that law, natural or human, shall not be ridiculed; that sympathy shall not be created for violation of the law, &c. The bad taste that so often attended the production of motion pictures in their early days, and which might again have become prevalent with the advent of sound, together with the possibility of exploiting the indecent and the improper for their "box office appeal," were considered in drafting the code; and a firm stand taken against them. Dramatists, educators and psychologists were called into consultation, and the cooperation of church leaders, experts in the field of child education, representatives of women's organizations, and students of moral, social and family problems was obtained to write the document.

It is because of the careful guidance that has been given the movies of recent years that they have made such strides, and that they have been able to turn aside the censorship movements. Self-censored, the motion picture promises to rise to artistic heights.

THE PALESTINE PROBLEM.

The Palestine commission of inquiry, to which was assigned the task of sifting out the causes of the 1929 massacres and probing to the bottom of the animosities between the Arabs and Jews, has made its report public in London. The conclusions reached are much the same as those of other observers. One people is struggling desperately against the encroachments of another, just as has been done since history began.

The report has been awaited with great interest by Jewish people throughout the world because of the effect it may have on the Zionist movement. Sir Walter Shaw and his investigators found that the Wailing Wall dispute was only an excuse for the outbreak of hostilities which have been germinating since Palestine was set up as a national home for the Jews. The Arabs were actuated by fears of economic and political domination. Their hostility was cultivated by anti-Jewish propaganda until an outbreak was unavoidable.

Some members of the commission believe that the Arab population of Palestine will benefit by the immigration of Jews. But the Arabs have taken the opposite view and unless something is done to change their minds there appears to be slight hope of the two races living peaceably together. The commission believes that through a process of education economic differences may be minimized, but it admits that prospects of political harmony are not encouraging.

The most significant part of the report deals with the policy Great Britain has adopted in dealing with Palestine. The Balfour declaration established Palestine as a national home for the Jews, and this is confirmed in the mandate. But the mandate also specifies that the civil and religious rights of the non-Jewish population shall be safeguarded. Great Britain has been trying to make the Holy Land a Jewish national home and preserve it as an Arab territory at the same time.

Until the British government defines its policy uncertainty will remain and fresh outbreaks may be expected. The commission attaches the highest importance to its recommendation that the government issue a clear statement of policy, which would set forth the rights and position of the non-Jewish communities and the attitude of the British toward Jewish immigration. The commission finds that Jews are migrating to Palestine faster than they can be absorbed in the economic system. Further trouble is certain to occur if this practice is continued. It is imperative that some definite stand on this question be taken.

Los Angeles officials have found that married men make the better lifeguards. They've had experience in getting out of tight places.

FRENCH SECURITY

From the Indianapolis News.

France's demand for security is easily understood, and with that demand there will be, as there has been, much sympathy. But it is less clear just what she means by security. From the dawn of history it would seem that no nation was ever more safe as against attack than the present French republic. She is a member of the league of nations, as are the other European powers, and as such would be entitled to, and receive, the support of the league against any nation making, or threatening to make, aggressive war on her. The offending nation would become an outlaw, as far as other members of the league were concerned. It would be subjected to an economic boycott, a severance of diplomatic relations, and, if these did not suffice, to military coercion. Indeed an act of war committed by any member of the covenant would be an act of war against all the other members of the league. Under such conditions as France now fears, she would have the whole of Europe at her back. A willful, aggressive attack on France—or any other European country—would be an attack on the whole of Europe.

But this is not all. By the Locarno treaties signed by Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy, the present boundaries between France and Germany and Germany and Belgium are declared "inviolable," the three powers "undertake that they will in no case attack or invade each other or resort to war against each other," with the usual reservation of the right to wage a war of self-defense against assault by an aggressor, or by a power that makes war in violation of the league of nations covenant. This Locarno agreement was declared by Earl Grey, former British foreign secretary, to be "probably the greatest step toward real and assured peace which has been made since the war." The agreement is certainly something of protection against attack and as such ought to count for something.

In addition France has the protection afforded by the Kellogg-Briand pact, to which she, Great Britain, the United States, Italy and Russia are parties, and according to the terms of which all the signatories "condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another." These powers also agree that "the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature they may be, which may arise among them, shall never be sought except by pacific means." If the conference should break up, and France should build her navy fully up to the strength which she thinks it should have, she would not be as secure as she is now, since other powers would immediately start building, as every one knows. There is, as yet, no such thing as absolute insurance against hostile attack, yet this seems to be what the French are demanding. It is greatly to the credit of France that the views of the civilian, Clemenceau, prevailed over those of Marshal Foch in the war settlement, the former holding that the safety of the nation did not require the extending of the French frontier clear up to the Rhine. A little of the same sort of reasonableness would help greatly at the present juncture.

Their Specialty.

Macon Telegraph: Los Angeles Times advises the authorities there to lock the gates against the influx of Chicago and Detroit gangsters. But that won't do any good. Those birds from Chicago and Detroit will take gate and all.

Freedom of the Air.

Los Angeles Times: Under old English law a landowner could claim possession to the air above his property as far as the heavens, and theoretically the right still holds. In this new era of airplanes such possession has practically been set aside. However, sooner or later it will be necessary to define by law how much of the air above the earth the property holder may reserve for his own use and how much like the oceans is free to all for navigating the airways. Otherwise some skyscraper may trespass on the public domain.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

CALLERS.

I've put away the easy chair,
My desk with books I strew,
I've left no space for sitting there
As once I used to do.
I've stripped the pictures from the walls,
The carpet from the floor,
But every visitor who calls
Enjoys my room the more.

Time was I flaunted posters two.
"I'm busy!" one proclaimed,
The other: "I have work to do!"
But not one man they shamed.
The callers read them with a grin,
Some praised the massive print,
But no one that I ushered in
Would take them as a hint.

To keep the windows closed I tried,
I've let the air grow stale.
One month I flung them open wide
And shivered in a gale.
But still they came and still they stayed,
And still they come and stay,
As if the hours of day were made
For them to chat away.

I write this now to justify
The dreadful deed I dread,
If I shall let my temper fly
And strike some caller dead,
When full confession I have made
Prepared to pay the price,
Think of the countless hours he stayed
While I was being nice.

Destiny Drives the Eagle Aloft, But the Earthworm Is Equally Successful.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SUCCESS is the goal a man fixes for himself—the achievement required to satisfy his vanity.

If his talents are few he will dream of a small triumph; if he has in him the stuff of greatness he will set himself a task worthy of his abilities.

In a world full of innumerable obstacles he chooses as though by instinct the few or many he is capable of overcoming and thus unconsciously reveals the measure of his strength.

The fox that catches rodents and birds in sufficient quantity to keep his ribs padded achieves a fox success and suffers no vain regrets because of his inability to bring down an elk.

Instinct prompts each of the creatures to choose a way of life suited to its capacities and the success to which each aspires is the satisfaction of its own needs.

Thus the man whose abilities are small requires but a small achievement to support his self-respect and comes to his grave without bitterness if he has at last succeeded in buying the farm adjoining his original holding or has served his township as justice of the peace.

A boy's dreams do not declare his abilities, for he lives in a dream world made of the things he has read. One triumph beckons him today and another tomorrow, for the glory he covets is abstract.

But once he faces and recognizes the hard realities that stand in his way, the goal he selects for himself is the goal he must win to please his vanity and satisfy his nature.

Much or little, high or low, that goal represents success—not for a smaller man, or a greater one—but for the individual who selects it.

And since that goal is the measure and limit of his abilities—in a sense the destination selected for him by destiny itself—he may achieve it blindly, as a traveler on a strange road comes at last to a town without any more definite plan than a determination to travel on until he finds lodging.

Calvin Coolidge, for example, made no plans to reach the White House, but devoted himself to public service and party service until faithfulness and regularity brought him quietly to his logical goal.

And thus any man, without knowing or caring where he will end, can by the simple process of doing his utmost arrive at the goal for which he is qualified and achieve the triumph, large or small, that to him is complete success.

"CRACKED ICE"—A DRAMA.

(The U. S. Supreme Court has upheld a decision padlocking a hotel in which ginger ale, ice and other setups, into which patrons put their own liquor, were served.—News item.)

Patron—Some cracked ice, please!

Waiter (a little astonished)—Cracked ice? For what purpose, sir?

Patron—Never mind for what purpose. Bring me the ice.

Waiter—Sorry, sir, but the management won't serve any cracked ice unless it knows the purpose.

Patron (impatiently)—Say it's for any purpose you like. Tell the manager I want it to drop down my back to cure hiccoughs.

Waiter—But you haven't any hiccoughs, sir.

Patron—I certainly have. Get me some ice.

Waiter—You'll have to let me hear you hiccough first, sir.

Patron (trying to comply)—There. How's that?

Waiter—That's not a genuine hiccough, sir. You can't fool me!

* * * *

Patron (quite exasperated)—Oh, well, never mind the ice. Bring me a bottle of ginger ale.

Waiter—You'll have to take it up with the office, mister.

Patron—Take what up with the office?

Waiter—The ginger ale, sir. All orders for ginger ale and bottled water have to go through the office.

Patron—Why?

Waiter—We have to be extremely careful to whom we serve ginger ale. Are you on the ginger ale list, sir?

Patron—What ginger ale list?

Waiter—The hotel keeps a list of guests it can trust with ginger ale.

Patron—How can I get on the list?

Waiter—It's quite difficult, sir. You have to be proposed by three reputable citizens, each of whom swears you are the sort of person who orders ginger ale entirely because he wants ginger ale, sir. Then, if elected, you have to fill out a card assuring the management you won't put anything in it.

Patron—The house is pretty fussy.

Waiter—We have to be. The Supreme Court insists upon it.

Patron (hopelessly)—Well, never mind the ice or ginger ale. Just bring me an empty glass.

Waiter—I'm afraid I can't do that, either, sir.

Patron—And why not?

Waiter—You'll have to be introduced by somebody we know before we can let you have a glass.

Patron—But I simply want it to get a drink of water.

Waiter—I'm very sorry, sir, but my orders are not to give anybody a glass unless he is known. I let a gentleman have an empty glass yesterday on his own statement that he was known here and he betrayed my trust at once, sir.

Patron—How?

Waiter (sadly)—The moment my back was turned he put some gin into it.

Patron (now quite discouraged)—Oh, well, what can you bring me without embarrassing the hotel?

Waiter—I can let you have a cup of coffee, sir.

Patron (weakly)—All right. I give in.

LIFE.

(With another bow to Samuel Hoffenstein.)

A little time in which to spin
And hop and skip and do some crowin';
A little while to laugh and grin
And keep the red corpuscles flowin'—
Then quiet, and the peace of years,
And no more washing of our ears.

A few more days in which to bring
A lot of fun before we're sunk;
A bit more room to have our fling
And get a little more than drunk—
Then overcome by that deep wave,
Thank goodness, we don't have to shave.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Potomac Valley Park Should Be Preserved—Engineer Somervell Weak on the Esthetic Side.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In consideration of this comment on Army Engineer Brehon B. Somervell's Great Falls park and power testimony, please do not get the idea that I am a scenic fanatic. The truth is that I am only a simple-minded scenic enthusiast, one among many who hope the original aspect of our beautiful Potomac gorge, finally made accessible by easy drives and bypaths, will be preserved.

Maj. Somervell's assertion that the National Park and Planning Commission's scheme for the development of a Great Falls park without obliterating nature's handiwork would cause "the waste of $100,000,000 of the public's resources" is impressive. But whether such a loss would actually result or not, it seems fair to call attention to the fact that, if there had not been strong opposition by the public, the primitive grandeur and beauty of Niagara Falls would long since have been sacrificed to that same line of reasoning. And on a somewhat smaller scale the Potomac scenery above Washington is as grand and beautiful as that of the Niagara Falls region.

As an engineer the major's testimony is not to be questioned. In the field of esthetics he is not quite so convincing. For instance, there was a seeming effort on his part to confine the attention of the committee to the limited terrain of the so-called Great Falls. If it were solely a question whether the falls themselves should be preserved we might admit that they are hardly worth the price. Although we would at the same time regret the desecration of a spot in reference to which James Bryce said, "No European city has so noble a cataract in its vicinity as the Great Falls of the Potomac, a magnificent piece of scenery which you will, of course, always preserve."

What is particularly deprecated is the converting of the noble gorge of the Potomac into a series of lakes as contemplated by Maj. Somervell and the hydroelectric landscape gardeners.

Of course, we are well pleased that the discussion has reached a stage where a spacious and beautiful Potomac Valley park is assured. And we still hope that the public and Congress will continue to favor the original George Washington Memorial Park idea of the Park and Planning Commission, despite the sinister hypnotism of the dollar.

PLAIN CITIZEN.

A Democrat Takes Exception to Mr. Roper's Criticism of Chairman Raskob.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In Mr. Roper's letter, appearing in The Post of April 1, he states that he believes every person should be granted the right to seek the repeal of any law which he believes is not contributing to the best interest of the people, and further on in his letter deplores the fact that the Democratic party has Mr. Raskob as its chairman, which objection is based primarily on the fact that he is a member of and has contributed largely to an association which has never sought and is not now seeking to do more than what Mr. Roper concedes to be the right of every individual.

Neither Mr. Raskob nor the National Association Against Prohibition has ever been accused of nullifying or attempting to nullify any law. They are merely seeking through the proper channels the repeal of a law which they believe is not contributing to the best interest of the people. Whether or not they are right in their belief, they certainly have violated none of the principles of either of the two major parties.

So far as Gov. Smith is concerned, he repeatedly stated when a candidate in the last election that if elected he would do everything within his power to enforce the prohibition law as long as it was on the statute books. In view of these well-known and oft repeated facts it seems to me that any objection directed at Chairman Raskob or Gov. Smith is either not well founded or must have as its cause in reasons other than their individual views on prohibition.

A DEMOCRAT.

When America Is Called a Republic a New Light Is Shed on its Relations With the World.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In this day of promiscuous international fellowship, nothing which tends to foster the spirit of Americanism should be overlooked.

A simple means toward this end would be to speak of the United States as a "republic" more frequently than is at present the case.

As a republic the United States stands in a select group. When we call it a republic, the purpose of its birth and the promise of its future are recalled. Call it a nation and there is nothing in the word to distinguish it from Soviet Russia or the Empire of Great Britain.

In this preference for our country's natal designation there need be no loss of verbal fitness or polish. The term "nation," with its other synonyms, may still be kept in use.

All that is called for is to bear in mind that, for the benefit of the developing citizens of the land, the constant service of the distinctive word "Republic" is worth while.

Indeed, this use of the word in respect to our Government should be considered of not less importance than the salute to the flag.

FEDERALIST.

Uncle Sam Should Be the Kenesaw Landis of Squabbling Nations, to Make Them Play Ball.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Instead of becoming a party to a "consultative pact," or any other equivocal understanding, I should like to have our Government join "the powers" in what may be called an "arbitrative pact." By this pact the other nations would accept Uncle Sam as arbiter of world peace. His status might be something like that of Kenesaw Mountain Landis in baseball. Notwithstanding his so-called isolation, Uncle Sam's disinterested attitude has done the world an immeasurable amount of good. His shirt-sleeve method of maintaining peace would be mighty effective.

SOMERVELL POWER CLAIM IS ATTACKED

$100,000,000 Loss in Case Potomac Is Not Harnessed Denied by Group.

ORIGINAL BILL PRAISED

Urging that the banks of the Potomac River be developed as a parkway under the provisions of the Cramton-Capper bill, instead of being developed by a power company, the American Civic Association issued a statement yesterday severely censuring the claim of Maj. Brehon Somervell, District engineer for the War Department, that the people of the District will lose $100,000,000 if the property is not put to some utilitarian use.

Maj. Somervell made this claim last week before the Senate District committee on the hearing of the Capper-Cramton bill.

The civic association charges that the figure of $100,000,000 has been raised from $48,000,000, which represents an estimate made in 1929. The statement further charges that this figure has been raised by the use of pencil and paper, and sets down a lengthy argument to support the charge.

Stand Is Set Forth.

The chief argument in support of the Cramton-Capper bill on the part of the civic association is embraced in the following:

"The Cramton-Capper bill provides for bringing both shores of the Potomac into public ownership and control of the Federal Government. (The property is that from Mount Vernon and Fort Washington to a point above Great Falls.) The increased taxable land values in Virginia and Maryland will repay these States for their joint half of the total expenditure to purchase and preserve the unspoiled shores of the Potomac in a natural park," the association points out.

"If the shores of the Potomac are brought into public ownership and preserved, it will be within the control of Congress to authorize any other kind of water development it may believe to the public good. The Cramton bill safeguards the future by providing that the park shall not be a bar to navigation, power or other water use authorized by Congress.

Bad Business Foresight Seen.

"But to turn the river and its shores over to a power company, just at the time when many experienced power experts believe that steam power will supersede water power, and allow the natural beauties of the park to be impaired does not seem good business."

The development proposed by the Potomac River Corporation will involve the expenditure of large sums of money with the supplement of "some sort of jazz park," the association asserts. Other forms of proposed developments, including the recommendations of Maj. Soverveil, "fall far short of the park authorized by the Cramton-Capper bill now being considered by the Senate committee," the statement adds.

As a final touch to its argument, the association points out that the beauty of Washington can not be preserved if power reservoirs and other artificialities of industrialism are introduced.

Way to Get At a Cold Is Through the Bowels

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly —and cost only a dime?

A "Good" Shell

If you can picture a cut in the side of a trench about 8 feet long and 6 feet wide with a top on it covered with 6 or 8 inches of dirt to keep out the Boche G. I. cans, you have a picture of a shelter on the Verdun front, Marbache Sector, in the spring of 1918, which was the home of six "crummy" soldiers of Company C, Ninth Infantry, Second Division, A. E. F. This would-be dugout could be penetrated by a 1-pounder with ease.

The six of us slept in one bunk at one time, and when one wanted to turn he would waken the other five and yell "Shift." Over every one would go like the ball bearing in a wheel. Very little sleep was had in those days, as we had outpost duty every night and that means no sleep at all.

To relate what I have in mind takes me to a nice bright day of sunshine, one Sunday morning during April, 1918. Things were very quiet this particular day, except for a piece of artillery which decided to have a little target practice at our expense, just to break the monotony for the gang. We heard it bang, then it was on its way—the whiz and swish followed, and we all hit the dirt of our would-be dugout and waited for the angels' wings to be issued for our flight into the arms of St. Peter.

A direct hit was the result of the Boche's effort. The shell nosed up (a 3-inch one) to the edge of the roof of our dugout and stopped there—a perfect dud. Everybody was breathing natural again. The six shirt readers or "crums" buried the Heine's souvenir 6 feet under Mother Earth, as was the custom "over there" to get all duds out of the way so some of the boys would not get playful and try to find out what they were made of at the expense of their lives and possibly others.

After the close of the war, if the memory of the writer is correct, there were three of us still living who remembered the best dud in the A. E. F.

Right! Eh, What?

We were in reserve back of the British lines near Amiens in the early spring of 1918 when the Germans were threatening to split the Allied armies. British organizations were scattered in the same area as our division.

We had not been paid for several months and no one had money, so a group went to a cafe one night and "mooched" drinks from a lot of Tommies.

In the discussions an English soldier was telling how they had been forced to retreat with heavy losses.

An American who was liquored up retorted, "You English can't fight anyway."

The Britisher answered: "You bluudy fooling Yanks do all yere fighting talking about hit back of the lines. Youh've all got yere wind up."

Other Tommies wisecracked as though it was their war, their cafe, and their party. Suddenly a bottle flew and a general dog fight was on. Heads were bruised and the place more or less demolished. It was hard to say who had won when the M. P.'s arrived and quelled the riot. But an Australian who witnessed the fracas laughed and said:

"You can tell an Englishman, Frenchman or American by the way they act. An Englishman steps around with his head and nose in the air as much as to say, I am master of everything I survey. A Frenchman is gracious and acts as much as to say, this is my country but you are welcome to anything you want. But an American—his actions indicate that he don't give a damn who the country belongs to or why, but he's going to make the best of it and get what he wants.

Give 'Em Credit

Just before the St. Mihiel drive we pulled into a little village near Nancy to hide until time to take our place on the front. There was a British bombarding field adjacent to the village with hangars housing about 1,000 bombers.

I spent most of my time under a prune tree watching the planes. T second day, after all the British squadrons had left, I noticed a plane, wearing a black cross, land on t field. Hardly had it landed when the Germans recognized their mistake and the British their enemy. A great number of British mechanics and officers rushed out of the hangers just as the Germans started to take off. The Germans skimmed the top of the hangars too low for the anti-aircraft gun to fire, but the British were shooting pistols, rifles and even throwing wrenches. The Germans cleared the field but the British phoned to a nearby French combat squadron, one of whom took off after the Germans. After maneuvering and firing at each other the French got directly under the Germans and disabled the German plane, whereat the Germans took a nose dive directly on the French. There was a crash fr which the French plane crumbled and fell in a heap, but the Germans managed to land safely.

They immediately set fire to their plane before the British cou take them prisoner. They were a pair of German sergeants who had lost their way. One had a bullet wound through his leg and the other a bruised head.

"Money Talks"

It was quite a difficult problem to transport to France the huge 14-inch naval guns used by Uncle Sam's bluejackets with the naval railway batteries.

Two of these guns were strapped to the deck of the U. S. S. Bath, an old former German freighter of only 5,000 tons. Her decks had to be reinforced to carry the enormous weight of the monstrous weapons.

When the old Bath finally arrived at St. Nazaire, the operator of the rickety old overhanging crane blinked his eyes twice when he saw what a load his crane would have to lift in order to get the guns ashore.

After some coaxing on the part of naval officers present, the frog operator ascended to the control room, about 150 feet in the air. The crane started lifting and raised the gun about 30 feet above the deck when the hoisting machinery jammed. The frog operator was scared dizzy and down he came from the control station, leaving the 116-ton gun dangling in the air over the deck of the old Bath.

All arguments could not induce the frog operator to return and at least get the gun down on the deck, for if it had dropped on the old Bath she would have been cut in two. About this time Admiral Cy Plunkett, commander of the railway guns, happened on the scene and sized up the situation. After a huddled conference the frog operator went back up and succeeded in landing the huge gun on shore.

Few at the time knew how the admiral succeeded in inducing the frog operator to return.

Several months later, in referring to the incident, Admiral Plunkett remarked, "But a 5-franc note brought us through."

BRUENING, DEFIANT, OUTLINES POLICIES

Chancellor May Dissolve Reichstag if He Is Given Vote of Nonconfidence.

IS JEERED AND CHEERED

Berlin, April 1 (A.P.).—Dr. Heinrich Bruening, the German chancellor, today stood with a decree of dissolution in his pocket and told the Reichstag Germany needed work, not words, and action, not argument.

The chancellor so served notice that his cabinet was determined to operate on these principles, and a threat of dissolution was implied if the Reichstag does not fall in line.

Dr. Bruening has been authorized by President von Hindenburg to dissolve Parliament and conduct the government under article 48 of the constitution should the Reichstag give a vote of nonconfidence.

His was a short and punchy ministerial declaration, bristling with confidence. The bespectacled, scholarly chancellor, with a steely voice and a square jaw, was plentifully interrupted and jeered by Communists as he stressed the need of immediate passage of financial reform measures, but the remainder of the house listened attentively. Occasional applause came from the Center and the Right.

The Communists also introduced a motion of nonconfidence, as had been expected, but observers do not believe it will carry when the Reichstag meets again tomorrow noon.

"Germany's vital interests will be taken care of by the organic development of foreign policy as it has hitherto been carried on," said the ministerial declaration, thus confirming previous information that the policies of the late Dr. Gustav Stresemann would be followed. "National self-confidence and trust in the innate power of our own people, as well as realization that Germany's comeback can be accompanied only by peaceful cooperation with all peoples —these principles will constitute the foundation stone of this policy."

"Broadly, this policy," says the declaration, "will be characterized by loyal fulfillment of international undertakings, clarification and the further development of our relations to all states with which we are in friendly treaty and trade relations, advancement of international cooperation especially along economic lines with a view to relieving the difficulties of our economic life closely interwoven as it is with world economy.

"The final goal of this policy is an economically sound, politically free and equal Germany which can complete its reconstruction under the protection of peace and which must be an indispensable factor in the community of states."

Film Stars Bridge Game Is Reviewed

Final in Work Series Featured by Motion Picture Players to Delight of Screen Fans and Other Devotees of the Game.

Four motion-picture stars, Miss Winnie Lightner, Miss Marion Nixon, Joe E. Brown and Grant Withers, furnished a treat for motion-picture fans as well as for Bridge players by putting on the final game in Milton C. Work's Radio Bridge series, which went on the air yesterday from Station WRC.

Miss Lightner, as dealer, South, bid one Spade on: Spades, A, K, J, 7, 4, 2; Hearts, 5; Diamonds, J, 6; Clubs, 10, 9, 7, 4. Mr. Brown, West, bid two Hearts. His cards were: Spades, 10, 6, 3; Hearts, A, K, 7, 6, 4, 3, 2; Diamonds, A, K, Q; Clubs, none. Mr. Withers, North, passed. He held: Spades, 9; Hearts, J, 10, 8; Diamonds, 9, 8, 7, 5, 4, 3, 2; Clubs, A, Q. Miss Nixon, East, also passed. Her hand was: Spades, Q, 8, 5; Hearts, Q, 9; Diamonds, 10; Clubs, K, J, 8, 6, 5, 3, 2. On the second round, Miss Lightner, South, bid two Spades, and Mr. Brown, West, three Hearts. Mr. Brown's bid was followed by three passes, so he became Declarer with his contract three Hearts.

Mr. Withers, North, naturally opened his singleton 9 of Spades, the suit bid by his partner. Dummy, East, played the 5. Miss Lightner, South, played the Jack, the Queen being exposed in Dummy; Mr. Brown, Declarer, West, false-carded the 10, in an endeavor to make South shift to some other suit in the fear that West could trump the next Spade lead.

But South was not perturbed at the prospect of a ruff by Declarer, in fact would have been glad to force him and possibly benefit North, who might have four trumps; furthermore there appeared to be no advantage in leading any other suit up to the Dummy. So South led the King of Spades to trick two; Declarer, West, played the 6; and North was called upon to make a discard. Seeing the King of Clubs exposed in Dummy, North appreciated that his own Queen was useless, but by discarding it on this trick, he could ask for a Club lead after South had finished leading Spades. Therefore North discarded the Queen of Clubs, and Dummy played the 8 of Spades.

South continued Spades with the Ace; Declarer followed with the Trey; and North had to determine an interesting question in discarding. Having discarded his Queen of Clubs, he knew that if he should now discard his Deuce of Diamonds, South would lead a Club to the next trick. It was probable that North's Ace of Clubs would win that trick, saving game; but it was not certain that it would do so. But if North discarded his Ace of Clubs on trick three, and South led a Club to trick four, as she surely would, North must win with one of his trumps regardless of whether West followed suit, discarded, or ruffed with a high Heart or a low one. So on trick three North discarded his Ace of Clubs, a play sure to save game; and Dummy played the Queen of Spades.

After North's spectacular Club discarding, South's duty was clear; of course, she led a Club . . . the 4 . . . to the next trick. The Declarer, West was placed in an embarrassing position. He knew North would trump unless he shut North out with a high trump; he could see his case was hopeless if North had the Jack-10 and another trump, as his play strongly indicated. But if the adverse trumps were evenly divided, he could make his game by trumping high and then drawing the adverse trumps; so Declarer played his Ace of Hearts on South's Club. North played the Deuce of Diamonds; Dummy the Deuce of Clubs.

To trick five Declarer led the Deuce of Hearts; North played the 10; Dummy the Queen, and South the 5. There was still hope for Declarer, but it departed on trick six, when, after Dummy, East, led the 9 of Hearts, South discarded the Deuce of Spades. Declarer, West, played the King of Hearts; North played the 8. Declarer then conceded the Jack of Hearts to the opponents and claimed the rest of the tricks, which opponents readily allowed. Declarer scored 24 for three Heart tricks, and 30 for honors. North's discard of the Ace of Clubs robbed Declarer of a game which otherwise would have been easily won.

Commenting on the bidding of the hand, Mr. Work's first question was whether West should have followed South's Spade by bidding more than two Hearts. Undoubtedly the considerations that induced Mr. Brown to bid only two were that with the high Diamonds he held he was strong enough to go as far as four Hearts; and that if South should be bid up gradually to four Spades, she probably could be defeated. On the other side of the picture, it might be pointed out that West had no Clubs and his Spades were unstopped; so North and South might hold a peculiar combination of cards which would enable them to make four spades if they were permitted to carry on a bidding conversation which West's preemption might forestall. Mr. Work's opinion was that if Mr. Brown did preempt, he should bid four Hearts, which might be a larger order than either adversary could handle. Of course just what happened in this hand was possible from West's viewpoint when he was first considering his bid. West and East could make three hearts, and by bidding up one at a time could obtain a contract they could fulfill; while the preemptive bid would put them one step beyond their depth, and result in their being defeated. Mr. Work considered that this case had a strong argument on both sides. Mr. Brown, when he bid two, made the more conservative declaration.

The next question about the bidding was whether Mr. Withers, in the North, should have bid three Diamonds. The bid was one of the type that may work marvelously. His partner's secondary suit might have been Diamonds, and there was a remote possibility that North and South had a game in Diamonds if North named the suit. On the other hand, North had to consider that he had three losing Hearts and his partner might have a like number. Furthermore, North's singleton Spade might prevent him from running his partner's suit. Also, if he bid Diamonds, he might deceive his partner as to his strength in Diamonds, and the bid might induce South either to double an adverse declaration, expecting North to take Diamond tricks, or to raise the Diamonds to a disastrous finish. According to Mr. Work, nothing is more productive of losses in Auction than the bidding of a long weak suit; consequently he applauded Mr. Witchers, North, for passing the opportunity to bid three Diamonds, as he also applauded him for his brilliant, game-saving discard of the Ace of Clubs, a play which he characterized as "100 per cent sound."

At Contract, Mr. Work advised an opening bid by South of one Spade, on the ground that a bid of two is dangerous when the strength is confined to a single six-card suit, A-K-J high. With A-K-Q and three or four others of a major suit, he said he considered a two-bid advisable because with such holding it is important to get a jump from partner with less strength than necessary for a jump of a one-bid. If South's hand had had a side Ace or King, Mr. Work would recommend an opening bid of two.

For West, he recommended a bid of four Hearts, as it looked as if he himself held ten tricks if the outstanding six Hearts were divided evenly among the other three players; and even if they weren't, his partner might have the little help he would need to make his game.

To Mr. Work, North's hand and the previous bidding suggested too freakish a distribution for North to be able to double the four Hearts; and South could not go to four Spades. Therefore, Mr. Work considered that the Contract bid would be four Hearts undoubled; Declarer going down one trick if the North at Contract were clever enough to make the discard of the Ace of Clubs.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Not a "salt and pepper" suit—but salt and paprika dress having a fine white thread on dark red woolen. Note the tm, too. (Courtesy of Tollman, Paris.)

Paris, April 1.

HAVE I told you that pearls are out, gone, demode—poor lovely little pearls! Even a real pearl necklace, if such a thing exists, won't be able to poke its little nose out of its turquoise velvet bed for a while, anyway.

But I wouldn't if I were you take all of your pearls and jump up and down on them, or anything like that. Neither would I feel sorry enough for their flattering loveliness to wear them. Put them into a box or a trunk in the attic—if you have an attic and a trunk—for safe keeping, and in the inevitability of things in four or five or ten or twenty years you or your grandchildren will be wearing them.

Nor is it hard to understand, this sudden demode-ation of pearls (there isn't any such a word, but it will do). Because they were just so flattering and so lovely every woman on earth had to have her pearls and plenty of them! Still we get tired of even the loveliest things when we see too much and too many of them.

So now pearls are relegated to temporary doom and diamonds, crystals, strass—everything that glitters is in—temporary favor.

* * * *

You may think you don't need any collars and cuffs, but how do you know but what you will some day, and wish you had sent your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post this week for the illustrated leaflet of most unusual designs?

And don't be too sure you don't want collars and cuffs sooner or later this season, because they are the last word in charm and smartness and lend such infinite possibilities to a plain dress.

In this leaflet there are designs for afternoon, for evening, or, just all kinds.

* * * *

Rodier tissues are luxuries. A Rodier tissue in the hands of a couturier like Tollman can become a creation—and usually does.

The adorable frock with its matching hat that I have sketched for you today was dark red with fine white threads running through it all over but not all in one direction, as you can see. And then there was a red leather belt which was stitched with white to match the material and white linen collars and cuffs are semipleated.

Is it not your idea of a delightful and wearable dress? It is mine!

Coin de Colour.

Reluctantly I have to admit that my beloved grey is not going to be a popular color this spring and summer. It will always be a popular color with me, but then I'm only one person! Occasionally, to be sure, you see one very beautiful grey model at a couturier collection.

All the more reason, I think, why grey could well be the choice of anyone who wanted to be really exclusive and individual as to color.

Of course you're reading the weekly Dare fashion letter. It's in The Washington Post every Sunday.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF April 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 5:30 a. m. to 7:30 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:40 a. m. to noon, and from 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

Astrological forces on this date are very negative and an attitude of indifference toward most things will be taken. Duty may call forth forced energies and forced interests, but things accomplished will be below par.

The child born on this April 2 will have a quiet, self-contained and proud nature. It will never be satisfied to accept a mediocre position in the world, and will fight to excel. It will be active in both mind and body.

You are a clever person, but until you stop worshipping at the feet of vain and false gods, you will probably never gain the rewards you anticipate. Back of most all of your desires your words and your acts can be found "self." You will never let any one down as long as they work into your scheme of living, but beyond this your loyalty ends. You are an ardent believer in self-preservation and in boosting for "number one."

You are not easily moved by force, but you respond to gentle and artful persuasion; and you are not too clever to fall for flattery. He (or she) who feeds your vanity, soon finds a seat near your heart, and if they be tactful, they may sit on this throne for some time.

The acquisition of wealth is an object of your efforts—to you it is and end and not a means of human endeavor. You like the feeling of power and of being on top. If there is a best of anything, it is what you want. It is probable that sorrow, disappointments and the ingratitude of others may change your character and your desires as you grow older. Selfishness will not follow you all through life. You have an outstanding personality, one which attracts.

Successful people born April 2:

Thomas Jefferson, third President of the United States.

Alexander H. H. Stuart, Secretary of Interior under Fillmore.

Erastus D. Palmer, sculptor.

George H. Putnam, publisher.

Nicholas Murray Butler, educator.

Albert H. Littlefield, manufacturer and Governor of Rhode Island.

WORK'S BRIDGE

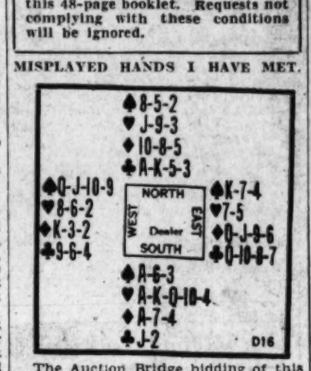
GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great Contract and Auction booklet entitled "THE PLAYING PROBLEMS." Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

"PLAYING PROBLEMS" presents eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

"PLAYING PROBLEMS," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



The Auction Bridge bidding of this hand would be: South one Heart, followed by three passes.

The Contract bidding would be: South two Hearts, North three and South four; East and West passing every time. North is shy of the full strength required to jump to four Hearts after South's bid of two; but as South would have bid two originallly with one less Ace, he has no hesitation about going to four.

The hand was played in a game of Contract. West led the Queen of Spades; South won and exhausted the adverse trumps. After that South led the Jack of Clubs and dummy ducked. East won and the adversary took two Spades and eventually won a Diamond, so the Contract bid of four Hearts was defeated.

The Correct Play.

The Declarer was placed in an awkward position as soon as he saw his two hands; it seemed highly probable that he would lose two Spades and two Diamonds, but it was absurd to lead the Club Jack in an effort to make three Club tricks and thus give South a discard. If West held the Queen, the jack would be covered and Declarer would be limited to two Club tricks; if East had it, the finesse would fall with the same result. South's idea that to win his game he must take three Club tricks was perfectly sound, but his only chance to do it was to put dummy in with a Heart and lead a small Club from that hand. If East held the Queen of Clubs, as actually was the case, this scheme would succeed as it would sacrifice one Club trick but would give South two Diamond discards. With the Queen of Clubs held by West game could not be made. The play would cost one Club trick and save one Diamond.

Zoo Director Hangs Up Phone April Fool Day

The patience of telephone operators was sorely tried yesterday as practical jokers took advantage of the liberty customarily taken on April Fool's day and gave the number of the zoo or the dog pound or the Animal Rescue League to call. Many more calls than usual were handled, it was reported.

Dr. William M. Mann, director of the zoo, early put a stop to his calls by taking the receiver from his hook and requesting the operators to ask the nature of the call before connecting any one.

Why 85% of America's leading hospitals use Kotex absorbent

Greater comfort . . . remarkable absorption . . . less bulk and weight . . . are reasons why 85% of leading hospitals now use Kotex absorbent.

PROPER sanitary care is more than a matter of personal daintiness . . . it's a matter of actual health protection.

So it's highly significant that 85% of America's leading hospitals select the very same material of which Kotex is made . . . Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding. You may use Kotex, safe in the knowledge that the greatest hospitals could offer nothing finer.

Why Kotex is more hygienic

Its amazing absorbency makes Kotex safer in many ways. Kotex absorbs away from the surface. The surface is kept soft, fluffy and delicate. This is not only more comfortable, but more hygienic and far daintier.

Because Kotex absorbs so thoroughly, bulk and weight are not needed. You've no unpleasant consciousness of sanitary protection . . . no nervousness . . . no worries. There's no "packing," because Kotex is made of air-cooled layers of Cellucotton.

Remember that Cellucotton is not cotton — but a cellulose substance which performs the same sanitary function with 5 times the absorbency of the finest cotton.

There are many reasons why Cellucotton makes a superior sanitary pad. It is so easy to dispose of!

Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

4—Disposable, instantly, completely.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

ON HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

WHAT a person with high blood pressure should do to maintain himself in comfort, to prevent involvement of his kidneys and retina, and to ward off apoplexy, depends on his body build and some other considerations. Dr. A. H. Douthwaite says women are apt to develop high blood pressure about the time of change of life. The women of this group tend to put on fat, to lose hair, and to run a subnormal temperature. This type of high blood pressure he calls menopausal. He advises that persons with this type of disorder, not all of whom are women, should be given small doses of thyroid under their physician's direction.

In the next group are the short, thick-necked, rather stout people who develop high blood pressure when beyond 40 years of age. Most of these are men, though women make up a part of the group. The members of this group are apt to develop apoplexy and die suddenly. These people should avoid alcoholic beverages beyond all else. That is the group that gets most good from reforming their habits. They are apt to be rather gluttonous. They should avoid big meals and gorges and all forms of dietary excess. They should reduce weight. It is this group who are most benefited by diet.

The third group is composed of lean, very nervous people, rather given to worry and other emotional manifestations. They are apt to be constipated and many of them are sallow. Among the earlier symptoms of high blood pressure, which call for further investigation, are: Headaches returning to persons who once were subject to them but who have been free for years; persons having headaches for the first time after reaching 40 years of age; shortness of breath; giddiness; vertigo; head noises; irregular heart action; loss of memory; and hemorrhages from the nose or into the eyes.

High blood pressure is apt to develop in this lean group at earlier ages than in the others. This is the worry group. The measure which does them most good is practicing emotional calm and avoiding worry, anger, and emotional storms. They must learn to go slow and to take things quietly. Dieting is not of major importance with them. However, it is best to overcome constipation by diet when that can be done.

It is a mistake to send people to bed for high blood pressure, at least for a longer period than two or three days. Persons with high blood pressure, whatever type, should not eat eggs. The same proscription applies to eating liver and brains. Meats can be eaten in moderation at least every other day by persons with high blood pressure.

COMPENSATION FOR HEART LEAK.

Mrs. M. writes:

1. Just what do you mean by compensation for heart leak?

2. Is coffee harmful to one with a heart leak?

3. What causes enlarged glands of the neck? Can they be cured?

4. What causes the saliva to come into the mouth and keep the person swallowing all the time? Some nights he can not sleep for it.

5. Is drinking raw milk from tuberculin negative cows dangerous?

REPLY.

1. Enough increase in efficiency of the heart muscle to make it easily able to do the extra work required.

2. In large quantities, yes. In small quantities, no.

3. As a rule some kind of an infection. Tubercular infection is probable.

4. Among several causes are nervousness and improper dental work.

5. There is practically no danger of tuberculosis, but undulant fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria and typhoid are possible.

GASOLINE ALLEY — Wallet's Soliloquy

THIS LATEST CODA WILL HAS LOOKED FUNNY TO ME EVER SINCE IT CAME TO LIGHT. IN THE FIRST PLACE IT WAS DATED AT A TIME WHEN CODA AND HIS WIFE, OCTAVE, WERE NOT ON GOOD TERMS — OVER SKEEZIX.
HE WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN LIABLE TO CHANGE THE OTHER WILL IN HER FAVOR — ESPECIALLY THEN. THEN THE WAY IT WAS FOUND — IN A SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX UNDER AN ASSUMED NAME. WHY?
TWO WITNESSES, BOTH OF WHOM ARE NOW DEAD — DEAD BEFORE THE WILL WAS DISCOVERED.
THE HANDWRITING LOOKS LIKE WHAT LITTLE I'VE SEEN OF CODA'S. BUT NATURALLY IT WOULD EVEN IF IT WAS FAKED. PART OF IT WAS TYPEWRITTEN AS IF IT WAS WRITTEN AT DIFFERENT TIMES.
I WANT TO SEE THAT COPY OF THE WILL AGAIN. IF IT IS CROOKED I OUGHT TO BE SMART ENOUGH TO FIND IT OUT

Senora de Tellez Aids Girl Reserves Party.

Senora de Tellez, wife of the Ambassador of Mexico, is among those arranging theater parties on Saturday afternoon for the children's matinee of the Girl Reserves' operetta, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" at Barker Hall in the Young Women's Christian Association Building.

Many young people will entertain their friends at this performance of the popular fairy tale opera, including the children of Mrs. Mark Sullivan, Mrs. John Dallet, Mrs. Carl Kurz, Mrs. Ben T. Webster, Mrs. Huston Thompson, Mrs. John Minor, Mrs. A. Chambers Oliphant, Mrs. Charles De Vere Drayton and Mrs. E. E. Danley.

The first performance of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" will be given at the Y. W. C. A. Building on Friday night at 8:15 o'clock, with a cast of 92 girls taking part.

An interesting event of the week is the concert which will be given by Giuseppe Bruno, barytone; Gilda Sansone, coloratura soprano, and Elizabeth Gardner Coombs, pianist, tonight at Pierce Hall, Sixteenth and Harvard streets.

"Move Over, Mountain — More READING Hard Coal Is Needed"

The demand for Reading Anthracite —that better Pennsylvania hard coal— grows and grows.

To satisfy it, the largest, most efficiently equipped hard coal breaker in the world has just been added to the vast producing equipment of this company.

Near Mt. Carmel, Pennsylvania, Reading engineers found a swampy valley high in the hills but partly filled with a veritable mountain of refuse from old mining operations. So they said, "Move Over, Mountain", and moved it. The valley was filled and levelled. The side of Locust Mountain was stripped bare to expose for miles the Mammoth vein of hard coal to supply part of the coal for the new breaker.

The world's largest hard coal breaker assures a plentiful supply for everyone who wants all the heat his money can possibly buy.

Your coal merchant has Reading hard coal, or can get it. Insist on Reading for your fires.

The Rainbow's End is within Your reach

DID you ever feel so desperate you wanted to jump out of a window? That's the wrong end of the rainbow.

Ill health is a burden on body, mind and friends. But Nature never fails to signal her dangers. Lack of appetite, flabby flesh, loss of strength and skin troubles is a warning from Nature. This is her way of pleading for help.

The basic requirement for good health is rich, red blood—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

Thousands of people have a low blood count—to this may be attributed "run down" systems, skin troubles, and even more serious ailments.

It is dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

When S.S.S. is indicated in your case you owe it to yourself and friends to try it.

A CLEAR SKIN COMES FROM WITHIN

If you desire firm flesh, a glowing complexion, energy, vitality and the blessings of health you must keep your blood in good condition.

First impressions can't be good without a clear skin. Old friends may excuse skin blemishes and secretly sympathize but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting, neither can they be covered up. They embarrass—hold people back—steal away joy and happiness.

S. S. S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It gives to Nature what it needs to build you up so that your system may throw off the cause.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. It helps Nature build rich, red-blood-cells. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years. All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

These New Salts Are Wonderful

That's Just What She Said—Just What He Said

AND A MILLION FAT FOLKS CAN'T BE WRONG

When you take vitalizing Kruschen Salts for a few days that old indolent armchair feeling deserts you—it doesn't matter how fat you are—the urge for activity has got you and you're stepping lively.

And best of all you like this activity—you walk a couple of miles and enjoy it—you thought you'd never dance again but you find you're getting as spry as ever—the old tingling active feeling reaches even your feet.

Kruschen is a combination of the six salts Nature has already put into your body to keep you alive—if it were not for these vital salts you could not live.

Why not try one 85 cent bottle of these rejuvenating salts—a bottle lasts 4 weeks and one bottle is enough to prove to you that Kruschen will make you feel younger—sprver—more energetic—you'll enjoy life—every minute of it.

As one stout woman wrote: "Kruschen Salts are worth their weight in gold to me."

A half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning is all you need to keep healthy—keep your stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys in splendid condition—free your system from harmful toxins and acids.

Peoples Drug Stores sells lots of Kruschen Salts—so do good druggists everywhere.

STOCKS' RECORD DAY SEES PRICES CLIMB

Index of 90 Shares Gains 2 Points; Sales Touch 5,395,170 Mark.

AMERICAN TOBACCO OFF

New York, April 1 (A.P.).—The steam roller bull movement in stocks made persistent progress today, despite the restraining influence of heavy profit taking sales.

The market turned decidedly irregular around midday, but bulls took the situation decisively in hand in the last hour of trading, when more than 1,500,000 shares were traded, making a turnover for the day of 5,395,170, still another 1930 record.

The price index of 90 leading shares was pushed up nearly 2 points more to above 200 for the first time since October 28, on which date it tumbled more than 25 points to 180.6. The movement centered in the utilities, steels and oils. Rails, however, were neglected and barely held their ground. Shares continued to change hands in blocks of 5,000 to 25,000 shares. Gains of 2 points or more were common in leading shares, and a few issues closed 4 to 12 points higher.

Business News Cheerful.

The day's business news was decidedly cheerful. Steel mill operations were reported to have been stepped up this week from 73 to 76 per cent of capacity, the first notable gain since operations began to lag early in February. U. S. Steel's mills were said to be operating at better than 83 per cent of capacity, and E. G. Grace, president of Bethlehem, said April operation's for his company's mills are scheduled at 85 per cent. At this time a year ago, aggregate operations for the industry were at 95 per cent of capacity. Mr. Grace said, however, that indications were that Bethlehem's total 1930 output would come within 10 per cent of the 1929 tonnage.

The weekly crude oil production figures disclosed further success in the curtailment program, and gasoline prices were firmer at Chicago. The copper industry was cheered by a survey of 1930 consumption requirements presented by F. H. Brownell, chairman of the finance committee of American Smelting, at the company's annual meeting, which indicated that world mines are operating at a rate in balance with requirements. A sharp rally in grain prices was another encouraging development.

U. S. Steel, American International, Bendix, Beth'ehem Steel, Standard of New Jersey, Standard of California, Colorado Fuel, Consolidated Gas, McKeesport Tin Plate, National Power & Light, Radio, Republic Iron & Steel, Skelly and United Aircraft were among issues rising about 2 to 4 points to new highs for the year. Public Service of New Jersey rose about 5 and Electric Power & Light 6 to new 1930 peaks. American Machine & Foundry shot up 12.

Merchandising Shares Rally.

Merchandising shares, recently under pressure, generally rallied in short covering. Montgomery Ward, Sears, Roebuck, and Woolworth rose 2 to 3 points. Allied Chemical, however, closed 5½ points lower, and shares losing 2 to 4 including American Tobacco shares, Air Reduction, Ingersoll Rand, Union Pacific and Vanadium.

The wheat market was influenced by bullish Kansas crop reports, and reduction in the estimates of Northwest acreages. Futures closed about 2 to 3 cents higher. Corn gained more than a cent. Cotton futures closed $1.20 to $1.75 a bale higher.

Credit conditions remained practically stationary. Call money held at 4 per cent. Bankers' acceptances dealers raised their rates ⅛ of 1 per cent to bring them in line with the Federal Reserve buying rates.

Foreign exchanges firmed up a little, sterling cables rising 3-32 of a cent to $4.86 9-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 1 (A.P.).—Broadening of drought areas and increasing complaints of shortage of moisture brought about new scaring of wheat prices today. Nebraska was added to the regions in urgent need of rain, which heretofore had been restricted mainly to Kansas and Oklahoma. Upturns in wheat values received additional momentum from announcement of 8,975,000 bushels decrease in world stocks of wheat, reducing the total to only 8,000,000 bushels more than at this time last year.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong at the day's top level, 1⅞ to 2c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1¼ to 1⅝c up, and oats 1c advance and provisions showing 7 to 20c gain.

Helping to lift wheat prices were reports that the Wheat Stabilization Corporation, a Government-sponsored body, had disposed of 500,000 bushels of wheat to Southwest and Northwest domestic mills. Trade attention, however, turned to advices that, despite predictions of rain in the Southwest, the skies were generally clear, and the moisture amounted to little. Official reports said the Kansas drought situation had become so critical that live stock raisers had been forced to haul water in several counties.

A leading Chicago export house, making extensive field observations in Kansas and Oklahoma, telegraphed that subsoil moisture of both States was ample for wheat, although rain was needed to stop soil drifting, especially in damaged sections, where plants were still small. Other authorities, nevertheless, continued to emphasize that wheat growth was retarded, and that for three successive weeks the condition of the Kansas crop has been going backward. North American wheat export business remained scant, amounting to barely 300,000 bushels today, and including but little from the United States.

Corn showed independent strength. Country offerings were light, and it was current talk that there has been liberal chartering of vessel room for corn to move out of here at the opening of lake navigation, April 20 to 25. Oats were responsive to the upward trend of corn.

Commission-house buying of lard gave an upward tilt to provisions, despite downturns in the value of hogs.

INVESTMENT BONDS FEATURE IN MARKET

Rails and Utilities in Fair Turnover Experience Slight Advances.

U. S. SHARES AGAIN SAG

New York, April 1 (A.P.).—A slightly better demand for representative investment issues gave a firmer tone to bond trading today. The market for railroad obligations and for a few utilities broadened and numerous small gains appeared. United States Governments again sagged, with the higher priced Treasuries losing about half a point each, but turnovers were limited. Liberty fourth 4¼s held firm in an active market.

A substantial part of the day's business was in bonds carrying stock features. International Telephone's convertible 4½ proved to be the feature, soaring to a new 1930 peak above 125 and then losing all but a point of its net advance. American Telephone 4½s lost 1¾.

Alleghany Corporation 5s of 1950, American International 5½s, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5½s and Warner Bros. Pictures 6s, all of which are in the share privilege group, were firm. Loew's 6s with warrants, rallied 2½ points to 121½, within half a point of the record price. Pathe 7s also carrying warrants, rose 1½.

The increased activity in the rails was most noticeable in Santa Fe General 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Erie 5s, New Haven 4½s, Rock Island 4s, Nickel Plate 4½s, Pere Marquette 4½s Wabash 4½s and St. Louis San Francisco 4½s. Most of these issues were able to show small gains for the day.

Oil company bonds traded briskly at times in sympathy with the stocks, but the net results were negligible. Goodyear Rubber 5s. International Match 5s, International Telephone 5s, Pillsbury Flour 6s and Western Union 5s were among the firm spots scattered through the list.

Foreign bonds shifted irregularly. Brazils moved up 1 to 2 points and Rio Janeiro 8s made a new high of 105. European governments ruled firm, with a large turnover in German 7s at a small net advance.

CONVENTION GROUP TO HEAR HARRISON

Bankers Name Senator as Preconvention Dinner Talker on April 14.

REPORTS WILL BE GIVEN

By THOMAS M. CABILL.

Call for a meeting Friday afternoon of the general committee for the twelfth annual convention of the District of Columbia Bankers Association at Asheville, N. C., June 5 to 8, was issued yesterday by George O. Vass, vice president and cashier of Riggs National Bank and general convention committee chairman. The committee will consider general plans and hear reports of special committees.

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, was announced yesterday as one of the principal speakers at the preconvention dinner at Columbia Country Club April 14. Carter B. Keene, prominent local attorney, is another speaker, and George O'Connor will be master of ceremonies. Matt Horne assisting. Lanier P. McLachlen, president of the McLachlen Banking Corporation and first vice president of the association, and C. H. Pope, vice president of the Munsey Trust Co. and secretary of the association, are in charge of the dinner.

The resignation of Louis A. Dent as a director, vice president and general manager of the Capitol Title & Guarantee Co., was announced yesterday. Mr. Dent stating he would be able to devote more time to other business affairs.

Dent's Resignation Accepted.

An abstract from the minutes of the board of directors states "the resignation was accepted, with hearty appreciation and recognition of Mr. Dent's able and arduous labors, and disinterested services while performing the difficult duties of his position."

October 12-15, inclusive, have been selected as the dates of the nineteenth annual convention of the Investment Bankers Association of America to be held in New Orleans, it was announced at the association's offices yesterday.

A new form of program, recently approved by the association's board of governors, will become effective at this meeting. Instead of running for six days, as heretofore, the convention will run from Sunday to Wednesday, a period of four days. Forty-eight hours' time will thus be saved for the delegation. About 1,000 investment bankers from all parts of the United States and Canada are expected to attend.

1930 Convention Committee.

The following are the members of the association's 1930 convention committee: Alden H. Little, Chicago, executive vice president, Investment Bankers Association of America, chairman; Walter T. Collins, Hemphill, Noyes & Co., New York; Larz E. Jones, Eustis & Jones, New Orleans; George H. Nusloch, Hibernia Securities Co., Inc., New Orleans; George W. Robertson, Canal Bank & Trust Co., New Orleans; Kenelm Winslow, jr., Seattle Co., Seattle; Kelton E. White, G. H. Walker & Co., St. Louis; Harold E. Wood, Foreman-State Corporation, Chicago, and E. C. Wampler, Lawrence Stern & Co., Chicago.

Frank Owings, who resigned recently as cashier of the Bank of Commerce & Savings, after 16 years' service, will be tendered a dinner tonight at the Ambassador Hotel by officers and directors of that bank.

The Maryland Bankers' Association will hold its annual convention at Atlantic City May 22-23. The annual convention of the Virginia Bankers Association will be at Hot Springs, Va., June 26 to 28.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, April 1 (A.P.).—Cotton showed further advances today on continued covering by trade or speculative short interests and crop positions. A more active demand was reported for new crop months, apparently reflecting a recently strengthened technical position and buying against sales in the near positions. May sold up to 16.53, or 30 points net higher and closed at 16.47, with the old crop months closing barely steady at net advances of 24 to 30 points. Later deliveries were steady at net advances of 30 to 35 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 6 points. The more active positions soon showed net gains of 8 to 12 points on covering and some commission house buying promoted by the fairly steady showing of Liverpool. This demand was readily supplied, but offerings were absorbed on moderate reactions and the market firmed up again at midday.

The buying became more active as prices worked higher and contracts were comparatively scarce after the early realizing had been absorbed. The market reached the highest levels of the day in the later trading when July advanced to 16.62, old October to 16.12 and new October to 15.85, representing net advances of about 30 to 37 points on the active months. Just before the close New Orleans reached similar positions on crop months here. Some brokers who had bought old crops recently seemed to be selling old crop positions and buying the new. The late rally left July May was 9 points under July, compared with 3 points yesterday and 66 points over the new October, compared with 73 points yesterday.

Some commission house buying was reported in the new crop months, supposedly in reflection of a broader interest, but much of the day's business was attributed to further liquidation of long and short accounts and trading on the differences between months or markets. Warmer weather in the Southwest considered more favorable for farming.

Liverpool cables said advances on covering, continental and Bombay buying there had been checked by realizing. Exports today, 19,367, making 3,911,829 so far this season. Port receipts, 8,562. United States port stocks, 1,833,523.

Curb Review

New York, April 1 (A.P.).—Prices on the New York Curb Market headed upward again today but the selling resistance became so great that many of the early gains were cut down or converted into small declines. Net gains outnumbered losses at the close, but it was apparent that operators for the rise were being called upon to absorb a heavy volume of selling in order to push their favorites into new high ground. Trading showed a moderate reduction in volume, the day's sales of 1,452,900 shares falling about 300,000 below those of yesterday's record-breaking 1930 session.

Electric Bond & Share, the recent leader of the public utility group, closed fractionally lower at 111⅝, after having dipped close to 110. Cities Service moved up fractionally to another new high at 43¾. Electric Power & Light optional warrants jumped 5½ points in sympathy with a late rise in the stock on the "big board" and maintained nearly all of the gain. Central States Electric issues, International Superpower and Nevada-California Electric also reached new high ground. American Gas & Electric fell 2 points and American Superpower and several of the other recent leaders showed more moderate declines.

Oils developed a stronger undertone despite the further increase in the storage stocks of crude oil and gasoline reported for February. Standard Oil of Indiana, Gulf and Lion all moved into new high ground for the year, the rise in the last-named being influenced by reports of increased activity in the stock in the Chicago market. Cosden jumped 5 points on a few sales and Humble advanced more than 2 to within a fraction of the year's top.

Resumption of pool operations in the specialties lifted more than a score of those issues to new high levels. Aluminum, Ltd., soaring 23 points to a new high at 200 in odd-lot transactions. American Maize Products, Columbia Pictures, Cooper Bessemer, Ferror Enamel, Garlock Packing, Gold Seal Electric, Mesta Machine, Nehi Corporation, Ruberoid and Tobacco Allied were among the many other issues to sell at new highs for the year. Translux, which sold as low as 4¼ this year, was marked up 2 points to a new high at 11 on merger rumors.

Investment trust and trading corporation shares were irregular. Trio-Continental issues moved to new 1930 peak prices but efforts to extend the recent advance in Goldman Sachs met with heavy profit-taking and the stock closed nearly a point lower. Eastern States B and U. S. & Overseas Securities also registered new highs.

FIGHTS OUGHT TO REVERT TO TYPE

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 1.—From the standpoint of the paying customer, the best thing that could happen in the prize fight industry just now would be the abolition of all prize fight commissions, the complete abandonment of all official supervision of the business and the return of the racket to its natural rough state.

Deprived of the official ballyhoo which has been chiefly responsible for the exaggeration of commonplace prize fights into events of national importance, the business soon would sink back to its natural habitat in rickety dance-halls and roller rinks and the backrooms of saloons, the price of tickets would fall off to $3 at most, the bouts would take on savagery because the fighters would need money and the larceny, although it would be more cunning, would be distinctly petty.

As for the customer, he would console himself with the happy thought that regardless of fouls, business arrangements between the principals or their managers, or raids by the police he would not be bilked of more than $3 per time, a saving of from $7 to $47.

$50 Tops Rare Until Law Passed.

There were a few prize fights which commanded a top price of $50 for ringside seats before the day of the New York prize fight commission, but these were championship bouts, fought to decisive conclusions, amid the very picturesque surroundings. Fitzsimmons and Corbett drew a few rows of $50 trade in their fight in the bankrupt State of Nevada in 1897 and Tex Rickard, wide-eyed with wonder at the susceptibility of the customers, got $50 for his forward sections when he presented Jeffries and Johnson in the same State in 1910.

But these and a few other instances, were rare events until the New York Legislature, ten years ago, decided that prize fighting, supervised by a committee of politicians, would exert a fine influence upon growing boys, and passed a law to this effect with an air of doing something helpful for the parents.

Capitalists Drawn To Industry.

With this assurance of semipermanance, capitalists began to invest their money in such elaborate plants as the New York Garden, the Chicago Stadium and the Detroit Arena and the prize fight commissioners of these respective jurisdictions, impressed by the magnitude of the business which they found themselves called upon to administer, lent themselves to the job of exaggerating common prize fights to the proportions of the buildings in which they were to be held and the stock and bond issues behind the buildings.

Once drawn into this business, they began to make matches, to discriminate against certain prize fighters and managers against whom they held whimsical person grudges, to dictate box office prices and thus to prey upon the customers who thought an official commission of the State must be infallible and therefore felt a strange compulsion to be present at the fights.

Bouts in the Backroom Were Better.

After all, a prize fight is a fist fight between two athletes more or less evenly matched in weight and the bouts which have been held in the big arenas, indoors and out, since boxing came under the commission control, have been no better, round for round, than those which were held in the upstairs clubs and the backroom arenas before.

On the average, I should say they have not been as good because when a fighter is boxing before a house of from $80,000 to $5,000,000, he naturimportance and does not fight with importance and does not fight with the abandon of a boy who expects to get no more than $1,000 if he wins and a little less than half of that if he doesn't win. He becomes considerate of his hands and declines to hit lest he be unable to attend to future bookings on the same terms, and if he is being hurt his natural impulse to let fly and make an uphill fight for a knockout is governed by the thought that he might be knocked out himself and thus set back a few numbers in the ranking, with proportionate loss of business prestige. So he goes to clinching.

The New York prize-fight law permits of fifteen-round bouts, but under commission regulation the boys have reduced the maximum to ten rounds; and the prize-fight commissioners, far from enforcing the customers' legal prerogative in this respect, have adjusted their ideas to the convenience of the managers and boxers so that nowadays there are very few decisive endings in main events.

Most of the good prizefighters have met one another more than once before, and therefore the majority of them, when they take the ring for

Upset Marks Opening-Day Handicap

Outsider From Mrs. Potter's Stable Pays $69.20 Mutuel.

Pennant Lass Runs Second; Rapid Transit Far Back.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

EASTERN racing was ushered in at Bowie yesterday in an auspicious manner, with the new season ringing in many surprises, but none quite so great as in the eighth running of the Inaugural Handicap of $5,000 added value, when Mrs. W. J. Potter's 6-year-old Bocaratone, from New Orleans, ridden by G. Cimerak, the star jockey of winter racing, came from the clouds to win the feature.

The odds hung out on the winner of $69.20 for $2, brought a groundswell of cheers from rafters to basement of the large grand stand, packed with 20,000 people there to welcome the return of thoroughbreds to the big racing circuit.

While the throng was hailing the winner, and the long price in the mutuels, it was a blow to the majority, who had backed the odds-on favorite, the Wentzel and Kilrane Stable entry, Pennant Lass, which finished second, and Rapid Transit, which was lost in the dust of five of the nine starters in the 7-furlong dash, and the expected ovation for Workman, who rode the Florida speedster, never took place, as the crowd nursed its losses on the entry.

Bocaratone Goes To Front.

Pennant Lass, which had set all the pace, led from the start right up to the sixteenth, when Cimerak brought Bocaratone up on the rail, to get the decision by a length. Star o' Morn, which had started out forcing the pace of Pennant Lass, kept to his task to the end, when both leaders were displaced by Bocaratone.

Bocaratone, gelded son of Spanish Prince II and Antoinette, with the light impost of 104 pounds, carried 22 pounds less than Rapid Transit, and was the lightweight of the field. He was drawing away at the end, and in a longer race would have lost his field. A length separated Pennant Lass and Star o' Morn, and half a length back of these Gun Royal, second choice to the entry, was fourth. Bocaratone's time was 1:25 45.

The weather was perfect for the opening of the racing season. The track fast and at its best under the careful preparation of Richard Pending, and the large crowd enjoyed apparently every race on the card. While the longest priced winner was in the feature, there were other surprises, as when Colossal came down in front an entirely overlooked horse, and while most of the winners were well backed, no favorite scored during the exciting afternoon of racing. The Bowie meeting will continue until a week from Saturday.

The crowd was in a holiday mood. Washington was well represented, as was Baltimore, from which cities the majority came, but the attendance from New York and Philadelphia was greater than ever before seen at a spring meeting at Bowie.

Cog Air Easily Trims Field.

G. W. Loft's Cog Air, overcoming strong opposition, drew away in the stretch to win by five lengths from H. Teller Archibald's Crystal Domino, the favorite. Algol, early pace maker, was third, a length back of the second horse.

Hypnotism was fourth, time 1:12 3-5, 6 furlongs. The winner paid $6.10. Algol broke in front, set a fast pace to the stretch turn, when Cog Air, under a good ride by W. Harvey, took the lead and had an easy finish, as his rider pleased. Crystal Domino, getting into action late, made a strong finish, but could not gain on the leader.

Many were shut out on getting their wagers placed here today not knowing of the new rule of the Maryland Racing Commission, which went into effect today ordering the pari-mutuel machines closed the instant the horses passed the stewards' stand going to the post.

The first long shot of the afternoon came in the Springtime Purse, third race, when J. E. Davis' silks were carried to a half-length victory by Colossal, which paid $33.30 for $2. The Loma Stable's Chlo Boy was second, a half length in front of L. E. Rosenberg's Mr. Desmond. Parnell Bound was fourth. Time, 1:06 2-5, 5½ furlongs. The track record is 1:05 1-5.

Chlo Boy led from the barrier with Parnell Bound in closest pursuit.

Nats Win on Homers by Powell, Cronin; Signing of Goslin Today Seen as Certain Chattanooga's Lead Wiped Out by Circuit Clouts.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 1. The Nationals, who had been unable to crack out any home runs in previous exhibition games, were credited with two against the Chattanooga Lookouts here this afternoon and both were needed in Washington's victory, the final count reading 4 to 3. Jake Powell, former Takoma Park sandlotter, came through with the first circuit clout to start the Nats on their winning way, while Joe Cronin's in the ninth proved to be the deciding blow of the game.

"Sad Sam" Jones, Garland Braxton and Lloyd Brown did the Washington hurling, the first two named making their 1930 debuts. All of the scoring was at the expense of Jones, although a brace of double plays helped the others out of holes. The natives were able to glean seven hits and six were off Jones' offerings, with Brown pitching two hitless frames.

Chet Howard and Jack Knott held the Nats to nine bingles, but two happened to be homers and three others were bunched in the sixth frame. Bluege was the only National credited with more than one safety, having a brace of lusty singles to show for his day's work. Red Barnes, for the Nats, and Bobby Lamotte and Treadway for the Lookouts, contributed the fielding features.

The veteran Jones was not particularly effective during his four frames. The Lookouts broke the ice

EXHIBITION GAMES

AUSTIN, Tex., April 1 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees were forced to come from behind with a three-run rally in the ninth to defeat the University of Texas today, 4 to 2. It was the Yanks' fifth straight victory since leaving Florida.

Oscar Peebles, hurling for the collegians, who have won 16 conference titles in 18 years, held the slugging Yankees at his mercy for eight innings. Four hits, however, in the final round, ruined the good start.

The biggest crowd that has seen a ball game in Austin in 20 years packed its way into the park to watch Babe Ruth and his cohorts do their act. It was estimated at 6,500.

Conference Scheduled With Griffith After Early Arrival.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 1.—The news that Outfielder Goose Goslin finally had capitulated to the extent of asking permission to come here at the Washington Club's expense to talk 1930 contract terms did not reach the Washington players until this morning. Many thought that it was an "April fool" joke of some kind, but were quite enthusiastic when they learned otherwise.

The players, like every one else, can read the handwriting on the wall and know that the big outfielder would not have taken the step he did unless he had made up his mind to sign, and all are agreed that the Nats need Goslin's punch and that his failure with the stick last season probably was merely a happen-so.

That President Clark Griffith evidently feels the same way about Goslin having made up his mind to come into the fold is indicated by the steps taken to get the fly chaser here as early as possible. He is due to arrive at Atlanta at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning and will be met there by Assistant Trainer Frank (Bobo) Baxter, who will rush the player here in President Griffith's automobile.

Goslin May Take Workout Today.

This will make it possible for Goslin and Griffith to have a conference as to salary early enough tomorrow morning to allow the player to take his first workout with the team. A long-distance telephone conversation this morning from Secretary Edward B. Eynon, jr., in Washington, is to the effect that Goslin states he has been doing some training at his home in Salem, N. J., and believes that he can get himself into tiptop condition shortly.

With Goslin available—and it ap-

Atlanta Amateur Is Southeastern Open Winner Easily.

Finishes Play With Brilliant Rounds of 69 and 71.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

AUGUSTA, GA., April 1 (A.P.).—With a gallery of more than 3,000 stampeding in his path, Robert Tyre Jones, National open champion from Atlanta, today shot two brilliant rounds of par shattering golf and won the Southeastern open tournament here with an aggregate of 284 strokes.

The Nation's leading amateur, who leaves late this month for England with the Walker Cup Team, led the field of more than three score players by thirteen strokes.

In second place came Horton Smith, Cragston, N. Y., professional, with 297.

Smith's score enabled him to collect the $1,000 prize money offered to the professional who could match par figures most consistently.

Rival Takes Lesson From Jones.

The young Cragston, N. Y., moneymaker bested the Atlanta golfing barrister by one stroke in their battle at Savannah in February, but in the resumption of their duel here yesterday and today Jones gave his younger rival a lesson in the finer points of the game. Bobby was four strokes ahead of Horton at the end of 36 holes play and stretched his lead to thirteen today as he turned in brilliant rounds of 69 and 71.

Jones combined scores of 72—72—69—71 to produce his low total. The first two rounds were played over the hill course at the country club yesterday, while today's final sixteen holes were shot on the Forest-Ricker course.

A stroke behind Smith in third place came Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., professional, with 298.

GALLAGHER AND LAMAR MATCHED

Capital Heavies Are Signed for Baltimore Bout April 21.

FOUR years after a battle at Silver Spring in 1927, when they fought as lightweights to a draw, Henry Lamar and Marty Gallagher, both Washington boys now campaigning in and out of Boston, have been scheduled to meet Monday, April 21, in the feature 10-round bout on the Olympia Athletic Club card at Baltimore.

Both improved fighters since their former meeting, their meeting is certain to prove a popular attraction with local fight fans. Lamar, a former Western High School athlete and National Amateur middleweight champion while attending the University of Virginia, was recently suspended for one month by the New York Boxing Commission for fouling Joe Banovic at New York. His fight with Gallagher will be the first after his suspension is lifted.

Gallagher had not been fighting very long before his clash with Lamar in 1927 and since that time has gradually improved. Since last fall he has been under the wing of Dan Carroll, Boston fight manager, and revealed much improvement in recent bouts. Marty has outgrown Lamar by several pounds.

Since their meeting at Silver Spring, local fight fans have awaited a second battle between Lamar and Gallagher. A capacity crowd saw the Silver Spring bout and the return engagement is expected to prove attractive both to Washington and Baltimore fight fans. Their last fight was declared a draw.

G. W. Cubs Humbled by Potomac, 30-27, in Post's Tourney.

MORE than 1,500 basket ball fans witnessed two unlimited class startling upsets in the District A. A. U. championship tournament last night at the Tech High School Gymnasium, and probably will be back tonight to witness the championship battle between the two triumphant quintets.

Montrose gave the tournament fans their first major shock of the evening by rallying to defeat the Woltz Photographers, 35-27, while the Potomac Boatmen reached new basket ball heights by upsetting the George Washington Freshmen by a 30-27 margin after an uphill battle.

The Boys Club Optimists were crowned 100-pound District champions by virtue of a 35-17 victory over the Jewish Community Center Spartans, while the St. John's Victors earned the right to meet the westerners tonight for the 130-pound title with a 24-17 triumph over the Jewish Community Center Flashes.

In addition to the unlimited and 130-pound finals tonight, the J. C. C. sextet will meet the Eagles for the District women's title and the Aztecs will tackle the Arcadians for the 115-pound honors.

Boatmen Rally to Beat Fishermen.

It was after the George Washington Freshmen had led for more than twenty minutes of the game that the Potomac Boat Club quintet came from behind to win by a 30-27 score. The lead see-sawed at the start, but the Freshmen gained an 18-8 advantage before the half rest. Many of the spectators, expecting another rout for the G. W. Cubs, went home. Those who had already had their fill of basket ball missed some of the most thrilling play of the tournament. With the start of the second half, the Boatmen steadily whittled down the Yearlings' lead. Timmons led an attack which put Potomac within one point of their rivals midway of the period. The score at this stage was 21-20.

The clubs virtually matched baskets for the next five minutes until "Preacher" Adkins gave Potomac a

This fine material has been so thoroughly preshrunk that we guarantee to replace any shirt that shows shrinkage at the neckband, cuff bands or body.

The plain white style has either the neckband or the attached collar. Those in shades of blue, tan or green are fashioned only with attached collar.

These are very fine values and absolutely overcome all the old troubles from shrinkage.

STAND BY PICKED IN BOWIE SPRINT FEATURE TODAY

My Sis Seen Chief Rival Of Gelding

Glidelia Picked Over Zebra in 2-Year-Old Event.

Hogan's Alley Seems to Be a Standout in Third.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

AFTER the lively brand of racing at the opening of the Bowie meeting yesterday, Joseph McLennan has succeeded in carding another program for today that promises again to be well received by the patrons of Prince Georges' track.

If there is any criticism to be made, it concerns the crowded condition of the fields. Horsemen are eager to start their horses at every opportunity, and there are few scratches except for cause. It is noticeable that few horses on the eligible list get a chance to start, because of the lack of scratching to make room for them.

The card today is featured by the Magnolia Pure for 4-year-olds and up at 5½ furlongs. Nine are listed to start. There is another sprint for 3-year-olds, which is first on the program; the second race is for 2-year-olds, at a half mile, a sprint for platers at six furlongs, and the other three races are distance contests.

STAND BY is the favorite for the Magnolia. The Brandon gelding is very consistent, rarely being out of the money, but has had bad luck in getting to the front for the pay-off. He is never out of condition, and can be depended upon to turn in a good race. He was withdrawn yesterday from the Inaugural Handicap.

MY SIS, a very fast filly, and which has been working like lightning at the Bowie Track, will be the contender. She is of stake quality when in form and is best of the others. E. B. McLean's SILVERDALE should be in the money. Johnny Schorr has all the horses of this stable fit, and with a lucky break at the barrier SILVERDALE would give the other two trouble. CLEAN PLAY, TOKI and CLOUDY are others entered in the feature which are above the average sprinters. The track is fast.

MASTER STAR, good as a 3-year-old, seems to have the best chance in the first race from the fact that IRIDESCENT, from the Whitney Stable, may not get in, being sixth on the eligible list. If he should start, the race will be very doubtful between the two. The son of Star Master was in several close finishes in Maryland last year. LITTLE IMP is slated for third money, or second if the Whitney horse should be excluded. TRICKY COLONEL may be close up, with STAYLOR having a good chance to get in the money.

The Rancocas stable's GLIDELIA, on her winter form at New Orleans, is confidently selected to win the second race for juveniles. ZEBRA, also a winner in the South, will probably be the contender. TRAITOR was a Miami winner, and has a chance. There is no line on the 2-year-olds which did not race during the winter in the South.

HOGAN'S ALLEY looks like a standout in the third race. He will have a good chance to get away from the post, being near the middle of the field, and a good start is all that is necessary. He has early speed and is a fast finisher. ELIZABETH BOLLA may be the contender. The distance and a fast track suit her. She was a winter winner also.

The fifth is the first distance race on the program, a mile and a sixteenth. REJUVENATION appears to have the class on the field of fourteen horses. He has shown a liking for the Bowie track. There are certain horses that run well on this track from year to year and he is one of them. MAXIVA also is in this class, and it would not be surprising to see the race narrow down between the two. FAIR BILL, winner of his last race in the South, can not fail if he repeats that.

The sixth and the seventh races are divided, with twenty horses in each, claiming, at a mile and a sixteenth, for 4-year-olds and up. GUNTHER is picked to win the sixth, and will be a good price. ROCKSLIDE is said to be sore, which gives GUNTHER his chance. ROCKSLIDE may get the place. MASTER SWEEP should be no worse than third. All three are useful horses of the cheaper grade.

CHATTAHOOCHEE, a recent winner at New Orleans, is the class of the curtain event. He should lead from start to finish. MULATTO may be the contender. He has improved the past winter in his racing. VOYAGE is a show possibility.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SWEEP ALL, $6.40, $3.70, $4.80; GIGANTIC, $13.30, $8.20; UP $4.80.

SWEEP ALL broke fast and, displaying good speed throughout, showed good gameness and held on well. GIGANTIC, under weak handling, ran a good race and is sure to improve. UP suffered early interference and closed fast in final furlong. HUNTINGDON was kept close to rail and finished fast. JOLLY KING was hard ridden all the way. FOOLHARDY had speed for three furlongs, then tired. AIR LINER broke slow and lacked speed. He never improved his position.

SWEEP ALL BRUSHES DOWN IN FRONT IN OPENER.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Went to post at 3:08½. Off at 3:09½. Winner, G. W. Loft's b. c. (4), by On Watch—Kippy. Trained by A. G. Robertson. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—COG AIR, $6.10, $3.00, $2.40; CRYSTAL DOMINO, $3.30, $2.40; ALGOL, $3.20.

COG AIR was much the best. He broke fast, was rated off early pace, moved into lead in stretch, drew out to win galloping. CRYSTAL DOMINO broke very slow, worked his way up and came to the inside in stretch and finished fast. ALGOL, away fast, displayed good speed, but ran out in stretch. HYPNOTISM moved up very fast around the turn, but weakened in final furlong. BLACK PATRICIA was kept close to the early pace, but tired in stretch. WATER LAD had speed for four furlongs. FRIAR CLIFFE was practically left.

COG AIR WINGS WAY HOME AHEAD IN SECOND.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200. The Springtime. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:39. Off at 3:49. Winner, E. Davis' b. or br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—COLOSSAL, $33.30, $11.40, $8.20; CHLO BOY, $5.10, $4.40; MR. DESMOND, $5.90.

COLOSSAL broke well but was outrun to the stretch, where he came to the inside and, finishing gamely, won going away. CHLO BOY was best, but was the victim of a very poorly judged ride. He raced PARNELL BOUND into defeat, but Beishak allowed him to go wide in stretch losing several lengths. MR. DESMOND, outrun to the final furlong, closed with a rush. PARNELL BOUND had plenty of speed, but quit badly. PROMETHEUS broke well, but dropped right back and failed to show any speed. JUDGE DIXON was outrun. TEWSENELDA ran well for three furlongs, then stopped.

COLOSSAL PROVIDES COLOSSAL UPSET IN THIRD.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $5,000 added. The Inaugural Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:19½. Off at 4:26½. Winner, Mrs. W. J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOCARATONE, $69.20, $18.30, $8.70; PENNANT LASS, $2.90, $2.30; STAR O' MORN, $7.90.

BOCARATONE, badly outrun for the first six furlongs, came to the outside in stretch and, closing with a rush, won going away. PENNANT LASS displayed good speed and saved ground, but weakened suddenly in last sixteenth. STAR O' MORN was kept well up with the pace from the start and held on gamely. GUN ROYAL was hard ridden all the way and had no mishaps. RAPID TRANSIT broke a bit slow, but was taking on the outside and tired badly in stretch. PAUL BUNYAN sashayed around all the way and was running very strong at the end. He needs a longer route. DINAH DID UPSET showed a flash of early speed. WAR INSTIGATOR was outrun.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ANNAPOLIS, $9.20, $4.30, $3.90; FAIRY MAIDEN, $4.00, $3.20; ORMONBIRD, $4.50.

ANNAPOLIS was nicely rated along off the early pace, came around field in stretch and, closing gamely, won going away. FAIRY MAIDEN was allowed to gallop along to stretch, where she closed with a rush and was up to gain the place in the last stride. ORMONBIRD followed pace closely and held on gamely. SANDY FORD was rushed into lead, displayed good speed, but weakened badly in final sixteenth. MOLE HILL and WOOLORAC were both outrun.

SEARINGTON POKES NOSE IN FRONT IN SIXTH.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:32. Off at 5:34. Winner, Mrs. W. H. Denham's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SEARINGTON, $14.90, $6.60, $4.30; LAURIE, $6.70, $5.00; THYMON, $6.10.

SEARINGTON broke fast, was kept close to pace to far turn, where he took lead, saved ground and just lasted to win. LAURIE closed with a rush. THYMON finished gamely. DANGER SIGNAL was repeatedly interfered with during the running. TALL GRASS closed a big end.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 6:05. Off at 6:06. Winner, Mrs. H. Pyne's b. h. UPSETS MARK OPENING AT BOWIE

Turning for the home stretch Colossal, getting the rail, kept the lead he had wrung from Chlo Boy and was going easily at the end. Mr. Desmond made a strong bid on the outside, passing Parnell Bound in the stretch. Again the Whitney Stable failed when Prometheus finished outside the money. E. Watters rode the winner.

12,000 on Hand For Opening.

Prince Georges race track was a scene of animation and color as the field of twelve 2-year-olds went postward in the first race, the bugle sounding the formal opening of the racing season of the East for 1930. A crowd estimated at 12,000 lined the railings and jammed the pavilion as the yellow flag was raised in the dust at the half-mile post on the back stretch, even the ladies spurning the clubhouse for the open, where a hot sun was beating down. The favorites were Sweep All and Up, Dixiana Farm entry, and H. P. Phitney's Air Liner, the Whitney colt being at the shortest odds on the approximate board.

The Dixiana Farm colt, Sweep All, went to the front at the first jump and led all the way but was pressed in the stretch by the J. E. Davis colt, Gigantic, which was an outsider and would have won in another jump, Sweep All scoring by a head under the hardest kind of ride by the veteran Bill Kelsay, while Huff piloted the contender. The running mate of the winner, Admiral Grayson's colt, Up, was third, beaten three lengths. A. M. Herkness' Huntington was fourth a head behind Up. The Dixiana Farm is owned by Charles F. Fisher, Detroit manufacturer, who races in partnership with Admiral Grayson. The time for the half mile was 47 2-5, one-fifth of a second of the track record. The winner entry was $6.40 for $2 to win, $3.70 a place and $4.80 to show. Gigantic was $13.30 a place.

Close Finish Peps Goodly Crowd.

The close finish was like a tonic to the crowd and the backers of the winning entry were at the point of despairing of Sweep All, as Gigantic appeared to be wearing down the leader. The disappointing race of Air Liner, the favorite, was a blow to the majority of betters who follow the fortunes of the Whitney stable.

Walter J. Salmon's silks were carried to victory in the fifth race by Annapolis with Robertson up. Annapolis was held off the early pace while Sandy Ford was spreadeagling out in front, appearing to have the result cinched, with Ormonbird forcing the pace at the far turn. Annapolis had moved up close to Ormonbird and was second turning into the stretch. When Robertson gave Annapolis his head he lunged to the front almost at a bound near the sixteenth pole and won by a length and a half, running a mile and a sixteenth in 1:47 4-5. He paid $9.20. William Maher's Fairy Maiden was second, a head in front of Ormonbird, third, with Sandy Ford fourth.

Searington, in Field, Takes' Sixth.

Searington, which always has been partial to the Bowie racing strip, rewarded the "field" players by taking the sixth race at one mile and a furlong. The finish was a real thriller between the son of Purchase and Laurie, which had taken the lead a furlong out only to weaken in the final stretch. At that many in the crowd thought that he had held on long enough, but the officials thought otherwise. Searington paid the good price of $14.90 to win. The time of the race, 1:56 1-5, was good, considering the class of platers that were running.

Torrence, off quickly, took the lead and held sway until the bend into the home stretch was reached, where Laurie and Danger Signal fought it out, with the winner laying close back. Thymon came from far back to finish third, and might have been best as it was his first appearance in some time.

Villager, an 8-year-old son of Omar Khayyam, outgamed in the small field of claiming platers in the final race of the day, which was run over the route of a mile and a furlong. Off badly and last until reaching the three-quarter pole, came with a great rush through the final furlong to be up in time to outstay Blazing Cinch to the winning post. The latter had no excuse. Up close to the pace, took the lead at the head of the stretch, only to tire near the finish. Era ran well, to finish third. Keydet, after leading for a mile, stopped badly. The distance was run in 1:57 2-5.

Writers Fly to Bowie Track in 14 Minutes

Prerace attention at Bowie yesterday was divided between speculation on probable winners and the airplanes that landed scores of passengers on the infield after describing graceful circles about the grounds.

The planes blended well with the new Bowie idea. Transportation to the track has kept pace with the improvement of the plant that has come to be recognized as one of the major racing establishments of the East. Floyd Cox, chief pilot of the Washington Airport, transported turf writers to the track yesterday from the field across Highway Bridge in exactly 14 minutes. Due to the popularity of this mode of travel, the Washington Airport will run passenger planes to the track daily throughout the Maryland racing meets.

NATS' 2 HOME RUNS BEAT CHATTANOOGA

in the second with two out. Then Lamotte trippled, Treadaway singled and Kenna doubled to score two tallies. The counter made in the fourth resulted from singles by Gooch and Bigelow and Lamotte's sacrifice fly.

It remained for Rookie Jake Powell to give the Nats their start. He crashed out the first Washington homer in the fifth with the sacks empty, poling the ball all the way out of the park over the left field stands. In the next canto the Nats knotted the string. Myer's opening single, Gharrity's pass and Bluege's one-shot were responsible for one run, with Ruel singling home the other. On a short passed ball, Bluege was trapped between third and home to help kill the rally.

After Braxton had pitched three shut-out frames and Brown one, Cronin put the Nats in the van in the ninth when he pried the lid off the frame with a four-base clout into the left field stands. Brown and West singled in this frame but these blows were not put to any useful purpose. Brown saw to it tha the Nats lead stood up in the lower half of the inning.

BOWIE NOTES

JOCKEY C. CRITCHFIELD was suspended for three days for rough riding in the third race yesterday by the stewards.

S. Cimerak, who was a sensation in New Orleans, broke into the Eastern racing on his first day at Bowie yesterday, when he rode Bocaratone in the Inaugural Handicap, for the longest odds of the afternoon, paying $69.20 for $2.

Elmer Trueman is likely to be overtrained. He has in charge horses at this track for eleven owners, equaling the record of Max Hirsch last year. Trueman's horses are owned by Ral Parr; Howard Bruce, owner of Billy Barton, who is breaking into the flat racing game; Warrington Gillet, Janson Fisher, jr.; A. M. Herkness, of Philadelphia; Reid Riley, of Virginia; T. W. Durant, of New York; Mrs. Elmer Trueman, of Washington; Harrison Nesbit, of Philadelphia, and Misses Deedee and Betty Nesbit, of Philadelphia.

Jockey McCoy, the only jockey who wears glasses—they call him Goggles—is at Bowie for the first time in four years.

The four $10,000 stakes at Havre de Grace will close Saturday next. The Havre de Grace meeting begins on April 14.

Emil Herz, of future book memory on the Kentucky Derby, was in Bowie for the opening.

Vice President Charles Curtis has taken a private box in the Bowie clubhouse for the Bowie meeting.

William Brodie was an arrival from New Orleans with six horses.

REFEREE IS G. W. STUDENT.

Amadeus Caruso, high school basket ball referee, is now a student at George Washington University and from all reports, doing quite well, even though they're now calling 'em on him.

Grass Fire at Bowie Menaces Parked Cars

Maryland State policemen stationed at the Bowie Race Track yesterday extinguished a grass fire which threatened several hundred automobiles parked on the parking lot. The fire is believed to have been caused by a carelessly tossed match or cigarette. One automobile was burned almost completely.

Officers H. H. Haines, Fred Buchanan and Ted Klapproth discovered the fire and commandeered fire extinguishers from parked buses. A large crowd was attracted to the scene.

ST. JOHN'S CONQUERS BRITISH LACROSSE TEAM, 7-2

3,000 Watch Defeat of Invaders

Oxford - Cambridge Team Fails to Match Foes' Spirit.

St. John's Compiles Early Lead; British Defense Baffled.

By JACK ESPEY.

THE Oxford-Cambridge Lacrosse Team was repulsed in the opening skirmish of its United States invasion in quest of the John Flannery cup yesterday afternoon when it bowed to the champion American college team, St. John's, of Annapolis, by a score of 7 to 2, in Central Stadium.

Only about 3,000 persons, mostly high school students, turned out to view this international clash, the first of 14 games the Englishmen will play in a 22-day tour of this country. It was the first lacrosse game played in Washington since 1928, when Army, Navy, St. John's and Maryland competed in an Olympic elimination series. As far as could be ascertained at the field, the crowd did not include a representation of the diplomatic and official Government circle that had been anticipated.

Following the contest, both teams were entertained at a reception given in their honor at the British Embassy.

Englishmen Lack Determination.

Judging from the form they showed yesterday, the Englishmen are not as capable lacrosse players as was believed from reports that preceded them, and it appeared as if they do not take the sport as seriously as do American players. If the Johnnies may be regarded as perfect examples of the stick wielders of the United States.

There was a decided lack of decisiveness and determination about the visitors' play, as compared with that of the Annapolis players, but in their favor it must be said that they did not lag when the game got beyond their reach.

The game was safely in the hands of the Johnnies before the first half closed as it was apparent then that Oxford-Cambridge possessed neither attacking nor defensive power that could cope with the American twelve.

St. John's took the lead in the very first minute,—or first 30 seconds, to be exact—when Bob MacCartee, a Washington boy, eluded a Briton near the net and slammed the ball home. St. John's always was ahead thereafter, widening its advantage to 5-1 by half-time.

Americans Shine in British Line-Up.

The attack of Oxford-Cambridge, impotent though it was, flashed brilliance at times under the leadership of M. A. MacIntyre and L. H. Parinholt, two American members of the British line-up, and J. H. Fielden, a native Englishman whose speed afoot and daring stick work struck the fancy of the crowd.

But usually the goalward sallies of the visitors ended in poorly aimed shots and it was not particularly difficult for the Johnnies to keep play in English territory most of the 60 minutes.

One of the two Oxford-Cambridge goals was virtually chargeable to Goalkeeper Wolanski, of St. John's, who, in trying to intercept a shot by Astle, deflected the ball into his own net. This occurred in the last two minutes of play and closed the scoring for the day.

Pool, of St. John's, was the offensive star with a total of four goals, two in each half, while Ricketts, the 6-foot-3 goalie of Oxford-Cambridge, provided the defensive feature. He was kept busy parrying St. John's thrusts practically every minute.

Oxford-Cambridge's next game will be held tomorrow at Chestertown, Md., where the Washington College Team will be met. The John Flannery Cup, emblematic of English-American lacrosse supremacy, is held by Syracuse University at present. In 1923 a Syracuse team invaded England and regained the trophy which had been won from the Crescents of Brooklyn in 1922 by Oxford-Cambridge.

To win the cup the Englishmen must roll up a greater aggregate score than that made by the fourteen American teams on their schedule.

Prize Money Gained By Capital Bowlers

Although they failed to garner more than three of the eight championships, bowlers of Washington and vicinity gained a fair portion of the prize money in the National Duckpin Bowling Congress tournament just completed at Waterbury, Conn., according to the list of prize winners just tabulated. The Capital stars failed to cash in as they have in the two previous tournaments, however.

Local prize winners and their respective positions follow:

SIGNING OF GOSLIN TODAY SEEN LIKELY

pears to be a certainty that he will sign up tomorrow—Manager Walter Johnson's outfield plans naturally will undergo a change. There is hardly a question but what the "Wild Goose of the Potomac" will win his regular berth in left, with the veteran Sam Rice holding his right field job. This opens up a scrap for the honor of patrolling the middle pasture, with Sammy West and Red Barnes even-money favorites, and George Loepp and Jake Powell the long-shots. This battle should be a hot one.

That Powell, the Takoma Park sandlotter, has made an impression is indicated by a little joke Manager Johnson pulled this morning. Both Capt. Joe Judge and Catcher Bennie Tate are suffering from bad colds. "Are any of the outfielders sick?" the Nats leader was asked. "They're afraid to be, with Powell pounding that ball like he is," was the reply.

Marberry and Savidge To Face Chattanooga.

Joe Engel's lookouts will be met tomorrow for the last time this spring. Johnson plans to use Fred Marberry and Don Savidge in the box, this being the first chance the latter will have had to show his wares in competition.

One of the biggest causes for enthusiasm in the Washington Club camp this spring is the manner in which Catcher Muddy Ruel is rounding to form. His throwing arm appears to be as strong now as it has been at any time within the past three or four seasons.

Ball players are great on giving each other nicknames. Two which recently have been wished on Nat players are "Snooky" and "Duck-Eye" to which Liska and Thomas, respectively, reluctantly answer.

Catcher Gordon Phelps, who has been doing more than his share of work in practice, is fast getting down to

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"While the Woman Pays."

Dear Miss McDonald—Sixteen years ago, in the summer of 1913, July to be exact, I met a man, Soutnerner, good-looking, pleasing personality and the attraction was apparently mutual. We were both of a musical trend and so when an engagement for both c of town presented itself he suggested that we marry before we started on the journey. Now I was no girl in her teens. I was 26 years, but I was convent bred, had never cultivated men very much and cared less for them, although I had quite some attention. Well, we got a license, and a justice of the peace, a friend of his, so he said, married us. I forgot to mention I had a little money, the last of a snug sum left me by my father. We went to Connecticut to fill engagements. I learned in a very short time that I had married an idler, for after a few months he just gave up one position after another. Then my baby girl was born. Shortly before her birth he told me the marriage was a fake. I was stupefied and distracted, for I could not dare to tell any of my relatives. They would be horrified. Well, I worked, worked and worked and he played gentleman. He kept this over my head and, fearing publicity, I was afraid to leave him. When my girl was 3 we came to his home city. He introduced me to his people, one sister, one brother and also his mother and father. They were lovely people and kind., I begged my husband to have a ceremony performed. He promised but kept putting it off. Then my boy was born. One year later my mother-in-law died. I lost my best friend then. Before she passed away I told her everything. She left a dying request that the marriage be legalized. On November 16, 1917, we were married.

He went to Chicago five years ago and begged me to join him with the children. I found he was having various affairs and I came back here. He had a small pension, and when I came back home he told me to receive his pension at this end and sign for it. I did this. One year ago the pension check was recalled. I wrote asking why it had not been sent out and was advised by letter to call personally to see the disbursing clerk. I was afraid to go on account of signing the checks, and the amount, though small, $20 monthly, helped a lot with the children. Dear Miss McDonald, my boy, almost 13, in junior high and girl, 16, in business high, are too dear for words. The $20 monthly could do so much for them, from an educational standpoint. What would you advise? I know quite a few lawyers; but I can not tell them this story and so must consult some one who does not know me, for I have worked so constantly that of late I do not feel quite as physically fit as I once did. I am highly respected in the community and many reputable people would vouch for me. I am earning $35 weekly and can save very little as you can readily see. Can you advise me? "DECEIVED."

Go at once to a reputable lawyer and follow his advice. If you knew how often any lawyer listens to just such stories you would soon overcome the reluctance you now feel about telling your story. Your husband having given you power of attorney to sign for him in the matter of the pension, you are in no way liable for having done so, and unspeakable cad though he is he can be forced to provide for his children. Of course, there again you will probably choose to suffer in silence rather than force him to do his part. However, the law still insists that a man provide for the children he brings into the world and through the law you can get not only $20 a month but whatever sum the court deems fair. If you can not pay a lawyer's fee go to family court.

It is a sad commentary upon public education and private home training that there is today an army of men at large in this country who should each be tied by the right ankle to some stone pile, for they have strewn the land with abandoned children and nerve-wracked wives. In one city alone last year 1,200 able-bodied men abandoned young children and young wives. When women really enter politics something appropriate will be done for these heroes; decoration with a ball and chain would be suitable. Certainly they should not be at large establishing new families. Tell your story and make one craven pay.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

Weighing and Measuring Children.
(Division of Education, Department of the Interior.)

When weighing and measuring pupils, the examiner should see that both the scales and measuring implement are accurate. The scales can be tested by placing the sliding weight at zero and observing whether they balance, or by weighing oneself on accurate store scales and finding whether he weighs the same on the school scales. If no scales are to be had for a school, each child can be weighed at a store.

For measuring the height of the child, a tape line can be fastened to the wall or a yardstick nailed with floor, the 36 inches being allowed for in the measurement. The child the zero mark 36 inches from the should stand naturally with head, back and heels against the wall. A crayon box placed against the tape and wall on top of his head, or a book similarly placed, will serve to indicate his height.

Growth is not always regular, and measurements need not be made often except in cases which may be under special observation. At the beginning, the middle, and near the close of the school year would seem to be sufficient for the average pupil. A record of the height and weight should be kept.

The average measurements of children at different ages for comparison will be found in the Height-Weight Chart published by the United States Bureau of Education and other agencies.

COMBINATION all-electric Orthophonic Victrola and Radio; distinctively beautiful; Credenza model, in rich walnut; specially selected materials used in construction of this elaborate instrument; Victor craftsmen built it with meticulous care; because it has been used as a floor model, we have reduced it to $289; it was $1,000; if you want the utmost in musical perfection; terms may be arranged.

VICTROLA—Orthophonic; the most beautiful of all models; formerly $300; now $125, and you can still have terms; large, library console type, dull walnut finish; handsomely bound albums shelved at the sides; it will lend its subtle richness to your home if you come today before it is gone.

2 Reasons Why YOU Should Read The Post's NEW CLASSIFIED SECTION

THESE two items were selected at random from among the hundreds of equally wonderful values represented in the columns of this new section. Think of the almost unbelievable savings that fortunate purchasers will make—remember that YOU can obtain practically any article or service you may desire, at a comparable advantage, by consulting these conveniently arranged and indexed classifications before you buy.

Read for Profit

Nearly everything in the classified section is presented under unusual circumstances that react to the advantage of the reader . . . There is the family removing to a distant point, who must dispose of their practically new furniture at sacrificial prices; the house that must be sold immediately to settle an estate; the roadster that has been replaced by a larger car to meet the needs of a growing family; hundreds of articles and services of which you are in need, all on terms that will prove most interesting.

A Double Service

BUSINESS OUTLOOK DECLARED BRIGHT BY TRADE EDITORS

Optimism Is Gleaned From Contact With Officials of Government.

ACTUAL RESULTS CITED IN VARIOUS INDUSTRIES

Food, Iron and Steel, Auto and Electric Fields Are Showing Progress.

General optimism for business recovery pervaded the summaries presented last night over the Columbia Broadcasting System by editors of six important trade papers serving the country's basic industries.

Their encouraging predictions were based on the intimate contact they have with business and information gleaned from the conferences they have held with President Hoover, Secretary of Labor Davis, Julius Barnes, chairman of the board of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and Assistant Secretary of Commerce Klein.

Actual results are being obtained by President Hoover's attempt to halt the recession following the stock market collapse, said G. D. Crain, jr., editor and publisher of class and industrial marketing. "Employment is improving with the consequent increase in buying power. Building is picking up and though industrial activity generally is not proceeding at the record-breaking pace of last year, it is good and is getting better."

Food Stocks' Gain Cited.

Paul Wooten, Washington correspondent for several trade journals, next introduced Paul L. Aldrich, an editor of food journals. Mr. Aldrich declared that food stocks showed a net gain of 45 cents per share in the past two weeks. In the last two weeks, he said, there has been a check of the decline of commodity prices.

Iron and steel are giving a surprisingly good showing, according to W. W. Macon, editor of the Iron Age. Since the collapse of the market, he said, iron and steel are receiving their main support from public utilities and large industrial companies. For the immediate future, he declared, much is laid up in public work. "Governmental programs have had their effect, and a general activity in the industry is expected. Industries serving the ultimate customer continue to pursue a policy of extreme caution."

In practically every line of electrical manufacturing, business is good, according to L. W. W. Morrow, editor of the Electrical World. Figures show, he said, that business in all phases of the industry is greater for the first quarter of this year than in the same period of 1929.

Auto Outlook Bright.

The automotive industry is on its way to a good average business year, said Norman G. Shidle, editor of several automotive journals. "Automobile business for the first quarter of 1930 was better than in similar periods of the five preceding years. In this year manufacturers will produce $4,100,000,000 worth of vehicles," he said.

Dr. Virgil Jordan, economist of the Business Week, summarizing general business conditions, pointed out that business is entering upon a period of spring expansion.

"The first quarter of the year," he said, "was disappointing. The recession is running true to form. But, thanks to the cooperative efforts of the Government and business, we have probably seen the bottom of the slump, and we will soon begin to climb out of the depression."

Illness Is Fatal To Fred S. Smith

Man, Well Known in Civic and Business Affairs, Dies at Home.

Fred S. Smith, 67 years old, of 3601 Connecticut avenue, died yesterday afternoon at his residence after a year's illness.

Mr. Smith was well known in Washington, where he had been active in business and civic affairs for many years. He was connected with the Railway Mail Contracting Co., and R. J. Bell Contracting Co. He was a member of the Racquet Club, the Blue Ridge Rod and Gun Club, the Society of Oldest Inhabitants, and formerly was a member of the old Commercial Club and Columbia Athletic Club. He was also a director of the Second National Bank.

He was the son of Walter H. Smith, of Ohio, who came to Washington first as an officer under Gen. Grant, and remained here to live. Surviving Mr. Smith is his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, and one stepdaughter, Mrs. Paul R. Marsh, of Washington.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Clyde J. Nichols Funeral Parlor at 4209 Ninth street northwest. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Chinese Merchant Group Meeting Set

Pratt Tells Police to Give Every Assistance to On Leong Members.

The East will bow to the West Saturday when the On Leong Merchants Association will open its annual convention at 344 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. The convention will last about a month.

Maj. H. G. Pratt, superintendent of police, in a statement to the Daily Bulletin, an organ of the local police asks that every courtesy be extended to the Orientals. His statement follows:

"This convention will bring to this city a large number of Chinese merchants from all parts of the United States, and members of the force are directed to afford these visitors all possible assistance during their stay in this city."

Eckener Radio Speech For Tonight Canceled

The address which Dr. Hugo Eckener sent word from Richmond, Va., scheduled to make over a National Broadcasting Co. network tonight has been canceled.

Late yesterday afternoon Dr. Eckeenr sent word from Richmond, Va., that because fo strenuous activity during the past few days he was too exhausted physically to undertake preparation of the radio speech.

PLANNED FOR CATHEDRAL

Architect's drawing of the south transept and central tower of Washington Cathedral. Funds for this construction are sought by a committee headed by Gen. John J. Pershing.

DOMESTIC TROUBLE CAUSE OF SUICIDE

Man Uses Gas to End Life; Note Says Death "Only Means Out."

SUCCUMBS IN HOSPITAL

The domestic troubles of John Harrison Branch, 32-year-old cabinetmaker, of Sixteenth and S streets northwest, came to a climax in his death at Emergency Hospital yesterday after he had been found unconscious in his apartment with gas escaping from three open stove jets an hour previous.

A note found near the man declared he had been despondent because of marital difficulties and chose death as "the only means out."

Detecting the odor of gas, Geneva Staples, colored elevator girl at the apartment, notified the resident manager, Mrs. Mary Lamore, who in turn called Mrs. Mary Branch, 27-year-old wife of the dead man. Mrs. Branch instructed Mrs. Lamore to break in the door. Mrs. Branch is employed at an F street store and was at work when the tragedy occurred.

The rescue squad worked over the man for nearly an hour and later removed him to the hospital. The couple had no children. Mr. Branch was employed at Hutchinson's Furniture Co., 1816 Fifth street northwest.

Alleged Ejection Is Taken to Court

Pair Is Ordered to Show Cause Why Woman Should Not Visit Sister.

Justice Alfred A. Wheat in District Supreme Court yesterday issued a rule requesting Maude C. and William Barber, owners of premises at 1406 Newton street northwest, to show cause Friday why they should not be restrained from preventing Eva J. Agee, of 2016 Sixteenth street northwest, from visiting her sister and her brother-in-law, who reside at the address.

The rule was issued on a petition for injunction which was filed in the equity branch of the court coincidentally with the filing of a suit for $3,000 against the Barbers in the law branch.

The woman tells the court, through Attorneys Welch, Daily & Welch, that she attempted to visit her sister and brother-in-law on March 10 and was forcibly ejected by the Barbers. She charges that the defendants called her vile names.

Cemetery Bill Hit By Commissioners

District Chiefs Disapprove Proposed Expansion Measure.

Disapproval of a pending bill dealing with expansion of cemeteries was expressed by the District Commissioners yesterday in a report to the House District committee.

The only difference between the law as the bill would amend it and as it stands now, the Commissioners said, would be that a person or a cemetery association, under the amended law, could extend a cemetery at will, provided consent of property owners within a radius of 200 yards is obtained.

The law should be left, the Commissioners said, so that the present additional requirement of a permit from the District Commissioners would be retained.

Election Set for May 7 By Women's City Club

The Women's City Club has announced that elections will be held May 7, when three major officers, seven directors, and delegates to the District Federation of Women's Clubs will be elected.

Mrs. William Lee Corbin and Miss Nellie Ingels are candidates for president: Miss Fay Bentley, Mrs. Grattan Kerans and Mrs. Gertrude Lyons for first vice president; Miss Julia D Connor and Miss M. Elizabeth Waldecker for recording secretary.

Hoover Names Snyder For New Marshal Term

The nomination of Edgar C. Snyder for another term as United States marshal for the District of Columbia was sent to the Senate yesterday by President Hoover.

Marshal Snyder now is serving his second term. Before he was appointed by President Harding he had been the Washington correspondent of the Omaha Bee.

$450,000 DONATED TO CATHEDRAL FUND

Gift of $250,000 Conditioned on $850,000 Additional Being Raised.

TO COMPLETE TRANSEPT

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, announced at a meeting of the national executive committee yesterday of the Washington Cathedral that a conditional gift of $250,000 and other benefactions totaling $200,000 had been received to assist in completing the north and south transepts of the cathedral for use during the George Washington bicentennial observance in 1932.

The conditional gift was offered with the provision that $850,000 additional be secured for the building of one of the transepts or arms of the cross-shaped edifice. With the gifts of $200,000 now available, only $650,000 more is needed to obtain the conditional gift of a quarter of a million dollars.

The prospective donor of this gift is said to have made a previous gift of a similar amount. Bishop Freeman declined to provide any indication of his identity other than to say that he is a business man of large interests who regards the cathedral as an enterprise of national significance.

Comment by Bishop.

Commenting on the building of the north and south transepts, Bishop Freeman said:

"It is of special importance because it contemplates the carrying forward of the cathedral to a point where it may be used for worship and where space may be had to accommodate congregations of approximately 5,500 persons.

"The importance of this undertaking can not be overstated and the urgency of carrying it to completion by 1932 is made more evident when we envision the great national service it is proposed to hold in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

"Appropriate, indeed, does such a service appear when we recall that in the plans for the Capital City, as conceived by Washington and designed by L'Enfant, a majestic shrine was to stand as the embodiment of the Nation's faith in God."

Fifth Great Unit.

The transepts with the crossing form the fifth great unit of the Cathedral fabric. Into its construction must go more than 250,000 cubic feet of stone. The building of this unit was started last autumn when the first of the stones was placed in the north transept with impressive ceremonies.

Major portions of the Cathedral fabric already structurally complete include the foundations, the nave crypt, three crypt chapels, the apse and the choir.

Former United States Senator George Wharton Pepper, chairman of the national executive committee, presided over the session of the committee yesterday.

Maintenance Petition Is Given Court by Wife

Declaring that her husband has never properly supported her and their three children, Lucy P. Long, of 206 Fourteenth street northeast, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to compel her husband, Stanley F. Long, of 1706 A street southeast, to maintain them separately. The couple was married Christmas Eve of 1918.

The wife alleges that as a result of her husband's failure to provide for them properly that she and the children were forced to go to the Tuberculosis Clinic of the Health Department to receive nourishment. Long also is charged with excessive intoxication during February of 1928. He is said to be employed by the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and to make a salary of $150 a month. Attorney W. A. Coombe appears for the wife.

MUCH DUPLICATION IN CAPITAL OFFICES CHARGED IN SPEECH

Columbia Heights Citizens Hear System in City Criticized.

SCHMECKEBIER ASKS FOR CITY MANAGER

Government Researcher Is Opposed to Suffrage in District.

The District government in its present form was described as cumbersome and inefficient largely because the duties of the Federal and District powers overlap and are illogically divided and because there is a lack of concentrated executive ability in the municipal government, Dr. Lawrence F. Schmeckebier, of the Institute of Government Research, declared last night in an address before the Columbia Heights Citizens Association at the Columbia Heights Christian Church.

A city manager of form of government with a legislative council, on which senators and representatives would serve as ex officio members, was suggested by the speaker as the most practical system for Washington. He said, however, that District suffrage on local affairs would be "unfortunate" and "dangerous."

Examples Are Cited.

As examples of mixed Federal and District duties, Dr. Schmeckebier pointed out that the city has four police systems—Metropolitan, Park, Capitol and Department of Agriculture—and suffers from a confusion of duties of the District attorney's and the corporation counsel's offices, as well as in administration of parks and playgrounds.

The Congressional District committee has a thankless task, the speaker said, and is burdened with countless District duties that should properly be handled by minor hired municipal officials.

The association nominated the following officers for the new year, the election being scheduled for next month: President, Charles T. Clayton and W. I. Swanton; first vice president, Dr. Seneca B. Bain, incumbent; second vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hayden, incumbent; third vice president, Albert E. Westrater; recording secretary, W. B. Hargett, incumbent; treasurer, William C. Strauss, incumbent; delegates to the Federation, J. Clinton Hiatt, incumbent; Fred J. Rice, and William H. Johnston.

Street Car Fare Raise Hit.

A resolution, proposed by Mr. Swanton, was adopted to the effect that any higher street car fare should be opposed and, if necessary, the Public Utilities Commission should reduce the present 4 per cent tax on gross receipts to prevent such a move.

The organization also went on record as recommending erection of a fire engine or truck company house in the vicinity of Eleventh and V streets northwest. This proposal was made by J. Clinton Hiatt.

Opiate Victim Wins Court's Sympathy

Probation Granted to Man in Alleged Attempt at Auto Theft.

Pleading that he was under the influence of an opiate administered preparatory to an operation on his spine at the time he was arrested last Friday on a charge of intoxication and attempted joy-riding, Gordon E. Davis, said to be an Arkansas lawyer, won the sympathy of Judge Isaac B. Hitt in Police Court yesterday and his case was referred to the probation officer.

Davis is said to have been arrested on complaint of Harry B. Cornwell, of 1308 D street northwest, when he is alleged to have been apprehendd in the act of starting Mr. Cornwell's automobile which was parked near C and Thirteen-and-one-half streets northwest.

Davis told the court that he had been operated on at Gallinger Hospital two hours before his arrest and that he was still under the influence of the heavy drug which had been given to relieve the pain.

Detective Gets Leave After Injury in Raid

Kicked while making a raid Friday in a building at Fourteenth and D streets northwest to arrest eight persons on charges of participating in a crap game, First Precinct Detective Raymond B. Carroll, 37 years old, has been granted sick leave.

He incurred painful hurts as he fell to the floor when the blow was administered by an unidentified person. He was reported yesterday as improving at his home, 3853 Beechner street northwest.

Wisconsin Avenue Widening Favored.

A bill to authorize the Commissioners to widen Wisconsin avenue near its intersection with Thirty-seventh street was approved by the Senate District committee yesterday.

BOARD WILL SEEK DATA ABOUT REDS IN CITY'S SCHOOLS

Communists and Enemies Are Expected to Be at Meeting Today.

INVITATION OF CARUSI IGNORED BY FACTIONS

Move to Reduce Number of Kindergarten Teachers to Be Discussed.

Desire of the Board of Education to find out about the operations of radicals in District schools is expected to result this afternoon in a large attendance of juvenile Communists and their enemies at a meeting of the board at the Franklin Administration Building.

Up until a late hour yesterday no formal notice had been received by school authorities from either Communists or their enemies in response to the invitation of Charles F. Carusi, president of the Board of Education, that they would be welcome at the board meeting this afternoon. In view of this chilly reception, school officials believe that the Communists, and those who claim to know about the Communists, are planning a surprise visit.

Communists' Activities Doubted.

The meeting of the board from 4 o'clock on is to be devoted to Communism. The Board of Education has decided to do this for the purpose of determining if there is any foundation for the reports that Communists are spreading propaganda in the schools of the city. At present, members of the board are not convinced that such a situation actually exists.

In addition to this, the board will discuss the proviso of the District appropriations committee that kindergarten teachers be reduced in the District. The proviso of the congressional committee recommends that vacancies in the first and fourth grades of the elementary schools, inclusive, be filled by kindergarten teachers instead of other teachers being appointed to fill these vacancies. The committee has expressed the belief that kindergarten teachers could teach a larger number of children than at present.

Mrs. Rafter Opposes Move.

Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, president of the Congress of Parent-Teachers Associations, will appear before the board and voice opposition to the recommendation of the District committee. She will ask the board to oppose the committee recommendation.

Another feature of the meeting this afternoon will be the formal hanging of a picture of George F. T. Cook, who was superintendent of the colored schools of the District for 32 years before all the schools were placed under one superintendency. The picture has been presented by the Columbian Education Association, of which Grant Lucas is president.

District Half-Holiday Bill Passed by Senate

The Jones bill to grant a Saturday half-holiday the year around to laborers and mechanics in all Government services except the postal service and the Government Printing Office was passed by the Senate yesterday and sent to the House.

Those who would receive the Saturday half-holiday are laborers, helpers, skilled mechanics and semi-skilled mechanics. Where their superiors decided that their services were needed, however, they would be denied the half-day.

Meeting Tomorrow On Retirement Bill

Senate, House Conferees to Gather Following Delay by Tariff.

The Senate and House conferees on the new Dale-Lehlbach retirement bill will meet tomorrow morning, it was announced yesterday.

The House passed the bill more than two weeks ago, but a meeting of the conferees was delayed by the tariff legislation in the Senate.

The Senate conferees are Senators Dale (Republican), of Vermont; Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, and McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee. The House conferees are Representatives Lehlbach (Republican), of New Jersey; Smith (Republican), of Idaho, and Jeffers (Democrat), of Alabama.

Amendments Presented To District Measure

Two amendments to the District appropriation bill were offered yesterday by Senator Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland.

One provides for the paving of New Hampshire avenue from Buchanan street to the Maryland line at a cost of $190,000, and the other provides for a viaduct or an overpass to carry New Hampshire avenue over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks at a cost of $185,000.

ROBBER, TRIMMER AND SKINNER SUED

Woman Seeking to Recover $10,000 to Give Names on Learning Them.

FOUR ARE DEFENDANTS

Declaring she had been defrauded of more than $10,000 in a real estate transaction, Maude S. McLemore, of the Southern Apartments, filed suit for accounting yesterday in District Supreme Court against Otto B. McLean, John Robber, William Trimmer and James Skinner.

McLean is said to be a resident of the District, but is alleged to be temporarily living at Great Neck, N. Y., "for the purpose of evading the service of process." The names of the other three defendants are admittedly fictitious, the petitioner promising to substitute the real names when she learns them.

The petitioner tells the court that on February 28, 1927, McLean and three other men were copartners in the special purpose of acquiring the property at 1514 K street northwest, and signed a contract to purchase the premises through a "straw man."

McLean, she alleges approached her and told her that if she would invest $10,000 in the enterprise the purchase could be consummated immediately and she would participate in the division of the resale of the property. She alleges that she paid in her $10,000 and that ultimately the property was bought and resold at a profit of $40,000.

She asserts further that after the resale the defendants, "confederating together, and for the purpose of their mutual benefit, refused and since have refused to account" to her concerning the transaction. She alleges that she has not only been defrauded out of her $10,000, but the interest and her share of the profits. Attorney Edmund Burke appears for the petitioner.

Headache Potion Makes Woman Ill

Fire Rescue Squad Called as Housewife Falls Suddenly to Floor.

Serious poison effects from an overdose of a headache medicine were received by Mrs. Isabel Conover, 48 years old, at 8:55 o'clock last night at her home, 1640 Foxhall road northwest.

Her fall to the floor in the kitchen, interrupting her attempt to light a jet on the gas stove, was heard in another room by her husband, John Conover, mechanical engineer of the Treasury Department, who summoned Dr. M. E. Donohue from his home at 1717 Thirty-fifth street northwest.

The physician in turn called Fire Rescue Squad No. 1, whose members revived her after 20 minutes work. She was removed to Georgetown Hospital.

Drama Conference Session Is Opened

Demonstrations of Make-Up and 1930 Prize Play Are Presented.

The 1930 Drama Conference of Washington, sponsored by the Community Drama Guild and held at the Franklin Administration Building, opened its first main session last night with a program which included discussions and demonstrations of make-up and early drama and the 1930 prize play, "The White Dress," by Ruth Welty.

Tonight's session will include talks on scene construction and lighting and publication and selection of plays. Norman Lee Swartout, of New York, will be the principal speaker, and Mrs. William J. Peters will lead the discussions. Other speakers will be well-known leaders in theatrics.

Tomorrow there will be two main sessions, one at the Wilson Normal School at 2 o'clock and the other at the Franklin Building at 8 o'clock. Sessions are open to the public, with $1 as the registration fee.

Passover Fund Pleas Unauthorized, Is Claim

Moved by reports that several people have been soliciting funds for Passover supplies in the name of the "United Hebrew Charities" and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Hebrew Home for the Aged, Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, president of the United Hebrew Relief Society, announced yesterday that no one has been authorized by her organization to solicit funds for this purpose.

Mrs. Goldsmith learned of the solicitation through inquiries at the office of the Jewish Welfare Federation by Jewish business men of the city who had been asked for funds.

FORMER POLICEMAN HELD ON DRUG COUNT

Proprietor of Riding Stable and Another Accused of Selling Heroin.

$5,000 BONDS ARE SET

Guy E. Knott, a former member of the Police Department and said to be proprietor of a riding stable near Twenty-first and L streets northwest patronized by many of Washington's social elect, was held under $5,000 bond yesterday by United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage for his appearance this afternoon at 2 o'clock for a hearing on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act. Knott pleaded not guilty.

John C. (Jack) Callahan, said to be a companion of Knott, was arraigned at the same time and was held under a similar bond. He pleaded guilty.

The two men were arrested early yesterday morning by a raiding squad composed of narcotic agents and policemen at an apartment house on G street northwest near Fourth street. The raiders were led by Narcotic Agent Sanders.

Each of the men is alleged in warrants sworn to by the agents to have possessed and sold narcotics on two days last week. Their arrest is said to have followed the sale of 30 grains of heroin to an undercover agent for $30.

Attorney John P. Mullen appeared for the two defendants.

Callahan has another narcotic charge pending against him and was under bond on that charge at the time of his arrest.

Betty Allen, comely 24-year-old clerk, of Seventeenth street near S northwest, was arrested by Detective Sergts. Saunders and Dalgliish, of the narcotic squad, late Monday night. The young lady and a companion, who was released after questioning, were held in connection with alleged forged prescriptions.

Three instances in which a physician's name was forged to a prescription calling for a medicine containing a narcotic are being investigated. It is said by police that the pad was stolen from a doctor's office some time ago. Miss Allen is said to have had her companion go to a drug store with the blanks.

Drive Inquiries Planned By Jewish Federation

Acting upon the request of a number of Jewish citizens of the District, the Jewish Welfare Federation has decided to take over the investigation and indorsement or nonindorsement of organizations which collect funds for Jewish activities which are not in the Community Chest.

Decision to this effect was reached at the regular meeting of the federation at which the president, Maj. Julius I. Peyser, presided. A number of agencies, it was explained, doing national work for the Jewish people, come to Washington to collect funds. Frequently questions arise as to whether these agencies are deserving of support and it is to determine this question that the federation has taken over the investigation of all such appeals.

Boy, 15, Injured by Gun Thought to Be Unloaded

Another gun "which wasn't loaded" resulted in the injury of Edward Wiseman, 15 years old, of the 300 block of Thirteenth street northeast.

Young Wiseman was playing with the revolver when it accidentally exploded, wounding him slightly in the left hand. He was treated at Casualty Hospital.

New York Society Independents Win

Regular Ticket Is Beaten in Annual Election of Officers.

An independent faction of the New York State Society of the District defeated the regular ticket of the society in the annual election of officers last night at the Willard Hotel. Dr. William J. Davis headed the independents, while Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, was leader of the regulars. The Bloom faction has been in office for several years.

Dr. Davis was elected president; M. F. Driscoll, first vice president; Mrs. W. A. Carr, second vice president; Mrs. C. F. Hammerly, third vice president; Leon E. A. Chagnon, secretary; Grant R. Denniston, treasurer, and Miss Helen M. Brown, historian.

The following were elected trustees: Representative John Tabor, Representative Daniel Read, H. J. McClure, the defeated president of the society, Mrs. Louise Evanson, W. A Carr and Harry J Hunt.

AMENDMENT ASKS TWO-CENT TROLLEY FARE FOR CHILDREN

Appended to Resolution on Merger by District Subcommittee.

PRESENT RATE SAFE FOR YEAR AND HALF

Decision on Full Measure to Be Asked Today of Committee.

An amendment providing for a 2-cent car fare for school children here was tacked onto the traction merger resolution yesterday by the utilities subcommittee of the House District committee, and then the resolution was favorably reported to the full committee.

The subcommittee also made another important change in the resolution. It provided that the present rate of fare shall be continued for eighteen months instead of two years, as the resolution provided originally.

The heads of the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co., which would be merged under the resolution, had fought the two-year fare guarantee, saying that so long as it remained in the resolution, a merger was impossible.

Section 12 of the resolution, which takes away from the courts their power to overrule decisions of the Public Utilities Commission, was left in the resolution by the subcommittee, notwithstanding the plea of the traction companies that it be incorporated in a separate bill, as was done on the Senate side of the Capitol.

Representative McLeod (Republican), of Michigan, chairman of the utilities subcommittee and acting chairman of the full District committee, will ask the latter to report out the resolution at its meeting today.

Poison Try Hinted In Divorce Action

Woman Alleges Husband Threatened Trio of Children.

Alleging that her husband early this year threatened to poison their three children, Mrs. Mary Louise Tolzman, of 624 F street northeast, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to grant her a limited divorce from August Tolzman, said to be a building superintendent.

The Tolzmans were married July 7, 1910, and the wife alleges that two years after their marriage her husband began to display a cruel and jealous disposition. She charges that he has falsely accused her in the presence of strangers of being with another man and that last January he struck her across the shoulders. She also asserts that he struck their 15-year-old son.

Mrs. Tolzman alleges that her husband draws a pension from the Navy in addition to his salary and gratuities and asks that she be awarded permanent alimony and custody of the children. Attorneys Hyman M. Goldstein and Charles E. Quigley appear for the wife.

Bicentennial Talk Is Heard by Club

George Rothwell Brown Cites Advertising Opportunity.

Washington's greatest advertising opportunity will be the bicentennial of Washington's Birthday, to be held in 1932. This was the substance of the talk by George Rothwell Brown, Washington newspaper man, to the Advertising Club of Washington, at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the National Press Club Auditorium.

Mr. Brown told of the festivities during celebrations in early Washington. He read excerpts from newspaper accounts of the celebrations, and conveyed to his listeners an impression of the festival atmosphere in the early years of the city.

David P. Porterfield, director of marketing, United Typothetae of America, was the other speaker. He outlined the natural and acquired human desires which, he said, are receptive to proper advertising appeals. James Rotto, first vice president, presided. Ernest Johnston, president, introduced the chairman for the meeting.

Commission Spikes $425,000 Request

Body Deems Appropriation Measure for Park Lands Inadvisable.

The District Commissioners yesterday disapproved a special bill calling for appropriation of $425,000 for the purchase of certain land south of T street extended for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The Park and Planning Commission, the Commissioners pointed out in a report to the House District committee, is responsible for the acquisition of park lands in the District and decision as to acquisition of a particular piece of property should be left to the Park and Planning Commission, especially as the land it was proposed to acquire would be placed entirely under the jurisdiction of the Army Engineer Office.

Furthermore, the Commissioners said, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission has an annual appropriation of $1,000,000 out of which to purchase park lands and the appropriation of the additional amount is "inadvisable and unduly increases the burden upon the District of Columbia."

Police of Capital Hunt For Alleged Gangster

Local police are searching for Leonardo Scavone, 47 years old, alleged gangster, who is said to be wanted in Buffalo, N. Y., for murder. Scavone has taken up his abode near the Capital, according to Buffalo police.

The murder for which Scavone is wanted, according to them, is that of Louis Vercelli. Vercelli is alleged to have been murdered after a dispute over a liquor deal.
